PRESIDENT MUM ON CONSTITUTION AT PRESS TALK

Turns Off Reporters' Questions by Asking Why They Want to Spoil an Otherwise Happy Day.

CONSIDERS QUICK BUENOS AIRES TRIP

Would Open Conference, Leave Next Day — His Chief Task for Week Will Be the Budget.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—President Roosevelt, in a jovial, confident mood and looking very fit today, held his first press conference since his landslide re-election Tuesday. More than the usual number of reporters crowded into his office, drawn by the hope that he might disclose his plans for his second term, an expectation that was not realized. The session lasted about 20 minutes and brought out the following:

The President declined to discuss his attitude toward constitutional amendment.

He expects to devote the next week to a study of the budget to be submitted to Congress in January.

He has two tentative personal plans for the period between now and the middle of December. The first would take him on a Southern fishing holiday; the other would take him to Buenos Aires to participate in the opening ceremonies of the Pan-American peace conference Dec. 1.

"My Conservative Tendencies."

The President's own predictions as to his electoral vote ranged from 315 three weeks before the Democratic convention to a forecast of 390 made Sunday night. Asked what had "frightened" him, he replied with a laugh: "It was my well-known conservative tendencies."

He expects to make no major appointments for some time, holding them possibly for a month or six weeks.

He was delighted at the reception given him by the citizens of Washington on his arrival from Hyde Park early this morning. More than 100,000 persons heard him speak briefly from his automobile at the Union Station Plaza.

He feels extremely well, although he has a slight rasp in his voice. With the exception of a talk tonight opening the 1936 conference for the mobilization of human needs, and another brief talk tomorrow, he does not intend to speak over the radio for a long, long time.

The question as to the constitutional amendment was: "Mr. President, now that the election is over, will you discuss your attitude toward a constitutional amendment to carry out the principles of the New Deal?"

Won't Discuss Amendment.

The President looked quizzically at the reporter, as if to identify him, and replied in the negative, and then, apparently with the rousing reception and the ramifications of the question in mind, asked with a laugh why he should spoil an otherwise happy day.

While the phrasing of the question did not limit the requested discussion to the press conference, the President so delimited it in his answer.

Hard on the heels of the President's laughing observation, another reporter asked:

"Will you wait until the Supreme Court has acted on pending cases before you draft other legislation?"

Still in happy mood the President suggested that the day be kept a holiday.

Will Start On Budget.

Leaving Hyde Park last night, the President told a send-off crowd at the depot that he was going back to Washington "to try to balance the budget." He told reporters today that he expected to start conferences at once with acting Budget Director Bell and to spend most of the next five days on a study of departmental estimates of needs for the next fiscal year.

His tentative plans after these conferences, he said, would be determined by the day to day events at home and abroad. The first tentative plan would take him on a leisurely fishing trip as far south as Trinidad in the British West Indies for about two weeks and the other, a more hurried affair, would put in at Buenos Aires on Dec. 1 for participation at the opening of the Pan-American conference. Should he follow the second plan, he would make a short stop in Brazil. Both call for departure from

100,000 Cheer Roosevelt In Wild Reception When He Returns to Washington

11 Bands Play as President Drives Along Gaily Decorated Streets—Government Workers Told It's All Right to Be Late.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—President Roosevelt received an uproarious welcome today on his return to the capital. Members of his Cabinet, other officials and thousands of Government workers, crowded into a festooned railroad station and along flag-draped Pennsylvania avenue to cheer the chief executive.

The hastily but effectively organized celebration today presented sharp contrast to the usual reaction of Washington to the arrival of a presidential train. Usually a chief executive's comings and goings draw scant attention.

The music of 11 bands enlivened the welcome and sped the presidential procession to the White House after the Union Station greeting.

All Right to Be Late to Work.

Police were prepared for a crowd of 200,000 at the station and along the line of the "parade," and high police officials estimated that well over 100,000 were on hand. Government workers were told that it was all right for them to be late to work. School children were released. Stores delayed their usual early morning opening.

As the presidential special rolled into the station, the Navy band swung into "Happy Days Are Here Again." Other bands along the route later took up the tune.

An overcast sky cleared shortly before the President's arrival, and by the time his train arrived at 8:25 a. m., the sun was shining brightly, dispelling some of the morning chill.

The union station crowd sent up a cheer as the President opened a brief address with the familiar "My friends."

Smiling, and obviously still happy over his landslide election victory, Mr. Roosevelt added:

"I formed the very good habit of coming to Washington when I was 5 years old and I am glad that habit will not be broken during the next four years."

The roaring that sounded again when the chief executive referred to those in the crowded station plaza as "My old neighbors" and expressed thanks for a "wonderful greeting," echoed in a flowing wave as the presidential motor cavalcade drove up gaily decorated Pennsylvania avenue.

Street of Parades.

A motorcycle escort of 20 policemen preceded the President's car as it moved along the famous "Street of Parades." Hat in hand, smiling broadly, Mr. Roosevelt nodded first to one side and then to the other to citizens lined four and five deep along the roped-off curbstones.

After the President reached the White House and went inside the crowd remained cheering on the front lawn and kept it up so persistently that Mr. Roosevelt and his wife came out a second time. The President, walking on the arm of his elder son, James, strode up and down on the portico, waving and smiling to the throng.

The President ended a five-day sojourn at his Dutchess County estate at Hyde Park last night and started by special train for Washington. Townspeople waved goodby to him as he boarded his private car Pioneer.

He had given a luncheon in the afternoon to Eugenio, Cardinal Pacelli, Papal Secretary of State; Bishops Francis J. Spellman of Boston and Stephen J. Donohue of New York; Enrico Galleazzi, secretary to the Cardinal; Joseph P. Kennedy and Frank C. Walker, former New Deal officials, and the wives of the latter two.

The President told the cheering send-off crowd at Hyde Park he was going back to Washington "to try to balance the budget, thereby carrying out the first campaign pledge" of the New Deal.

Hundreds of persons from Hyde Park, Poughkeepsie and other Dutchess County towns gathered at the little village station. Sky-rockets and flares lit up the dark station and a band played "Hail to the Chief" and other airs.

LORD CARNARVON AND HEIRESS DISAGREE AND WEDDING IS OFF

He Was to Have Married the Hon. Tanis Guinness Montagu in Baltimore.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The Earl of Carnarvon, son of the nobleman who opened the tomb of King Tut, and the Hon. Tanis Guinness Montagu, just weren't at home to anyone today.

They were to have been married in Baltimore yesterday, but the wedding did not take place. They raced back to New York.

After attempts at reconciliation were reported to have failed, Lord Carnarvon booked passage on the liner Europa, scheduled to sail tonight for Europe. The marriage would have linked two of Europe's wealthiest families.

The Hon. Tanis inherited half the Guinness stout beverage millions, while Lord Carnarvon inherited $20,000,000 from his father.

Lord Carnarvon succeeded to his title on the death of his father in 1923. As Baron Portchester he married Miss Catherine Wendell, daughter of Jacob Wendell of New York, in 1922. They were divorced last April.

The Hon. Tanis said: "The marriage is definitely off, by mutual consent."

WISCONSIN RECOVERY ACT UPSET IN FEDERAL COURT

Enforcement of State Codes Also Enjoined on Petition of Painter and Cleaner.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 6.—A three-Judge Federal Court today granted interlocutory injunctions to a Milwaukee painting contractor and a Waukegan (Ill.) cleaning and dyeing firm against the enforcement of the Wisconsin recovery act and the State codes for the painting and dry cleaning industries.

Suel O. Arnold, associated with John M. O'Brien as counsel for Edward A. Weise, the painting contractor, said the Court's rulings in effect declared the State recovery act and the codes to be unconstitutional.

The decisions were given by Federal Judge F. A. Geiger of Milwaukee, Federal Circuit Judge William Sparks of Chicago, and Federal Judge John P. Barnes of Chicago. They were unanimous.

ARBITERS AWARD PAY RISE TO BARGE LINE STEVEDORES

Increase from 44 Cents to 50 an Hour Will Be Retroactive to End of Strike Sept. 26.

Freight handlers employed by the Federal Barge Lines, who were on strike from Sept. 8 to 26, won a wage increase from 44 cents to 50 cents an hour in a decision announced today by an arbitration committee headed by A. P. Norris, vice-president of the Continental Export Co.

Other members of the committee were Glenn Taylor, representing the barge line, and J. P. Polk, representing the workers. The decision affects 246 men.

The pay increase will be retroactive to Sept. 26, the day the men returned to work. Employed at docks at the foot of North Market street and in East St. Louis, they are members of the International Longshoremen's Association, a union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

HELD UNDER NEW STRIKE LAW

Sam (Chowderhead) Cohen Accused of Importing Strikebreakers.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Accused of importing strikebreakers for use in the waterfront strike here, Sam (Chowderhead) Cohen and two other men were arrested today and held for a hearing.

They were taken into custody in a Times Square hotel room during an argument with a committee of striking seamen. They were questioned for several hours by police and Federal agents. The complaint, charging violation of a new Federal law which prohibits transporting persons across State lines for use in labor controversies, was signed by Frank Mulderig of the Marine Firemen, Oilers and Watertenders' Union. Held with Cohen were George Mallen, 59, and Sam Tanner, 53.

MAN SURRENDERS IN POWER LINE TOWER MURDER

VICTIM REPORTED HIRED FOR BOMBING

Police Informed He Was Shot to Death to Prevent His Telling Employer's Name.

With the surrender at Clayton today of William Rolf, a former convict sought for questioning in the murder of George J. Appleton, the Post-Dispatch learned that police have received information that Appleton had been hired to bomb transmission towers of the Union Electric Light & Power Co. and had been killed to keep him from telling who hired him.

Officers of the Union Electric Co. have been at loss to explain the efforts to damage its transmission lines, and have stated they knew of no dispute which would suggest a motive. After the first bombing, in June, the company entered into a contract with a private detective agency for protection of its transmission lines, and, as the bombings continued, the contract was extended.

Rolf, who has been employed occasionally by a strike breaking agency, as Appleton had been, was the last person known to have been with Appleton before he was killed. He declined to make any statement to reporters when he surrendered. His attorney, Sigmund Bass, who accompanied him to the Sheriff's office, said Rolf had indicated to him that he had been in hiding since the murder because he feared for his life. County authorities hoped through questioning of Rolf to learn from him the basis for his fear.

Circumstances of Killing.

Three towers of the Union Electric company supporting its wires from Keokuk to St. Louis had been bombed before last Oct. 26 when police, responding to a telephone message from an unidentified caller went to a field behind the Sacred Heart Cemetery near Florissant and there found Appleton shot to death at the base of one of the towers. Beside his left hand was an unexploded bomb, fashioned of eight sticks of dynamite.

Appleton had not been known to police as a bomber, but as a petty thief who had served a prison term for burglary and robbery and a workhouse sentence for carrying a concealed weapon. It developed at the inquest into his death that no matches with which he might have lit the fuse of the bomb were found in his clothing.

There were no marks of a struggle at the scene, leading police to believe either that Appleton had been shot by someone whom he trusted, or by someone who surprised him. Four bullets entered the right side of his head.

Seen Together in Saloon.

Rolf and Appleton were last seen together in a North St. Louis saloon on the evening of Friday, Oct. 23. Appleton was found dead about 2:30 a. m. on the morning of the following Monday. Apparently he had been killed about 10 p. m. Sunday.

A woman friend of Rolf, also an acquaintance of Appleton, was held for questioning for several days, but was released.

Appleton's widow, Mrs. Edna Mae Appleton, with whom he lived at 3905A Kossuth avenue, has said that Rolf, whom she knew only as "Bill," occasionally called at her home and conferred secretly with Appleton. A scrap of paper bearing the number of a telephone at a rooming house where Rolf resided was found by Mrs. Appleton in her home on the night of Friday, Oct. 23. On the following Sunday, she said, Rolf called at her home and inquired if her husband had returned home. When she told him that he had not, Rolf left, telling her: "He was blind drunk Friday night."

No Trace After He Left Saloon.

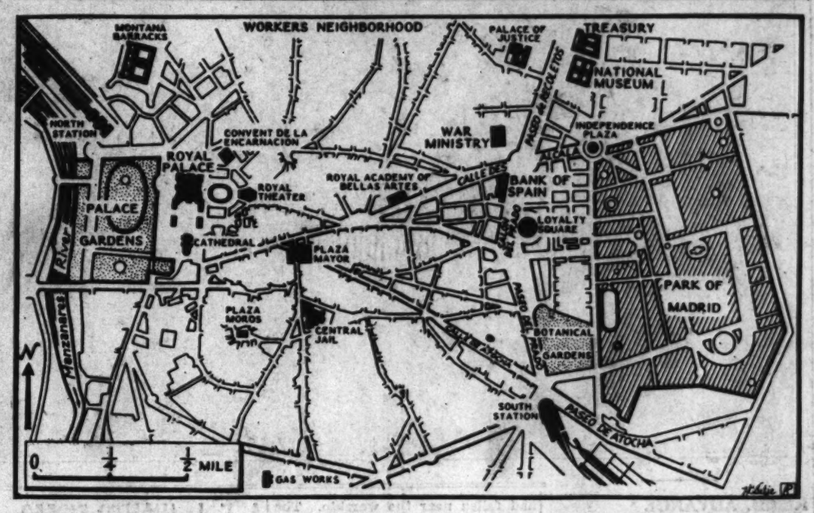

Police have not succeeded in tracing Appleton's movements after he left the saloon that Friday night. What went on from that time until 1:30 a. m. the following Monday, when Detective Sergeant Thomas Hale, formerly of the police bombing squad, received the telephone call at his home to go to the field behind the cemetery and "find the body of the man who has been blowing up power lines," remains to be determined.

The first of the series of tower bombings was last June 18 when one on the east bank of the Mis-

Fascist Planes Turn Machine Guns on Militia Force at Drill but Only Few of Government Men Are Hurt.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, Nov. 6.—Loyalist men and women pushed back a Fascist thrust from suburban Carabanchel this afternoon while insurgent shells fell on the edge of the capital. Insurgent reports of a revolt in the streets of Madrid were denied.

Fascist troops penetrated the Madrid side of Carabanchel, four miles to the south, in fighting early in the day. This afternoon, however, they were reported to have retired under a heavy Government bombardment and counter-offensive.

A survey during the day indicated the center of Madrid, up to 3:45 p. m., was unmarred by insurgent shellfire, although the outskirts again were being hit by Fascist shells.

Attack by Rebel Planes.

Five enemy fighting planes, bearing the marks of Government patrol craft, swooped low over Castellana Boulevard during the morning, their machine guns firing at columns of militia drilling on the highway near the hippodrome. The recruits threw themselves to the ground and only a few were wounded.

Few siren warnings were sounded during the day, perhaps because of the continuous presence in the air of Government planes.

The Government said two more insurgent warplanes had been shot down in the Alacala de Henares and Leganes sectors during the morning.

An artillery fight west and south of the city shook Madrid buildings and shattered windows. The crash of shells was heard throughout the capital as Government troops holding frontline trenches a mile and a half west of Cuatro Vientos Airport and insurgents entrenched at Alcorcorn hammered away at each other with heavy cannon.

Government authorities said the counter-offensive had produced marked results.

Women March to War.

Madrid women marched out to join the fighting, advancing shoulder-to-shoulder with their menfolk in an attempt to stop the rebels storming the gates of the capital. By the hundreds, young women and housewives picked up rifles and answered the Government's appeal for aid. Workmen in overalls also joined the exodus to the front.

Authorities exhorted all able-bodied persons to organize for the defense. They said the enrollment of women and workmen was the only way to save Madrid.

15-Mile Battle Front.

Government militiamen were spread out along a 15-mile front in the capital's suburbs.

SOCIAL SECURITY ACT CARDS READY NOV. 16

To Be Distributed to Employers for Old Age Pension Record.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6. — The registration of 26,000,000 workers for old age pension accounts under the Social Security Act will begin Nov. 16.

Making the announcement today, the Security Board said 45,000 postoffices would distribute to employers on that date a form known as the "Employer's Application for Identification Number."

Each employer will be asked how many are in his employ and the employes in turn will begin receiving blanks labeled "Application for Social Security Account Number" on Nov. 24.

Each employe will receive a card, with a warning printed thereon to preserve it because "it shows the account number used in keeping records of your social security benefit rights under Federal and State laws."

The board urged both employers and employes, as well as the public, to refrain from making inquiries either at the board or postoffices concerning their respective parts in the plan until after receipt of the official forms and instructions. After that, it was said, postal authorities and board representatives will be available to render all assistance necessary.

The board said the employes' form asks only such questions as name and address of the applicant and his employer, date and place of birth and parents' names. When the worker has filled it out, he may return it without paying postage in any one of five ways: By handing it back to the employer, by handing to any labor organization of which he is a member, to a letter carrier or delivering it to the postoffice, or addressing it to "Postmaster, Local."

450,000 Employes Expected to Be Enrolled in St. Louis.

Postmaster Rufus Jackson estimated today that about 450,000 employes would be enrolled under the Social Security Act in the St. Louis postoffice area. The application cards will be made available to employes through their employers soon after Nov. 16, he said. The provisions of the act, which levies an income tax on the wages of employes and an excise tax on employers' payrolls, and provides for old age benefits, were explained in detail in an article in last Sunday's Post-Dispatch.

BORAH POLLS HIS BIGGEST VOTE

Total About 126,000 and Plurality More Than 54,000.

By the Associated Press.

BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 6.—Senator William E. Borah, Republican, polled the biggest vote of his 30 years in public office Tuesday. His total was about 126,000 or 54,500 more than that of his Democratic opponent, Gov. C. Ben Ross.

Eighteen years ago, when he ran for the first time for direct election, he polled 63,587 votes and had a plurality of 32,569. In 1924 the figures were 99,846 and 71,647; in 1930, 94,938 and 57,776.

Capture of Getafe by Rebels; Defenders Driven From Airport By Artillery and Plane Attack

Two Insurgent Columns Unite and Enter Town Together—Gasoline Tanks Explode During Battle.

By JOHN T. WHITAKER.

Copyright, 1936, New York Tribune, Inc.

ILLESCAS, Spain, Nov. 4. (Delayed)—Getafe, the airport of loyalist Madrid, fell today before the red-fezzed Morrocans and the Legionnaires of the rebel army of Gen. Jose Varela, bringing the insurgents to a point within eight and a half miles of the capital's Puerta del Sol. The fighting went on stubbornly as usual, but the rebel guns, which already have shelled Madrid, hit the Government trenches with precision and the planes bombed them, shaking the Leftists' morale.

While gasoline tanks at Getafe's abandoned airport exploded under hits from artillery fire and blackened the sky with smoke, Col. Henl Tella's column on the right and Col. Barron's column on the left charged the loyalist trenches. They crossed the stubble fields and entered the town together.

Two Russian tanks—almost obsolete machines, one with a small cannon and the other with a machine gun—were smashed in the battle, the first by a direct artillery hit and the second by hand grenades and an anti-tank gun. The Fascists have said that 13 such tanks have been captured or disabled, but I have not seen them.

The rebels shot down a Government bombing plane, a two-motored low-wing duralumin craft of the type which fell recently near Talavera de la Reina with Russian factory tags. However, the Fascists lost three pursuit planes, which plunged on another Madrid bomber, unaware that five loyalist fighters were in the sky above. The rebel planes came down behind their own lines, with one pilot dead, the others wounded and all the craft wrecked.

The Doom of Madrid.

The people of Madrid must have seen their doom written in the skies by the black smoke clouds over Getafe, no less than in the explosion of 155 aerial bombs in the capital Monday. Exploding shells and bombs were in sight, as well as in hearing distance, of Madrid today.

Leaving the artillery battery on the hill pounding away at Getafe, I climbed into an officer's automobile in the road and tuned in on Madrid. No frantic bulletins, but the strains of the operetta, "The Dollar Princess," came over the air. I listened to the Viennese music, the first sane sound I have heard in this civil war, but I was able to listen only between the deafening blasts of the heavy artillery. The Madrid radio station had better give the people sterner music than Viennese waltzes.

The dangerous loyalist salient near El Escorial seems no longer able to paralyze Gen. Francisco Franco's forces. The rebels have decided apparently that if Gen. Emilio Mola's army can capture it, well and good; if not, Gen. Varela, on the southern front, will risk it. Government forces in the south, which might attack the Fascists in the rear of Talavera de la Reina,

BIG STEEL COMPANIES GIVE WAGE INCREASES

Bethlehem and Columbia Grant Workers About 10 Per Cent More.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Wage increases averaging about 10 per cent were announced today by Bethlehem Steel Corporation and the Columbia Steel Co., Pacific Coast subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation.

In Pittsburgh, the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation announced an increase of 5½ cents an hour in the basic daily pay for its plants in nearby McKeesport and at Homestead, Pa., and Mingo Junction, O. About 17,000 employes are affected. The basic rate for unskilled labor is to be increased from 47 to 52½ cents an hour with automatic adjustment upward or downward with changes in the cost of living.

Similar announcements from other units were expected.

Bethlehem said the base labor rate would be increased 5½ cents an hour, "with equitable adjustments in other rates of pay."

Bethlehem said its action was "responsive to requests of employes' representatives and discussions which have taken place between them and the management over the past several weeks."

Columbia's boost, operative for one year, was described as intended to compensate workers for an expected rise in the cost of living.

Inland Steel Co. Gives 10 Per Cent Increase.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—The Inland Steel Co. announced today a pay increase of 10 per cent for employes in the lower pay brackets and lesser increases for higher salaried workers in the company plants at Indiana Harbor, Ind., and Chicago Heights, Ill.

The increase, effective Nov. 16, affects 12,000 employes. Employes in lower pay brackets "will be advanced more than 10 per cent," and employes in higher pay brackets "will be advanced on a graduated scale under 10 per cent." The increases affect employes earning less than $5000 a year.

SEAMEN'S STRIKE DEADLOCKED IN ITS SECOND WEEK

Both Sides Express Opinion Intervention by President Roosevelt Will Be Necessary.

MEDIATOR RETURNS TO WASHINGTON

Ship With Food Supplies Leaves Alaska Without Unloading—Prices Soaring in Honolulu.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—The general maritime strike entered its second week today with no sign of settlement. Assistant Labor Secretary Edward F. McGrady, unable to make peace between ship owners and 37,000 striking union workers, booked airline passage to return to Washington.

The strike tied up 150 vessels in West Coast ports, while sympathy walkouts affected slipping in major harbors of the Atlantic and Gulf areas.

Spokesmen for both sides said they believed intervention by President Roosevelt was necessary. McGrady denied he would seek such intervention, but it was said in Washington that Secretary of Labor Perkins might report on the strike at the regular Cabinet session today. McGrady indicated he would return to San Francisco whenever it appeared he could accomplish anything toward ending the strike.

Alaskans, fearing a food shortage, were reported to be sending telegrams to President Roosevelt asking for aid. The steamer Northland, with 200 tons of food supplies aboard, sailed from Juneau for Seattle after efforts to unload it were unsuccessful. The joint strike committee at Seattle last night instructed the vessel's crew not to allow the cargo to be unloaded by longshoremen.

Fruit and vegetable prices were soaring in Honolulu, where several hundred travelers were marooned. Lemons jumped from $5.60 per case wholesale to $7, celery from $3.25 to $9.80, lettuce from 5 to 25 cents per head and tomatoes from 15 cents to 30 cents per pound. Dealers reported supplies of canned goods on hand sufficient to last for weeks.

Employer demands that the union remove perishable cargoes from tied-up ships brought the reply that workmen would be furnished provided the employers resumed new contract negotiations.

With approval of the strike committee, the Salvation Army of Seattle unloaded for its own use all perishables aboard the steamer Eldorado.

In New York, where striking seamen said 49 ships were tied up, the Central Trades and Labor Council refused to brand the walkout an outlaw strike. The International Seamen's Union sought this action against Joseph Curran, who led the strike in defiance of union officers.

Union seamen in Houston, Tex., declared union crews would be furnished all vessels asking for them. Counsel for 38 pickets arrested there sought their release on habeas corpus writs.

Suit by Ship Lines to Enjoin Philadelphia Strikers.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—Five steamship lines asked the Federal District Court today to enjoin insurgent members of the International Seamen's Union, and other organizations and persons from interfering with shipping in the port of Philadelphia. The Court will hold a hearing later.

The defendants include the Seamen's Defense Committee; Rank and File Marine Firemen, Oilers & Watertenders' Union; Philadelphia Waterfront Committee and its representatives in the strike.

Frank B. Casey, business manager of the Eastern & Gulf Sailors' Association, an affiliate of the International Seamen's Union, filed an affidavit supporting the ship owners' petition for the injunction, saying that no strike has been called by that body and that the regular members are satisfied with the contracts under which they are working.

Philadelphia longshoremen yesterday agreed to extend a 48-hour strike truce for seven days and continued working, but many seamen remained on strike.

Two Union Seamen Beaten by Strikers at Houston.

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 6.—Wilbur Dickey, International Seamen's Union leader, issued a statement last night that the union would furnish crews for all American ships requesting them.

A short time before, two union seamen were taken from an automobile at the Shell docks and beaten. The union men were on their way to a ship that was being supplied with a crew by the union.

Dollar Line Passengers Transferred to Japanese Liner at Tokio.

TOKIO, Nov. 6.—Fearing a crew strike, Dollar Line officers transferred 120 passengers from the President Coolidge today to the Asama Maru, Japanese liner.

Both ships sailed at the same time, but the President Coolidge was ordered to go direct to San Francisco instead of calling at Honolulu as scheduled.

four and one-half miles northwest of the capital.

The tip of the V, farthest point in the Government defense lines, lay east of Boadilla del Monte, seven and one-half miles west of Madrid. That town fell to the insurgents last night.

Government artillery dropped shells on the Fascist column attempting a flank movement from Boadilla del Monte, but the insurgents continued their advance on Pozuelo de Alarcon, bringing Gen. Francisco Franco's forces almost to the western outskirts of the capital.

Madrid Reports of War.

The Ministry of Air deprecated reports of a sweeping insurgent victory in the capture of the Cuatro Vientos and Getafe airports, declaring the Government had long ago evacuated planes from the fields.

The landing ground at both fields, the Air Ministry added, had been elaborately mined, ready to blow up any enemy planes attempting to land there.

The Air Ministry also reported a "highly successful day" for the Government air force. It announced the new fleet of fighting and bombing planes, in addition to shooting down two Fascist planes in a fight over Madrid, had downed three other enemy planes near Alcala de Henares, east of Madrid, and dropped 40 225-pound bombs on a convoy of Fascist troops heading for Leganes.

An Air Ministry bulletin also said Government planes had destroyed a Fascist armored train taking supplies to Fuenlabrada, eight and a half miles south of Madrid, and bombed enemy concentrations between Navalcarnero and Mostoles, near Pinto, Humanes de Madrid and Villa Viciosa and artillery barracks at Getafe.

No figures were given for yesterday's Fascist bombing of Madrid suburbs, but it was thought that reports that 2000 had been killed set the figure far too high.

Women and Children Killed.

The British charge d'affaires, Maurice Ogilvie Forbes, visited the village of Leganes at the invitation of War Minister Julio Alvarez del Vayo a few hours before the village, seven miles from Madrid, was evacuated. He was deeply distressed by the killing of peasants, their women-folk and children.

Street cars brought in more refugees from the suburbs—persons whose rolled-up mattresses jammed the front and rear platforms of the vehicles.

All along the main streets of Madrid, bewildered and homeless peasants sought shelter which authorities have promised to provide for them. With the normal population of 900,000 swollen to more than 1,500,000 through the influx of refugees, authorities were confronted by an almost hopeless task in trying to find accommodations for the homeless thousands.

Cement Pill-Boxes Built.

The Government ordered more speed in the construction of trenches and cement pill-boxes just across the Manzanares River. Zigzag earthworks were being thrown up across Comillas Field, the natural arena where President Manuel Azana last January addressed the largest political meeting in the history of Spain. It was at that meeting that Azana aroused the enthusiasm which carried the popular front to victory at the polls in the February elections—a victory which touched off the Leftist-Rightist strife.

Reports reaching here from Alicante, on the southeast coast of Spain, said the Argentine cruiser 25 de Mayo opened fire on insurgent bombing planes after bombs had fallen near the warship. The reports also said the German consular staff at Alicante had been transferred aboard a German warship lying in the harbor the evening before the insurgent air raid.

Fascists Make Advance Two Miles East of Getafe.

By the Associated Press.

GETAFE, Spain, Nov. 6.—In an attack with bayonets and hand grenades, Fascist troops today captured El Cerro de los Angeles (the Hill of the Angels), two miles east of Getafe.

The insurgents drove the Government militiamen from their trenches, killing an undetermined number and capturing many prisoners.

Seven airplanes, one a bomber and the rest pursuit ships, ventured forth early yesterday from the Government lines. Struck swiftly from all sides by Fascist planes, they fell to earth in flames one after another.

The streets of Getafe are littered with the refuse of war. Getafe's once beautiful airport has been pockmarked with shell and bomb craters and the airplane hangars are damaged.

Lisbon Reports Say Madrid Forces Are Fighting Each Other.

By the Associated Press.

LISBON, Portugal, Nov. 6.—Unconfirmed reports reaching the Portuguese frontier today said civil guards and assault troops had revolted and were fighting with militiamen in the streets of Madrid.

The reports said the revolt started in the Casa de Campo district and spread through the principal streets of the capital.

The correspondent of the newspaper Diario Noticias said white flags had been hoisted on the outskirts of Madrid.

(Presumably the Lisbon reports emanated from insurgent sources outside of Madrid.)

A broadcast from the Madrid radio, picked up here, ordered the evacuation of the center of the city and instructed all able-bodied men to man barricades at the capital's gates.

Lisbon newspapers reported insurgent cavalry had reached suburban Puenta Vallecas and had found the district deserted.

EDDIE GUERIN GETS $3500 FROM HIS SISTER'S ESTATE

Allowance Made to Former Pickpocket, First Man to Escape From Devil's Island.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Eddie Guerin, aging former picketpocket who, 31 years ago, became known as the first man to escape from the French Devil's Island penal colony, was allowed an advance of $3500 today from the $67,000 estate of a half-sister, Mrs. Harriet A. Mitchell, who was the wife of a stock broker.

Probate Judge John F. Connell allowed the claim on the filing of a petition alleging that Guerin, now a resident of England, was in "dire need."

Guerin's attorney said Guerin, now 75 years old, was the husband of an English woman, and the father of four children.

Attorneys representing the estate did not object to the disbursement. A refunding bond of double the amount was filed. The half-sister left no will and attorneys said that if Guerin's claim were upheld he would be entitled to one-fifth of the estate.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 6.—Duke Wellington McCandless pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity today to charges of murder in the shooting of his wife Vanthelle, July 5. His trial was set for Dec. 7. McCandless was arrested a month ago in St. Louis.

A. F. L. WANTS FIRMS TO BEAR PAYROLL TAX

Leaders to Submit Proposal to Convention and Expect It to Be Approved.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—American Federation of Labor leaders said yesterday that they expected to ask the next Congress to shift the entire social security pay roll tax to employers. They said they would submit their proposal to the federation's annual convention in Tampa, Fla., this month. They expect the convention to ratify it unanimously.

During the final weeks of the political campaign, much Republican speech-making was centered on the Social Security Act. Gov. Alf M. Landon, in his St. Louis speech, Oct. 31, said the act would place "a tax burden" on employes "throughout their working lives." Speaking in Gary, Ind., the previous day, Col. Frank Knox, vice-presidential candidate, said one working man's reaction to the act, when it was explained, was: "There goes my raise."

The federation tried, when the act was considered in Congress, to have the employer pay the entire tax. William Green, federation president, maintained that the present system constituted double taxation. The worker, as a consumer, would pay the employers' share because prices would be advanced to cover the tax, he said.

Cost of the old age pension plan could be shifted in two ways. One would be by assessing the entire payroll tax against employers. Another would be to pay the cost out of income taxes on individuals or corporations, or both. The latter method was discussed when the law was passed. It will be pushed again if Congress takes up revision of the law.

Washington next Tuesday or Wednesday.

The President was prepared for a question about his own election predictions. Several weeks ago he declined to forecast the result of Tuesdays' election, saying that his own predictions were sealed in a White House strongbox.

Roosevelt Shows His Guesses.

Taking a batch of envelopes from inside his double-breasted gray suit, he carefully and jubilantly displayed his handwritten guesses. The first prediction, he said, displaying the boldly inscribed original forecast on White House note paper, contained no names and was dated Jan. 30, 1936. It gave the Democrats 325 electoral votes, the Republicans 206. The second prediction was dated June 5, which the President explained was about three weeks before the convention. It gave the Democrats 315 votes, the Republicans 216. The third slip, made out on Aug. 2, shortly after the Canadian trip, contained initials, giving F. D. R. 340 votes, and A. M. L. 197. The fourth and final forecast, made Saturday night, gave F. D. R. 360 and A. M. L. 171.

The President's actual electoral vote was 523, against 8 for Gov. Landon. The President was much less optimistic about his overwhelming election than Postmaster-General Democratic National Chairman Farley, who predicted that Gov. Landon would carry only two states, Maine and Vermont, for a total of 8 electoral votes.

When a reporter asked about his health, the President responded that he was feeling fine except for a slight rasp in his voice, due to speechmaking. He said that he was resolved to make no more speeches for a long, long time, with the exception of those booked long before the election. He looked extremely well and a little heavier than when he started his campaign the latter part of September. He said that one of his chief worries was the batch of mail piled up on his desk, and remarked that more than 12,000 telegrams of congratulations had been received while he was at Hyde Park. Asked whether this was a larger number than he received after his 1932 victory, he smiled and said it was much larger.

GOV. LA FOLLETTE LACKS LEGISLATIVE PARTY CONTROL

Progressives One Seat Short in Wisconsin Senate, Four in Assembly.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 6. — When Gov. Philip F. La Follette starts his third term in January he will be without party control of either house of the State Legislature.

The Progressive campaign for a majority in the Senate fell short by one seat. Including the holdovers, the Progressives will have 16 seats, the Democrats nine and the Republicans eight. In the Assembly the Governor will be four short of a majority. Progressives elected 47 of the 100 members Tuesday, the Democrats 31 and the Republicans 22.

TO TAKE CONTROL OF FEDERAL FUNDS FROM DR. M'GAUGH

State Health Board Has Agreed, Attorney-General Says After Conference—Members to See Park.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 6.—The State Board of Health has agreed to a demand by Attorney-General McKittrick that the management of Federal funds allotted to Missouri for public health and child welfare work be removed from the hands of Dr. E. T. McGaugh, secretary of the board and State Health Commissioner, and placed under control of some other person. McKittrick announced this last night, after a conference here with board members.

The conference was requested by McKittrick in connection with his investigation of the handling of the funds. The Attorney-General's inquiry has been augmented by two Federal audits by agents of Federal departments providing the funds. Both Federal audits are in progress.

Board members referred inquiries concerning the conference, which was an executive session, to McKittrick. The latter said the board members, after agreeing to the proposed change, indicated they desired to consult with Gov. Park before designating someone to handle the funds.

The funds amount to about $300,000 a year.

Danger of Losing Grants.

McKittrick said he told the board that the Federal funds to the State might be withheld, due to criticism of the methods of handling the funds, unless a change was made.

The Attorney-General said that immediately after the agreement was reached, he and the Federal auditors authorized the payment of salaries for October to employes of the Board of Health, who are compensated from the Federal funds. These salaries had been held up, since further disbursements of the Federal funds were suspended three weeks ago, at McKittrick's order.

Dismissal letters which had been prepared by Dr. McGaugh, based on funds not being available, were withdrawn, McKittrick said. In this connection McKittrick said he told the board Dr. McGaugh did not have authority himself to hire and discharge employes for these Federal fund health activities, but that these matters were under the control of the board.

McKittrick said he reviewed for the board, in a two-hour session, the matters already disclosed in the course of the inquiry. He said he told the board about alleged improper handling of some of the payroll checks; payment of flat monthly allowances to certain employes for travel expense, in alleged violation of State laws; alleged improper bookkeeping methods and lack of supporting vouchers for some of the accounts, and handling of part of the funds by Dr. McGaugh through his personal checking account, a practice that was discontinued two or three months ago after a Federal protest.

Touches on Pocketed Fees.

The disposition of between $2400 and $2700 in vital statistics fees paid annually by the Federal Bureau of the Census, for vital statistics information furnished to it by the State Board of Health was discussed only briefly, McKittrick said, as board members said they had no direct control of these fees.

Dr. McGaugh has stated, as told by the Post-Dispatch, that he kept these fees personally, since he became Health Commissioner in 1933, on the theory it was personal compensation to him. The costs of preparing the statistical records furnished the Census Bureau are paid by the State from State funds. His predecessor used these fees to defray part of the expense incurred by the State in compiling vital statistics.

McKittrick said he told the board members it was the duty of the board to supervise the administration of the Federal health funds, which are received from the United States Public Health Service and the Children's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor.

McGaugh "Welcomes Change."

Dr. McGaugh, who attended the conference with McKittrick as a board member, said today, "I welcome a change in the handling of the funds. It is a big job to handle these funds, which will amount to $300,000 and perhaps $400,000 a year. The job calls for an auditor. A change in the management of the funds will take a world of grief and responsibility off me, and I don't get a penny of compensation out of it."

Dr. McGaugh said that some time ago he suggested to Gov. Park that some arrangement be made for some other person to handle these funds, but that no action had been taken.

Members of the board left Jefferson City after the conference without seeing Gov. Park, who was out of town. Board member who attended were Dr. T. S. Bourke of Kansas City, president of the board; Dr. P. T. Bohan of Kansas City; Dr. W. T. Elam of St. Joseph; Dr. E. S. Smith of Kirksville and Dr. McGaugh. Dr. Fred Bailey of St. Louis and Dr. W. L. Brandon of Poplar Bluff, the other board members, were not present.

HOW REBEL FORCES CAPTURED AIRPORT TOWN OF GETAFE

Military Situation.

On the 10-mile southern fronts from Getafe to Villa Viciosa, Gen. Franco's best troops are drawn up eight to 10 miles from Madrid. The guns have the capital's range. The colonial soldiers are full of ambition to be the first into Madrid. The shock troops have the winter as well as the goal before them.

This is the professional army that wanted to take Madrid by Oct. 15. It delayed. The Soviet Union sent arms to match its own superior equipment. Will it delay further? This is the question the impatient troops are asking, even at the moment when they praise Gen. Franco's nibbling strategy.

Nibbling was necessary for Gen. Varela's troops, outnumbered as they were by three to 10 to one. Now, however, Gen. Varela has nibbled away at the gates of Madrid. He now may call on Gen. Franco at any time next week. They will glance on the right and left ranks. If they so decide, Madrid will fall before a frontal attack. The lines of battle are so drawn.

BRITAIN ASKS REBELS TO SPARE CIVILIANS

Urges Fascist Junta to Restrict Spanish Bombings to Military Objectives.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Great Britain has asked the Spanish insurgent junta at Burgos to confine its bombings to military objectives, it was learned today.

The request, described authoritatively as "gentle but firm," was made Tuesday through the Fascist representative, Marquis Alfonso Merry Del Val, at Hendaye, France.

It was explained the efforts of G. A. D. Ogilvie-Forbes, British Charge d'Affaires at Madrid, to mitigate the suffering of 10,000 hostages held there had been unsuccessful.

However, Dr. Marcel Junod, international Red Cross representative working in Northern Spain, has obtained the release of a group of Basque women and children from insurgent prisons at San Sebastian.

A number of women and 105 children were transferred to Bilbao aboard the British destroyer Exmouth, informed sources affirmed.

While disclosing the Burgos request, responsible persons here discounted reports that Great Britain and France had made a mediation appeal to Madrid. Authoritative sources in Paris also denied the report.

Nevertheless, it was stated, Great Britain is gravely disturbed by the peril to both its own nationals and to the Spanish non-combatants in Madrid.

Mrs. Lottie Doneghy Testifies at Kirksville She Believes Her Husband Was Insane.

Walked Floor and Wept After She Rode in Auto With George Manuel on Day of Shooting.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., Nov. 6.—Mrs. Lottie Doneghy told a jury of Adair County farmers last night that she believed her husband was insane last March 10, when he shot and killed their old friend, George S. Manuel, because of Manuel's attentions to her. She spent five hours on the witness stand, although she was not obliged to testify unless she wanted to.

The husband, Robert P. Doneghy, slight, grey-haired, former traveling salesman, is on trial on a charge of first-degree murder. During his wife's testimony he sat staring at the floor. He did not look at her.

Earlier in the day, she had sat in a chair against a side wall, back of him, with their four children, two girls, 21 and 19 years old, and two boys, 16 and 14. She did not talk to him during intermissions. Instead, he did most of his talking to his sister, Mrs. Dagmar Beach, an author, and her husband, Prof. Joseph Beach of the University of Minnesota.

Defense Contentions.

Contending that Doneghy not only was insane, but suffered from several types of psychoses, the defense tried to show by Mrs. Doneghy that her husband had suicidal mania and tried to kill himself five times during 1933 and 1934, that he was a dipsomaniac, that he had inherited a social disease which caused his father to die insane, and that his mother also was insane for several years before her death.

The four defense attorneys took her lightly over her friendship with Manuel, also a traveling salesman. He had been a friend of the Doneghys for eight years, often bringing his wife to dinner at their bungalow, but in August, 1935, Mrs. Doneghy said, she asked him not to come to their home any more.

"I told Mr. Manuel that Bob would rather he didn't come," she said. "Bob felt like it was better for us as a family if George didn't come. He said he wasn't interested in George's friendship any more." She continued to see Manuel, however, she said, and at Christmas time, 1935, her husband again objected.

Meeting on March 10.

Last March 10, she started out to a grocery, but met Manuel in a car two blocks from home and rode around with him for 15 minutes. When she returned to the grocery her husband was there.

"Bob," she related, "told me, 'I saw you getting in George's car and I asked you at Christmas time not to do it.' I told him, 'Well, I did.' He said I was not safe in George's company. It was for my good that he didn't want me to see George. I said it was the first time I had seen George in a long time, that I was sorry, but George just happened to come along.

"I told him he need have no fear, I was not interested in Mr. Manuel. I had no relations with him he was just friendly. Bob asked me if I wanted to separate from him. I said no. My telling George to stay away didn't have any effect, he said, so he wanted to tell him."

Her husband, she said, was restless and nervous that afternoon, walking constantly about the house, drinking innumerable cups of coffee, and once trembling and weeping.

Invites Manuel to House.

He called Manuel and invited him to their house that evening, and told her to take their two sons out for a walk.

"Before I went I told Bob not to talk to George in an ugly way and to be very careful of what he said," she related. "He said, 'Yes, I'll talk to him in a very quiet way. I promise I won't raise my voice or be rude.' I told him some things he might say might make George laugh it off as a joke."

For the first time, Mrs. Doneghy said her composure when asked if she believed her husband was sane or insane at the time of the shooting and for some time before that. She twisted her hands and looked down. "Insane," she said.

Twice during 1934 he drove his automobile into telegraph poles and told her he had tried to kill himself, she said, and one Sunday in 1933 he tried to kill himself with gas in the bathroom and by running his automobile engine in the garage three times. The third time one of his sons found him with a package of razor blades in his hands and he said he had intended to cut his wrists.

Since their marriage in 1914, her husband drank heavily and often went on sprees over the week-end, she said. He made a determined effort to overcome the drinking habit, but would become nervous and restless and finally lose control of himself, she testified.

She gave examples of her husband's actions, designed to show he was insane. He was always intensely jealous, she said, protesting even against a cordial greeting by a nephew and her friendship with other church women. He had her write letters to prominent persons when he read about them in the newspapers—for instance, President Roosevelt and Tom Pendergast, Kansas City political boss. Sometimes he put dishes on the floor and ate from them at meals. Once he packed up his belongings and moved to Iowa because she wouldn't help him start his car. He once wanted to live in the barn back of their home. Company sometimes bored him and he disliked to ring doorbells. Although he was a good salesman, he often became discouraged and had her write letters of resignation for him, to which the company paid no attention.

Cross-Examination.

On cross-examination, the prosecution made light of the idea that a man would make so many suicide attempts without succeeding. It also attacked the dipsomania theory, getting the witness to admit that from November, 1935, to the day of the shooting, four months later, Doneghy had been drunk only once. It tried to get her to admit that her husbands' actions, which she cited as eccentric, were really normal.

The defendant's daughter, Miss Katherine Doneghy, 19, was placed on the stand this afternoon. She told about the three suicide attempts on the Sunday in 1933. "He once burned a pair of his shoes because his children refused to clean them," she said. She asserted he always became very nervous before he started a driking spell. She and her sister have had Government jobs in Washington for a year, and returned for the trial.

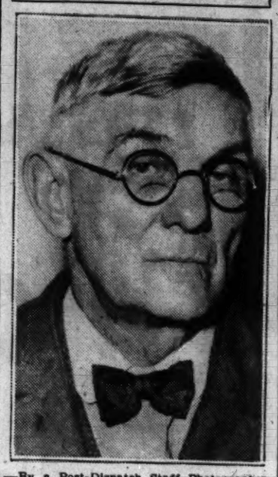

The first witness today, and the second for the defense, Dr. F. B. Farrington, county physician, testified he was called to treat Doneghy Dec. 10, 1933, and was told the salesman had tried to kill himself three times that day.

"I thought he was crazy," the physician said. "I gave him a hypodermic."

There followed procession of witnesses, acquaintances of the defendants, who all testified they believed Doneghy was insane.

The State tried to establish that Doneghy had been drinking several days before and that his symptoms were nothing more than "jitters," but the physician said he detected no evidence of drinking. Doneghy probably will take the stand tonight or tomorrow.

AIR MANEUVERS IN PACIFIC

Eighteen Planes Return to Honolulu After Extended Flight.

By the Associated Press.

HONOLULU, Nov. 6. — Eighteen planes, part of a group of 40 which left here Oct. 26 for air maneuvers among the tiny islands 750 miles or more west and south of Hawaii, were back today. Ending a visit to possible advance bases, 10 of the powerful, long-distance flying ships landed in Pearl Harbor at 10:15 o'clock last night. Eight arrived Wednesday.

The four squadrons, led by Rear Admiral Ernest J. King, commandant of the aircraft base force, were on the most comprehensive maneuvers ever ordered for the unit here. Navy officials indicated the operations extended south to Palmyra, Baker, Howland and Jarvis islands, along the route proposed as an air line to Australia and New Zealand.

ACCIDENT VERDICT IN DEATH OF FOUR IN FIRE AT PLANT

Inquest Witnesses Say Gasoline Stove Started Blaze at Fred Schmitt Material Co. Elevator.

A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned today in the death of four men in a fire which swept through the hoisting elevator of the Fred Schmitt Material Co., at 650 Rosedale avenue, yesterday morning, trapping the victims on the fifth floor about 90 feet above the ground.

Employes of the company who were witnesses at the inquest were unanimous in the opinion that the fire, which originated in a testing laboratory on the third floor, was cuased by a gasoline stove there which was used to remove moisture from sand, gravel and other materials for testing purposes.

One of the bodies, burned beyond casual recognition, was found shortly before noon, a few minutes after firemen had extinguished the blaze, which broke out about 9.40. The other three men were found at 3 p. m. in a tangle of debris on the fifth floor level. They lay in a sand hopper in which apparently they had taken refuge, covering themselves with sand in an effort to protect themselves from the flames.

The victims were:

Fred Schmitt Jr., 42 years old, 1337 Kingsland avenue, Wellston, plant manager and son of the proprietor.

Vance Wright, 26, 6113 Page boulevard, former bootball star at Soldan High School and the Missouri School of Mines, who was stationed at the plant as an inspector for the State Highway Department.

Donald A. Fyfe, 32, 331 Emmett avenue, Ferguson, sales manager of the company.

Thomas R. Carroll, 36, 6202 Suburban avenue, elevator operator at the plant.

Wright Married Recently.

Schmitt, Fyfe and Carroll each are survived by their widows and two children. Wright, who was center on the city all-star high school football teams in 1928 and 1929, had been married less than two weeks.

The body of Schmitt was identified by two abdominal scars, one resulting from an operation for appendicitis and the other from an injury in a motorcycle accident. Wright was identified by his college football letter, a yellow "M" on a gray sweater, which had escaped the flames. Fyfe, not as badly burned as the others, was identified by papers in the pocket of his coat, and Carroll by a process of elimination after the other three had been identified.

Traveling up a wooden stairway to the elevator tower, the fire spread with such rapidity that when the first firemen, from a station at Central and Clayton avenues, arrived on the scene, the upper part of the building, north of Delmar boulevard and west of the Wabash tracks, was completely in flames. In addition to the stairway, there was a ladder exit from the tower, on the north side, but the trapped men apparently were unable to get to it.

Workmen who were in a room next to Wright's office expressed the opinion at the inquest that the fire was caused by the gasoline stove which the inspector used to dry out sand, gravel and other material before testing them to determine whether they were satisfactory to be used in State road construction.

Flames Spread Rapidly.

Robert Endres, 7912 Minnesota avenue, one of the workmen, told a Post-Dispatch reporter he saw flames in the testing laboratory, a few minutes after the four men had gone up into the adjoining wing, constructed like a grain elevator.

"We ran down to the second floor and got a small hose," he said, "but the pressure wasn't strong enough for it to do any good. The fire spread rapidly and we had to climb down a ladder to escape because we couldn't make it to the stairs."

As the flames swept up a wooden stairway into the elevator shaft, an employe of the company sent in a fire alarm. Before firemen arrived, however, the fire had worked up into the building, the top two stories of which were of wood construction and the structure, used to store sand and other materials, was a blazing furnace.

The four men trapped in the structure appeared at a window on the fifth floor level and shouted for someone to send up the lift, a bucket-like affair used to carry material to the top of the tower. George Dell, 7748 Ahern avenue, University City, ran up the lift, but from the top one of the men, obscured from view by flame and smoke, shouted hoarsely that they could not get on it, presumably because of flames.

Life-Net Too Late.

Dell then ran the bucket down to prevent it falling if the flames should get to the superstructure and let the cables drop. By this time firemen had arrived and spread a life net below the window where the four men had been seen. Firemen shouted to them repeatedly to come to the window and jump, but they did not reappear.

A second and third alarm were given at once and tons of water were poured into the building from the tops of freight cars on the adjoining siding, where firemen took up positions. The fire, however, destroyed the top of the structure, the counterweight of the lift crashed down, and before the blaze was out the fifth floor was a mass of tangled and charred debris.

Schmitt's body was found as soon as firemen were able to get to the fifth floor. It lay on top of the sand in one of the bins. The others were found more than three hours later in another sand bin which had been covered by falling debris.

The wives of Carroll and Fyfe arrived at the plant before the fire was out and with Schmitt's father watched firemen search for and finally find the bodies.

Fire Chief John J. O'Boyle, after conferring with Schmitt, estimated property loss at $15,000.

sissippi River opposite Crystal City was damaged, causing a brief interruption of electric service in Jefferson County.

Another tower, in St. Charles County, was bombed early on the morning of Sept. 13, but service was not interrupted. About three weeks later a bomb exploded beside one of the towers about three miles west of the Page avenue sub-station, but did no substantial damage, only chipping the concrete base.

Rolf, when booked at the Sheriff's office, said he was 33 years old, and gave an address in the 4000 block of Westminster place. He has served two penitentiary terms for robbery and a Workhouse sentence for carrying a concealed weapon.

SUIT FILED AGAINST TRUSTEE OF LAWRENCE BYRNE ESTATE

Petition Alleges Robert W. Temm Failed to Render Settlement on $70,000 in Assets.

Suit was filed in Circuit Court yesterday against Robert W. Temm, 54 Aberdeen place, Clayton, for an accounting of his trusteeship of the estate of Lawrence Byrne, a wool and hide dealer, who died in 1907. The suit is in behalf of Thomas Byrne, an heir, who is represented by Public Administrator W. Francis Cronin of St. Louis County as guardian.

Temm became trustee in 1916 in place of Joseph Byrne, who resigned. The petition alleges that assets with an approximate value of $70,000, consisting of cash and bonds, were turned over to the new trustee, but that he has mismanaged the trust and failed to make proper investment of funds or render a settlement.

Temm, a nephew of Lawrence Byrne, declined to comment.

STENCH BOMBS THROWN AT TWO CLEANING SHOPS

Window Broken at City-Wide and Rite-Way Establishments; Auto Heard at One Place.

Two cleaning shops were damaged by stench bomb attacks last night.

At 9:40 o'clock it was discovered that a quart jar containing stench fluid and kerosene had been thrown through a window at the City-Wide Cleaning Co., 3842 Keokuk street. Mrs. Emma Stoggins, the proprietor, told police she opened the shop Oct. 15, and knew no reason for the attack.

At the Rite-Way Cleaning Co., 3748 California avenue, a quart jar, filled with fluid, which apparently was thrown from an automobile at 11:30 o'clock, struck between two windows, breaking both panes of glass. Neighbors said they heard an automobile stop, and start up again.

DEFENDANT DENIES BOMBING LAUNDRY AND CONFESSING

William Arley Head Testifies He Signed Statement Only Because Police Kicked and Cut Him.

William Arly Head, 50-year-old apartment house janitor, took the witness stand at his trial at Clayton today and denied that he bombed the Mid-West Laundries, Inc., on the night of last March 9.

The State finished presentation of its evidence during the forenoon, and the defendant then took the stand.

Head repudiated a confession he made to University City police March 30, charging that St. Louis policemen beat, kicked and cut him on several occasions before he signed the statement.

The defendant told the jury he had never been arrested before he was taken into custody in this case. The night of the bombing he had several drinks with a Negro ash hauler, who lived at 940 Hodiamont avenue, and was talking with the watchman at the Wabash Railroad crossing near Skinker boulevard when he heard the explosion, he testified. He added that the crossing watchman has since died. He went to the scene of the bombing, was picked up by police and later was taken to a police station, where Douglas Chappel, a former convict, whom he had named to the officers, was held.

Says He Had Been Drinking.

"I told them I knew Chappel, but I didn't know what else I said because I had been drinking," Head explained. "Next day policemen came to my home and told me I had identified Chappel in the bombing. I said that was a mistake, that I didn't remember accusing Chappel. They told me I had better stick to my story."

Head then retold the account he gave the court yesterday, that St. Louis policemen knocked him down in the University City police station, kicked him and threatened him with a revolver. He did not attempt to name or otherwise identify the individual assailants.

During cross-examination of Head, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney John A. McNatt read into the record a transcript of the testimony the defendant gave last March 13, which resulted in the indictment of Chappel, later dismissed. This testimony was inconsistent with Head's statement on direct examination that he did not know what he had told police about Chappel because he had been drinking.

The closing witness for the State was Detective Sergt. John Morrison, of the St. Louis Police Department bombing squad, who said he was present at the questioning of the defendant. Morrison said Head made voluntary admissions, and was not beaten.

Chappel, who served a term in the penitentiary for automobile theft, testified that he was charged in a warrant with bombing the laundry. He said police "tried to get me to admit it," but added that he was not mistreated. The warrant was later dismissed.

Ruling on Confession.

Circuit Judge John A. Witthaus ruled that the confession was competent evidence, and it was introduced and read to the jury. The Court's ruling followed an inspection yesterday of a photograph of the defendant, taken when he was placed in jail at Clayton, which failed to show facial injuries described by Head and other witnesses.

The trial opened yesterday with the testimony of Patrolmen Frank Schaub and Herman Spurgin of University City, who identified Head's confession and testified the defendant gave conflicting accounts of his movements the night of the bombing and then signed the confession with the explanation that he wished "to get it off my mind."

Jury Is Excluded.

Defense counsel objected to the introduction of the confession and asked that the jury be excluded while Head gave his account of alleged brutality by St. Louis police, who were investigating the case. Head then told Judge Witthaus that "they wanted me to confess that I bombed the Mid-West place and another job on Taylor avenue," the defendant stated. "I signed the statement to escape their beatings."

August Reinke, jailer at the St. Louis County Jail, testified that several days after Head was transferred from University City he complained of bruises on the shoulders and hips. A physician examined the prisoner, Reinke said.

Statement of Police.

In the confession, which he repudiated, Head said he bombed the laundry after reading an offer by associated laundry owners of a $1000 reward for the arrest and convictions of a laundry bomber. He made the bomb of powder and shotgun shells and the hollow handle of a cooking utensil and placed it against the wall of the laundry garage, 6220 Cabanne avenue, according to his signed statement. Previously he had reported to police that he had been passing the place when the explosion occurred and had seen Chappel running away.

Head is being tried under a statute providing punishment from two years imprisonment to death where any person has been endangered by bombing. Charles Spivey, Negro night watchman, was in the laundry but was not hurt. Assistant Prosecuting Attorney McNatt said he would not request the death penalty.

Damage from the explosion was estimated at $1500. The laundry building is on the city limits line, part of it in University City and the remainder in St. Louis.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR JUDGE DICKMANN

Cousin Celebrates Requiem Mass at St. Pius Catholic Church.

The funeral of Judge Joseph F. Dickmann of the Court of Criminal Correction, brother of Mayor Dickmann, who died of a heart attack early Wednesday morning when listening to radio election returns which showed he had been elected to the Circuit bench, was held today at St. Pius Catholic Church, Grand boulevard and Utah place.

Solemn high requiem mass there followed a brief ceremony at the Peetz Bros.' mortuary, 3029 Lafayette avenue. The celebrant was the Rev. Frank Dickmann, pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church at Wapella, Ill., a cousin of Judge Dickmann.

The casket was carried from the mortuary to the hearse through a line of 200 uniformed city firemen while their band played "Abide With Me." The firemen headed the cortege, marching the 13 blocks to the church.

Immediately following the hearse was an automobile carrying Mrs. Dickmann and their four children, Joseph, Jack, Miss Betty Dickmann and Mrs. Jane Meier. The next machine was occupied by Mayor Dickmann and his two sisters, Miss Mayme Dickmann and Mrs. Anna Curry. These were followed by the automobiles of the families of the two other brothers, Otto J. and Charles W. Dickmann.

The funeral oration was delivered by the Rev. James Johnston, pastor of St. Patrick's Church. He referred to Judge Dickmann's devotion to his church and said he had exemplified true Christian spirit as a Judge by tempering justice with mercy.

Services, which were to have been held at 8:30 o'clock, were delayed for an hour because of the throng at the mortuary. At the church, more than 100 persons stood outside after seats were filled.

Among those who attended were: United States Senator Bennett Champ Clark; William L. Igoe, president of the Board of Police Commissioners, and Recorder of Deeds John P. English, former chairman of the Democratic City Committee; leaders of the Democratic faction opposed to Mayor Dickmann; State Senators Michael Kinney, Joseph Brogan and William J. Doran, several State Representatives, city officials, members of the bench and bar and of the Democratic City Committee.

Services by the Elks, which Judge Dickmann had served as Exalted Ruler, were held last night at the undertaking establishment.

Burial took place in SS. Peter and Paul's Cemetery.

FOUR NEW POLICE STATIONS UNDER WAY

Being Built With PWA Allotment Supplemented by Funds From Bond Issue.

Four new police stations are under construction and plans are being completed for a fifth at Nineteenth and Penrose streets. Thirty per cent of the money for the new buildings is being supplied by PWA funds, the remainder coming from an item of $700,000 in the 1934 bond issue.

All four of the stations under construction are single-story buildings of modern design. Their exteriors are of yellow brick with terra cotta coping. Each is oil-heated and each contains a garage.

The Deer Street Station, the present Tenth District at Deer street and Easton avenue, will be ready for occupancy in 10 days or two weeks. The detective bureau will be finished within three days. The old red brick building in front of it will be torn down and a lawn will be planted and a driveway constructed on its site. The new building will cost $112,280.

Special Pistol Range.

As in the other buildings, the basement will house the assembly room, showers, boiler room and pistol range. The walls and ceiling of the range will be insulated and lined with steel. The curved steel wall behind the cardboard targets is designed to catch bullets, causing them to roll down into a basin. The lead is then recovered.

Just inside the main entrance on the first floor is a large lobby with terrazzo floor. The corridors are lined with marble. The desk sergeant's office, captain's room, eight cells, detective bureau, shadow box and the reserve officers' room are all on the main floor.

Within a month the new Mounted District Station on Hampton avenue, just north of Reber place, will be ready for occupancy. The old Mounted Station in Forest Park will be deeded back to the city. The new station includes a warehouse where building materials for the entire police department will be stored. There will be no stable, since all horses are now used downtown and are kept at 1125 Clark avenue.

The new Mounted District extends 132 feet along Hampton avenue. The main building is 81 feet deep and the garage extends back 68 feet. Cost of the building was $116,000. Because the neighborhood is relatively quiet, only six cells are required for that district and no holdover.

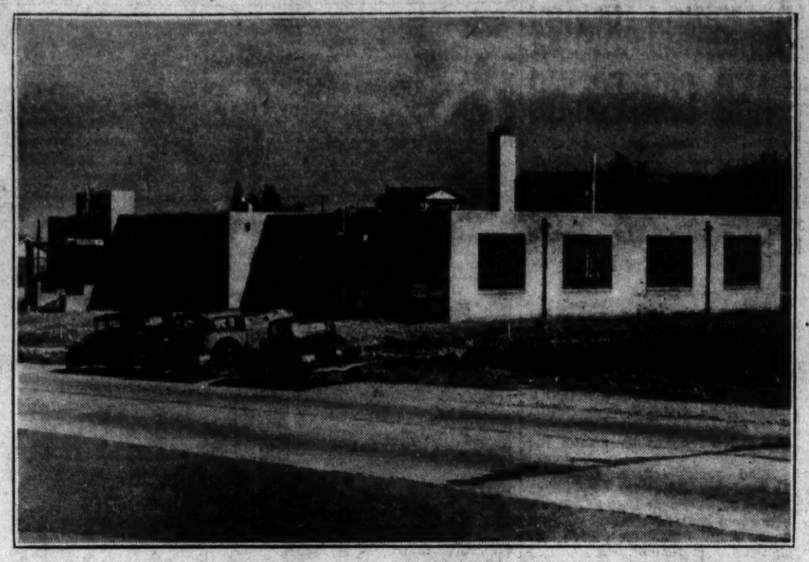

The Ninth District Station at 3031 Lucas avenue will replace the present Eighth District Station at 2801 Laclede avenue and the Ninth at 2600 Dayton street. Construction began June 2, and is expected to be finished by Feb. 1. Cost of the building is $140,000. Nine cells and a holdover are included in the plans.

Excavation work for the new Third District Station on the northwest corner of Twelfth boulevard and Lynch street has been completed. Two old beer cellars used by the Obert brewery were uncovered by steamshovels. They will not be destroyed. Piers will be driven through them to solid rock and the garage will be built over the cellars.

The new building will replace both the present Third District Station at 714 Lafayette avenue and the Second District Station at 3126 South Ninth street. Construction of two of the new police stations has also meant the merger of two districts in each case.

The new Fifth District Station at Nineteenth and Penrose streets will replace the outmoded station at 2322 North Tenth street.

JUSTIFIABLE HOMICIDE FINDING IN KILLING OF MAN BY WIFE

Coroner's Jury Returns Verdict in Case of Mrs. W. I. Eltringham, East St. Louis.

A verdict of justifiable homicide was returned by an East St. Louis Coroner's jury yesterday after an inquest into the death of William I. Eltringham, proprietor of a moving company, killed by his wife, Minnie, in their flat at 1500A Missouri avenue last Saturday. The jury decided Mrs. Eltringham had shot her husband in self-defense.

Mrs. Eltringham, a Republican election clerk, testified her husband drank excessively and often beat her. She said he came home late on the night of the shooting, drunk, and hit her in the presence of their two small adopted children. One of the children, Nancy Lee, 6 years old, testified, "Daddy beat mother five times." Two neighbors said they had seen Eltringham strike his wife on several occasions. George F. Halterman, a bookkeeper who was employed by the husband, testified Mrs. Eltringham had threatened several times to kill her husband.

When the jury announced the verdict, Mrs. Eltringham cried out, "I want to shake the hand of everyone who turned me loose to go back to my babies," and then fainted.

MRS. W. P. HAWKINS WEDS

Had Known C. P. Schumacher 3 Years; Ceremony at Boonville.

Mrs. Charlotte E. Hawkins of Mill road, Creve Coeur, and Clark P. Schumacher, 304 East Adams avenue, Kirkwood, were married yesterday in Boonville, Mo. She was the widow of W. P. Hawkins, former president of the Western Coal and Mining Co., a subsidiary of the Missouri Pacific Railroad.

They first rode to Columbia where they met her son, William P. Hawkins Jr., a student at Missouri University, then continued on to Boonville, where he witnessed the ceremony. Schumacher is in the railroad supply business. They have known each other about eight years.

Vote for Judge Hall.

Circuit Judge Robert W. Hall, Republican, defeated for re-election Tuesday, received 8475 votes in the First Ward, according to the complete tabulation of the St. Louis vote. In the table showing the vote by wards, published in the Post-Dispatch Wednesday, Judge Hall was credited with only 5475 votes in this ward, due to a typographical error. His total vote was 153,569, the highest polled by any of the Republican candidates for Circuit Judge.

"So what?"

"Just this! I'll bet a new hat that you put a big dent in the family exchequer when you bought that suit".

"O. K.! I can use a new 'kelly'. What's your guess?"

"Well now, let's see. I'd say between $35 and $40. And we'll go shopping for a new bonnet tomorrow".

"Not so fast, honey! Take a look at this sales slip. And what do those pretty blue eyes see? Yes, $25 including two trousers—that's all! Now admit that your old man isn't such a bad shopper".

"Golly Jim, where did you get it?"

"Bond's, my dear, Bond's!"

"How in the world do they do it?"

"That's simple as A. B. C. Bond Clothes are made in Bond's own factories. And the profits they'd ordinarily have to pay to an outside maker go right smack into my pocket. Neat, eh?"

"Well, guess you win. And now I suppose I'll have a nice hat bill on my hands".

"Wrong again! I'm going right back to Bond's for one of their $2.75 felts. Now that I've got the Bond habit 'you'll be wearing diamonds', me proud beauty".

P. S. We can't guarantee the crown jewels to all the wives whose husbands are wise enough to buy at Bond's. But we can promise a never-ending string of surprising values. The suits turned out by our Rochester tailors will give your Jim a figure like Clark Gable's. The tariff is only $30, with two trousers. And one of our $35 Park Lane Suits will make him look like nothing less than a First Vice-President of The First National. KING EDWARD LIKELY TO VISIT CANADA

No British Ruler Ever Has Done So—Possibility of Stop in U. S.

FATHER POINT, Quebec, Nov. 6.—Prime Minister Mackenzie King, returning from England, said today King Edward VIII intended to visit Canada after his coronation next May. Officials recalled that President Roosevelt, speaking at Quebec last August, invited King Edward to visit the United States.

Premier King said the King intended to visit Canada "as soon as possible" after his trip to India for coronation as Emperor of India.

He said King Edward, owner of the "Ep" ranch in Alberta, looked forward to the trip with high enthusiasm.

No British King ever has set foot on North America, although Edward visited this continent four times before his accession to the throne. He visited the United States in 1919 and 1924. His father, King George V, also visited Canada before he succeeded to the throne.

Last July court circles hinted King Edward was eager to revisit his Alberta ranch and thought it likely, in the event he made such a trip, he would stop with friends on Long Island and pay a courtesy call to President Roosevelt.

New York welcomed the Prince of Wales in 1919 with showers of ticker tape, cheers and miles of draped flags. It was on that trip that he bought the ranch in the foothills of the Canadian Rockies, which led him to make three subsequent visits to Canada. In 1924, he visited President Coolidge at the White House.

PATROL WAGON CARRIED ONLY BALLOT BOXES, JUDGE SAYS

Asserts Election Officials of Precinct 20, Ward 13, Went to Election Board in Private Autos.

Election officials of the twentieth precinct of the Thirteenth Ward were not escorted to the Election Board office in a patrol wagon early Wednesday as the result of a dispute, but went there in private automobiles, Mrs. Ellen Mahon, 3605 Morganford road, one of the Republican judges, told a Post-Dispatch reporter, with reference to an article in Wednesday's Post-Dispatch about the incident.

The article, based on a police report, said all of the six precinct officials were taken to election headquarters in the patrol wagon to conclude the count of ballots after a policeman reported they were deadlocked on several matters.

"The patrol wagon was called," said Mrs. Mahon, "but we didn't ride in it; only the ballot boxes were sent in it. The dispute was not over the count but was between the two Democratic judges as to which of them should accompany the returns to headquarters. Mrs. Kathryn Strohl, a Democratic judge, and I went in the car of a deputy election commissioner and George F. Benda, Republican judge, and Edward J. Edelmann, Democratic judge, went in the private car of the policeman at the precinct. The clerks (George H. Lawless, Democrat, and Magalena Fielder, Republican) did not go along."

CHILD CLAWED BY A SKUNK

Animal Killed After Injuring Girl, 2, Near Troy, O.

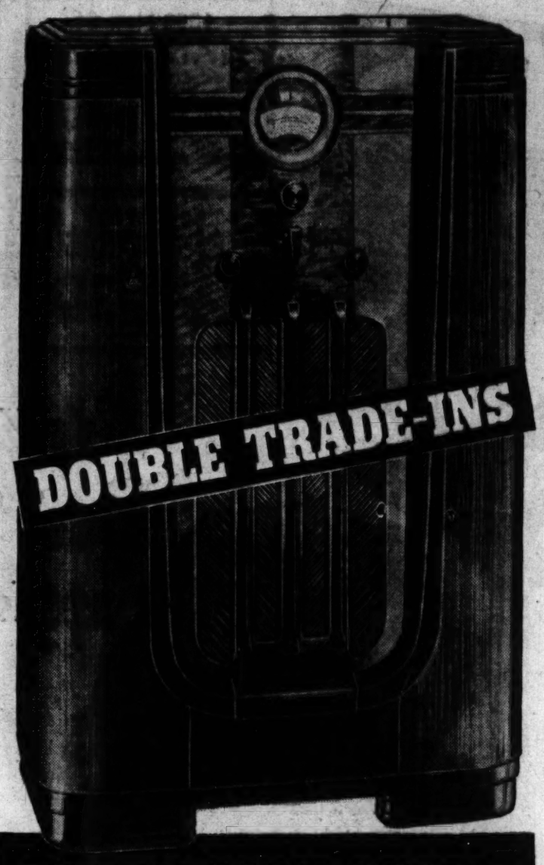

By the Associated Press.

TROY, O., Nov. 6.—Two-year-old Mary Beck, bitten and clawed by a skunk yesterday, is in a serious condition at the farm home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Beck, near here.

Hearing the child's screams, Mrs. Beck ran into the barn yard, but, unable to free her daughter, called for help. Charles Elleman and William Curtis, workmen, succeeded in pulling the skunk off the girl. The skunk started to run away, but returned and attacked Curtis. Elleman killed it with a club.

Italian Consulate Attacked.

CLUJ, Rumania, Nov. 6.—Josef Muresanu, large property owner in Transylvania, invaded the Italian consulate today and smashed windows and furniture to show his displeasure against Premier Mussolini. Muresanu told police he was angered by Mussolini's recent speech at Milan in which Mussolini expressed great friendliness for Hungary. Authorities acted to protect the Italian officials and their property.

SAYS TRANSPORTATION SETUP IS INEFFICIENT

President Moulton, Brookings Institution, Thinks Excessive Facilities Impede Progress.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Harold G. Moulton, president of the Brookings Institution, said last night that the transportion industry "is not performing its service effectively and is tending to impede rather than promote rapid economic progress."

This situation, he said in an address, has resulted from "confused and unco-ordinated policies" leading to creation of "excessive transportation facilities."

The institution which Moulton heads is a privately endowed research organization.

Speaking before a joint dinner of the Association of American Railroads and the Railway Business Association, Moulton said an effort should be made to solve transportation problems under a system of private ownership and operation.

He said there did not appear to be any good reason for believing Government ownership and operation would eliminate present "basic problems."

"Whatever criticisms of railway management may have been warranted at certain periods in the past, no one can doubt that progress now rules the rails," Moulton continued.

"Moreover, although some roads still have serious problems of financial readjustment, every indication points to a general improvement in the railway financial condition and to the ability of the roads to carry out extensive programs of rehabilitation over the years ahead."

PAROLE IF ESCAPED CONVICT CAN SHOW HE WENT STRAIGHT

Michigan Governor Makes Offer to Fugitive Arrested After 17 Years.

LANSING, Nov. 6.—Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald conditionally offered a parole today to Howard Fulger, held by Chicago police, who escaped 17 years ago from the Southern Michigan prison.

Fulger was sentenced from Ionia County Jan. 23, 1917, to serve 10 to 20 years for a criminal attack on a girl. He escaped Jan. 11, 1919, through a prison heat pipe tunnel.

"If Fulger will waive extradition in Illinois, come to Michigan, and prove that he has rehabilitated himself, he can have a parole without returning to prison," Fitzgerald said. "The purpose of prison is to rehabilitate inmates. In Fulger's case, that seems to be accomplished."

SCIENTIST DISCOVERS ERRORS IN DICTIONARY

Says Webster's Makes Nine Mathematical and Two Biographical Mistakes.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Nine mathematical and two biographical errors in Webster's New International Dictionary are reported in Science, official journal of American scientists, by G. A. Miller of the University of Illinois.

"Twenty-five years elapsed," Miller writes, "between publication of Webster's New International Dictionary and the extensively revised Second Edition (1934), and it may be assumed that this second edition will be used in practically its present form for many years.

"Therefore, it may be of interest to mathematical students to note here a sufficient variety of definite errors which apear therein to inspire the desirable caution which is too often lacking in use of standard works of reference."

The nine mathematical errors, Miller says, are in the definitions of the terms spherical excess, primitive group, dicyclic group, dihedral group, binomial theorem, metacyclic, transitive group, permutable and group of an equation.

"In the biographical section," Miller adds, "the Hindu mathematician Aryabhata is said to be the 'earliest known algebraist', and to have flourished in the Fifth Century, while Diophantus of Alexandria is called a 'Greek algebraist' who flourished in the Third Century. It is obviously impossible that both these statements are correct.

"The well known Norwegian mathematician Sophus Lie is here said to have died in 1870, when he was only 28 years old. As a matter of fact, most of his extensive works were published after this date and he died in 1899 at the age of 56.

"One looks in vain in this section for the name of the most noted French mathematicians, E. Galois (1811-1832), whose fame has gradually increased since the time of his early death and has far outstripped that of many others whose names appear here."

Teachers File Bankruptcy Pleas.

Voluntary petitions in bankruptcy were filed in Federal Court yesterday by two teachers. They are Hubert P. Ong, an instructor in the David Ranken School of Mechanical Trades, and Ulysses S. Donaldson, Negro, employed by the Board of Education in the Sumner High School. Neither petitioner filed schedules of liabilities and assets.

They would point with pride to their good looks and good design which men say are in such good taste.

GERMAN COMMUNIST EXECUTED BY NAZIS

Edgar Andre, Former District Leader of Red Front, Convicted of Treason.

By the Associated Press.

HAMBURG, Germany, Nov. 6.—Edgar Andre, former district leader of the Communist Red Front Fighters, has been executed, authorities stated today.

He was charged with murder, treason, attempted murder and inciting to violence in connection with the Nazi-Communist clashes, and was convicted July 10.

Demonstration in London Against Execution.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—A woman who threw a brick through a window of the German Embassy last night in protest against the execution of the German Communist, Edgar Andre, today, cried: "We don't want these Nazi murderers!" when arraigned in Bow Street police court.

The defendant, Ruth Ellen Gastar, was released on probation after she had admitted she smashed the window on reading of the "cold-blooded murder of Andre."

Harold Horne, who, police testified, stood in Piccadilly Circus last night, crying: "Drive Ribbentrop, the Fascist ambassador, out of Britain; the Germans have murdered Andre!" was fined 40 shillings (about $10).

MAN BURNED IN EXPLOSION AT UNION ELECTRIC CO., DIES

Hugh W. Johns Victim at Cahokia Branch; Companion in Hospital.

Hugh W. Johns, operator in the Cahokia plant of the Union Electric Light and Power Co., died today at St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, of burns suffered Wednesday night in an explosion at the plant. Gas which formed in a coal bin is presumed to have ignited in some manner and caused the explosion. There were not witnesses.

Johns' task was to watch valves on pipes which distribute pulverized coal to storage bins. He was about to close a safety valve when the blast occurred. Clarence Youngman, 29 years old, French Village, was working with Johns and was seriously burned about the body. He is in the same hospital.

Johns was 36 years old and lived at 1607 South Ninth street.

TWO HANGED IN MISSISSIPPI

Negroes Killed Two White Overseers on Grenada Plantation.

By the Associated Press.

GRENADA, Miss., Nov. 6.—Two Negroes, Andrew Hemphill and Tommy Jones, died on the gallows here today for the killing of two white overseers. The overseers, William Simpson Jr., former Duke University athlete, and W. M. Ingram, 21, were shot to death on a plantation near here, Aug. 12. The Negroes said they shot in self-defense.

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., Nov. 6.—Three murderers were hanged in Oakalla Jail today. Richardson and Eneas George, Indians, were executed for the murder of F. H. Gisbourne, Dominion Indian Department Constable, at the Canford Reserve, near Merritt, in May, 1934. Charles Russell was hanged for the killing of a teller during a Vancouver bank holdup last January.

TWO GET YEAR AND DAY FOR $4175 BANK THEFT

Ex-Teller and Tavern Keeper Sentenced—Former Stops Trial to Plead Guilty.

Elmer J. Bergmann, former teller at the Southern Commercial & Savings Bank, and August H. Lichtenberg, a South Broadway tavern proprietor, were sentenced to a year and a day in the Federal Reformatory at El Reno, Ok., by Federal Judge Charles B. Davis yesterday, on charges in connection with the theft of $4175 from the bank last Dec. 8.

Bergmann, charged with grand larceny, had pleaded no contest when the case was called Wednesday. Lichtenberg, charged with aiding Bergmann in misapplication of the bank's funds, pleaded not guilty and a jury was about to be sworn to try him yesterday when he changed his mind and pleaded guilty. The Court then ordered Bergmann before him and sentenced both defendants.

Bergmann surrendered to Chicago police two days after the money disappeared and said he had taken it when drunk.

TWO YOUTHS GET 10 YEARS 12 HOURS AFTER ROBBERY

Plead Guilty at Tampa, Fla., to Hitting Man on Head With Brick in Holdup.

By the Associated Press.

TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 6.—Less than 12 hours after Perry Ross, disabled war veteran of El Paso, Tex., was struck on the head with a brick during an attempt to rob him, two jobless youths had been sentenced in Criminal Court here to 10 years each in State prison.

The youths were listed as Woodrow Young, of Allentown, Pa., and Jack Filson, of Pittsburgh. They were arrested by city detectives after Ross had reported being attacked Wednesday night.

Within two hours following arrest, the pair had been sentenced; they entered pleas of guilty.

10 ALABAMA CONVICTS ESCAPE, ONE CAPTURED

Men Disarm Power House Engineer, Cut Off Lights and Climb Wall.

By the Associated Press.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 6.—Officers were searching today for nine of 10 convicts who escaped from Kilby State prison last night by seizing a power house engineer and cutting off the reservation lights.

Robert Weems, accused of being a ringleader in the break, was recaptured at a Western Railway shop several miles from the penitentiary, four hours later.

Hamp Draper, chief of the State convict department, said the men used a rough ladder to get over a high stone wall, then fled into the dense woods behind the prison. Not a shot was fired.

T. A. Hamrick, serving a life term from Jefferson County, entered the office of J. L. McCullough, night engineer, and disarmed him after threatening to strike him on the head with a hammer, Draper said.

He then forced the engineer and a convict assistant into a small tunnel under the power plant building, where F. E. Schooley and Frank Carter were hiding, Draper related. The men tied the engineer and his assistant, obtained keys to the power sub-station and opened all the switches. They also cut all telephone lines they could reach, Draper said, and cut off power to the prison cotton mill and other buildings.

Draper said convicts in the cotton mill broke up machinery with hammers in the darkness but made no effort to join in the escape.

The escape was the fourth in Alabama's prison system in recent weeks. The first three were at Speigner prison, in Elmore County, where one convict escaped during the excitement of a baseball game, and two others—trusties—drove off in a guard's automobile. The fourth break occurred when eight men dug through the floors of their cells and escaped. The eight men were recaptured, but the participants in the other escapes are still at large.

The final vote for President was: Roosevelt, 1,734,190; Landon 1,129,670; Lemke 130,817; Browder, 5718. For Governor: Davey, 1,534,020; Bricker, 1,408,934.

MISSOURI HOUSE LINE-UP IS ABOUT SAME AS IN 1935

Republicans Have 49 Representatives, Half as Large as Democratic Delegation.

ALL OF KANSAS CITY GROUP RETURNED

Two G. O. P. Leaders, O. K. Armstrong and George Harlan Defeated — Tie Broken in One County.

When the Missouri Legislature convenes Jan. 6, the Republican side of the House of Representatives will be virtually the same size as in 1935, or about half as large as the Democratic section.

Reports on election of all the 150 House members will not be complete until after official canvasses of the votes, but unofficial returns showed the Republicans had elected 49 members, or more than they had two years ago.

In Osage County, Dan Keisker, Republican, appeared to be the winner over his Democratic opponent, Herman Schroeder, by two votes. They were tied, with 2923 votes each until absentee ballots came in today. There were nine for Keisker and seven for Schroeder.

Among Republican House leaders who were defeated were O. K. Armstrong of Springfield and George Harlan of Pilot Grove. Jackson County returned the same 10 Democrats who served in 1935 and St. Louis elected a solid Democratic delegation of 19, including 11 incumbents.

The State Senate will have a membership of 31 Democrats and three Republicans.

Returns on election of House members, as compiled by the Associated Press, follow:

FARMERS' REAL ESTATE RISES IN VALUE FOR THIRD YEAR

Bureau of Agricultural Economics Survey Says It Is 12 Pct. Over 1933.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—A Bureau of Agricultural Economics survey showed today an increase in 1936, for the third consecutive year, in the average value of the American farmer's real estate.

Reporting that farm real estate values rose 4 per cent above last year, the bureau said they now are 12 per cent higher than they were in the spring of 1933.

The gains also were said to be more general than in the year preceding. Increases in average value per acre were shown for 46 states as compared with 31 states in the previous year.

The percentage increase in per acre value by states in 1936, as compared with 1935, included Illinois, 7; Missouri, 3.

FOUR KILLED, TWO INJURED IN COAL TANK EXPLOSION

Accident Occurs While Workmen Are Repairing Apparatus at Plant at Painesville, O.

By the Associated Press.

PAINESVILLE, O., Nov. 6.—Executives of the Diamond Alkali Co. at Fairport, three miles north of here, investigated today the cause of an explosion which killed four workers and injured two others seriously.

The dead were George Downing, 37 years old, Mentor; Byron Ostrander, 43, Madison; Jack Butler, 25, Painesville, and Martin Kauppila, 26.

The explosion, which occurred late yesterday in a storage tank filled with pulverized coal, took place while workmen were repairing apparatus on a platform above the tank.

It blew out the walls of the coal pulverizing unit of the plant, causing the roof to cave in.

GENERAL MOTORS SUED; 10 MILLION SOUGHT ON PATENT

Infringment of Rights on Vaporizers Alleged by Trustees of Gassifier Manufacturing Co.

A suit for $10,000,000 damages for alleged patent infringement by the General Motors Corporation was filed in Federal Court today by trustees of the Gassifier Manufacturing Co., which formerly had offices in St. Louis.

The petition, drafted by Orla M. Hill and Jesse L. England, attorneys for the trustees, alleges that General Motors has infringed the company's patents for a fuel vaporizer for carburetors and a vaporizer specially adapted for internal combustion engines since Feb. 7, 1922, and asks for a royalty of $1 each on 10,000,000 devices said to have been used since that time.

The sole rights to manufacture the devices, the petition says, were acquired by the Gassifier Manufacturing Co. from the inventor, Maurice O. Smith, formerly of Dallas, Tex., who obtained patents on the vaporizer for carburetors Feb. 7, 1922, and on the other vaporizer, Dec. 18, 1923.

The manufacturing company was incorporated under the laws of Delaware May 3, 1920, but its charter was declared void in January, 1928, for failure to pay franchise taxes. Thereupon, the petition says, plaintiffs, constituting a majority of the board of directors at that time, became trustees with authority to act in the interests of stockholders.

Since Feb. 7, 1922, the petition says, General Motors continued to infringe the carburetor-vaporizer patent and "wrongfully converted to itself trade and profits" which the Gassifier Manufacturing Co. otherwise would have enjoyed.

Five corporations controlled by General Motors, it is alleged, have manufactured, used and sold the devices. They are identified as Chevrolet Motor Co., Buick Motor Co., Pontiac Motor Co., Cadillac Motor Co. and Olds Motor Works.

Trustees for the company bringing the suit are Fred W. Eckstein, 4271A Botanical avenue, its former president; R. E. Eckstein, Kirkwood; Benjamin Bechtold, E. C. King, Charles O. Thompson and John D. Horst.

RUMANIAN POLICE ARREST COMMUNIST SYMPATHIZERS

But Suppress Manifesto of Iron Guard Objecting to Military Aid for Russia.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 6.—Rumanian police, in apparent partial concession to the threatening, anti-Jewish Iron Guard, arrested many Communist sympathizers in raids today.

However, authorities took energetic steps to suppress an Iron Guard manifesto which warned King Carol and the makers of Rumanian foreign policy that they must "guarantee with their heads" that Rumania will never be led into a war on the side of Bolshevism.

Publication of the manifesto or comment on it was forbidden and Government spokesmen sought to dismiss the episode as "typical of the customery Iron Guard agitation."

The manifesto was signed by Carneliu Zelea Codreanu, leader of the Iron Guard. It served notice on the King that Rumanian youth is in no mood to permit the issue of Bolshevism to disrupt the nation.

"The King and his directors of foreign policy must guarantee with their heads the correct development of this policy," said Codreanu.

"Should Rumanian youth be obliged to fight on the side of Bolshevist Powers against the defenders of Christian civilization, they would rather slay the responsible leaders and then commit suicide."

Codreanu denounced the Little Entent for alleged collaboration with Soviet Russia, and called upon Rumanian youth to renounce Free Masonry.

TELEVISION NOW DAILY SERVICE IN ENGLAND

Only Few Receiving Sets, However, Mostly for Demonstration Purposes.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—British television, now officially in the experimental stage, became a regular service this month.

Daily broadcasts of pictures with sound for experimental purposes were started Oct. 1 by the British Broadcasting corporation from Alexandra palace on a hill north of London.

Officials declared the daily two-hour programs were designed for manufacturers and others desiring to demonstrate receiving sets, the theory being that so few sets were in private hands that longer broadcasts were needless.

Two systems are being used, Baird Television, Ltd., and Marconi-E. M. I. Television Co., Ltd. Each has a separate station in the palace under the supervision of the BBC which has been quite strict in observing a neutrality of preference.

The dual system was established by the television committee named in the House of Commons in May of 1934 with Lord Selsdon as chairman.

The idea of dual broadcasting was to permit a free play of ideas leading to a more rapid development of the art. As far back as 1929 BBC permitted the broadcast of low definition television, but there now has been established by the Selsdon committee a minimum definition of 240 lines per picture with a minimum frequency of 25 pictures per second.

Similar to Movies.

That means the pictures must be sent in sections of at least 240 lines reproduced 25 times each second, a continuous process which results in a final effect much like moving pictures. The Baird system employs 240 lines; the Marconi is sent in 405 line sections.

First public demonstration of high definition television was given during a national radio show in September.

The initial experimental programs in October were pronounced satisfactory by public and press. Programs were picked up some 10 miles from the studio in busy Fleet street with very little distortion despite the operation of hundreds of printing presses, telephone and telegraph wires and other electrical disturbances.

High Price Bars Purchase.

Few sets so far have been sold to the public, and a television receiver in London excites as much interest as a cat-whisker crystal radio set in the old days. A price range on receivers of £50 to £120 (about $244 to $586) and more has restricted distribution.

Either the Baird or the Marconi sending impulses can be picked up by the receivers.

Baird operates with a moving picture film but can also send directly from a spotlight studio. When using the former, the film with a sound track is made of the scene in the studio, and within 30 seconds it is developed and threaded through the television sending machinery.

The Marconi system picks up the scene directly through a television camera, which can be used either in the studio or outside, and broadcasts it directly.

After many months of investigation both in Europe and the United States, the Selsdon committee decided to install both systems under similar circumstances under the direction of BBC.

ELECTION BOARD STARTS OFFICIAL COUNT OF VOTE

Expected to Be Completed Tuesday; Recheck on Thirteenth Ward Race Completed.

Official count of the vote in Tuesday's election was started by the Election Board today, with the expectation it would be completed by Tuesday. The results were so overwhelmingly Democratic that politicians have shown little interest in the official figures, unlike the situation arising from close contests. Little difference from the unofficial figures was anticipated.

Recount of th votes in the August primary for election of the Democratic committeeman of the Thirteenth Ward, begun Oct. 24, was resumed by the Election Board today, after a brief interruption caused by the general election. A contest was brought by Henry J. Phelan against James H. Stewart, who was re-elected on the face of the returns. Members of the board have been considering a request to Circuit Court to require Phelan to post surety bond to cover the cost of the recount, estimated by them at $1500 to $2000.

PALESTINE ADMITS MORE JEWS

Won't Suspend Immigration Pending British Inquiry.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—Colonial Secretary William Ormsby-Gore announced in the House of Commons yesterday that 1800 immigration certificates had been allotted to the Jewish agency for Palestine for the six months ending in April, 1937. The certificates, earmarked for Jewish labor immigrants, will permit the entry of about 4000 persons.

The Colonial Secretary said the Government had decided that the temporary suspension of immigration during a royal commission's investigation into the underlying causes of the recent Arab disorders, as demanded by Arabs, was unjustified. The commission left for Palestine yesterday.

MRS. THELMA CLARK.

WIDOW TESTIFIES FRIENDSHIP WITH PURSER WAS PLATONIC

Mrs. Thelma Clark on Stand at Los Angeles in $150,000 Alienation Suit.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—Mrs. Thelma Clark, widow of William A. Clark III, grandson of the late United States Senator William A. Clark, Montana copper king, testified yesterday that her friendship with Michael Fitzpatrick, former ship purser, was "entirely platonic."

The 34-year-old widow took the stand to defend herself in a $150,000 alienation of affections suit by Fitzpatrick's wife, Mrs. Christine Fitzpatrick, whose parents reside in Claremont, N. H.

Mrs. Clark admitted a week-end visit with Fitzpatrick to her 3600-acre ranch near Escondido, Cal., but denied any attempt to gain his affections.

Under cross-examination, Mrs. Clark was asked if she ever hugged or kissed Fitzpatrick prior to the week-end visit.

"No," was her vigorous reply.

She later admitted, however, that subsequently she kissed him, "but only when bidding him good-by."

The widow said she met Fitzpatrick in June, 1935, while returning from New York to San Francisco via the Panama Canal.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick, preceding Mrs. Clark to the stand, testified she and her husband were happily married until the appearance of Mrs. Clark.

ADOPTED GIRL GOES TO SEE MOTHER SHE THOUGHT DEAD

As Baby She Was Taken by Pastor's Family When Her Parent Was Ill.

ROME, Ga., Nov. 6.—Virginia Park came here today to see the mother she had thought was dead.

The 18-year-old Birmingham (Ala.) girl was adopted in 1918 by the Rev. and Mrs. David Park, then living in Anniston, while her mother was ill. Only recently she learned her mother, Mrs. John Wesley Knight, had been living near Cartersville but recently moved to Boaz, Ala.

"It's a queer feeling to find at the age of 18 that your parents are foster parents and that you have a mother alive somewhere," she said.

She concluded she would have to divide her time between her two homes. This was the decision reached by Mary Louise Pittman Garner, girl claimed by families in Atlanta and Macon, who recently became old enough to choose between two families.

FAVORS PUBLIC SERVICE BOARD AWARDING LIGHT CLEANING JOB

Utilities Committee of Aldermen Votes Favorably on Bill for Yearly Contract.

A favorable report was voted by the Public Utilities Committee of the Board of Aldermen yesterday on a bill to authorize the Board of Public Service to award a contract for maintenance and cleansing of street and park lights.

The last contract, with the Welsbach Street Lighting Co. of America at a cost of $325,000 annually, expired Aug. 31, 1934, and since then it has been extended informally by 90-day periods. Led by Alderman George A. Byrne, some of the Aldermen wanted the city to undertake this work itself. They argued that the city could do the work just as well and probably at a saving.

However, Director of Public Utilities Edward E. Wall has reported that it would cost the city $107,000 for an initial investment in equipment and $398,000 a year for the work. He was of the opinion a new contract could be obtained at a lower cost than the old one. The committee amended the bill to provide for a one-year contract instead of three years. One apparent reason of Aldermen favoring handling of this work by the city was the opportunity for more patronage.

MAN INDICTED FOR EXTORTION; WEALTHY VICTIMS NAMED

Accused of Trying to Get Money From G. H. Lorimer, Harry F. Sinclair.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Frank Vitolo, a former adagio dancer, was named defendant yesterday in a Federal indictment charging him with atetmpting to extort money through use of the mails.

The indictment charged he demanded $5000 from Mrs. Bernard E. Smith, wife of a Wall Street operator. He also is accused of seeking to extort $5000 from Mrs. George Horace Lorimer, wife of the Philadelphia publisher; $10,000 from Harry F. Sinclair, oil man; William R. Coe, who once paid $110,000 for a race horse, and Col. Douglas I. McKay, another prominent New Yorker.

Vitolo was returned to United States custody yesterday after alienists at Bellevue Hospital reported he was sane. Vitolo is accused of writing Coe, following his wife's loss of $500,000 worth of jewelry in the robbery of their Long Island house, that payment of $5000 would obtain the jewelry.

Fifth Auto Death Near Kirksville.

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., Nov. 6.—The fifth death as a result of motor-car accidents in this vicinity last week-end occurred yesterday. Mrs. C. E. Gibson, 85 years old, died from injuries suffered Friday night when a car driven by Leland Lay, a grandson, went into a ditch on Highway No. 6 east of here. Lay was blinded by the lights of an approaching car.

DENTAL SOCIETY URGES SAFEGUARDING MILK SUPPLY

Urges Enactment Along Lines of Standard Ordinance Favored by U. S. Health Service.

The St. Louis Dental Society has adopted a resolution urging the enactment of an ordinance for permanent safeguarding of the city's milk supply, along the lines of the standard milk ordinance recommended by the United States Public Health Service. The resolution folows:

"The dental profession is always cognizant of the intimate relationship between food and dental and oral health; in the case of milk and its products, the health of the citizens of the municipal area of St. Louis must depend upon its cleanliness, purity and other qualities; for many years the milk supply has not been universally safeguarded under past and the present ordinances designed for the purpose.

"It is the opinion of the dental profession that this situation should not be permitted to endure to the detriment of public and professional confidence.

"The St. Louis Dental Society desires to go on record with the public as being in favor of and does urge that an ordinance for the permanent safeguarding of the milk supply of this municipal area be enacted.

"Such an ordinance shall be devised according to the standard milk ordinance recommended by the U. S. Public Health Service and which is already in force in more than 600 smaller municipalities. Such a new ordinance shall contain in addition the same or higher standards suggested by the U. S. Public Health Service. It shall contain so-called grading and degrading clauses which will permit the consumer public to be aware of the quality of milk being consumed."

SAYS SCIENCE FAILS TO FACE PROBLEM OF HUMAN NEEDS

Dr. Galdston Declares It Needs "To Develop Concern With Man As Spiritual Being."

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—An attack on the "conceits of science" and a plea for science "to develop a concern with man as a spiritual being" was made to the American Institute Wednesday night by Dr. Iago Galdston, executive secretary of the New York Academy of Medicine.

"Science," he said, "has given mankind immense control over his environment and over the material world. But science has not only failed to solve the essential problems of human relations but indeed has compounded and aggravated them immensely. I go further and charge that science has dissipated, laid ruthless waste, if not maliciously, at least ignorantly, the cultural and moral heritage of mankind and has left it spiritually bankrupt."

Concerning the scientific progress of medicine he said: "We have eliminated certain disease plagues, but in their stead we have created others—unemployment, monotonous work, crowded cities, nasty industrial towns, devitalized, synthetic foods, 'ersatz' (synthetic) nurture for the mind and spirit, speed, noise, dust, fumes, the mania of success; in a word, the most insane of insane worlds."

CITY BUYS MORE TAX BILLS TOTAL PAID REACHES $59,245

Purchases Made to Protect Liens; Full Amount, Including Penalties, Bid.

Purchases of delinquent tax bills by the city yesterday, in the course of protecting its tax liens, amounted to $20,197 for 232 pieces of real estate, having aggregate assessed valuation of $466,840. This brought the city's total purchases since the annual sale was opened Monday by Collector William F. Baumann to $59,245, for 469 parcels.

On advice of the Law Department, the city has been making outright bids of the full amount of the bills, including penalties, rather than attempting to buy in the bills for less. There was one instance yesterday of an individual, rather than the city, buying up one of the bills offered for final sale. He bid the face of the bill, $8.82, and hence the city did not compete. Four other buyers bid in four later bills, not eligible for final sale, for a total of $232.02.

It was expected the daily sale sessions at Civil Courts Building would be ended Monday.

STARK CALLS ON PENDERGAST

Politics Not Discussed, Says Kansas City Boss.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 6.—Maj. Lloyd C. Stark, Governor-elect of Missouri, today called on T. J. Pendergast, Democratic organization leader, at Menorah Hospital here where he is ill. Pendergast said politics and State affairs were not discussed.

Maj. Stark arrived at 7:30 a. m. from his home at Louisiana, Mo., and was met at Union Station by Senator Harry S. Truman. The two immediately went to the hospital, where they remained about half an hour. The Governor-elect left for Flagstaff, Ariz., at 9 a. m., on a three-week hunting trip.

EX-CONGRESSMAN ELLIS WEDS

Kansas City Man Marries Mrs. Katherine Morgan at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 6.—Edgar C. Ellis, 82 years old, of Kansas City, former Missouri Congressman, and Mrs. Katherine Morgan, 53, of Cincinnati were married at a clergyman's home here yesterday.

Ellis met Mrs. Morgan in St. Petersburg, Fla., two years ago. He served four terms in the national House from the Kansas City district. His first wife died in October, 1931.

SOCIALIST MANAGER HOPES FOR FARMER-LABOR PARTY

Says His Followers Would Join Labor's Non-Partisan League in Such a Move.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Hope for the formation of a national Farmer-Labor party was expressed today by Clarence Senior, national executive secretary of the Socialist party and manager of its 1936 campaign.

In a statement issued from Socialist headquarters here, Senior said members of his party hoped that labor's Non-Partisan League would "take immediate steps to form a Farmer-Labor party on a nation-wide scale."

"The Socialist party," he said, "will be glad to co-operate in every way possible, just as it co-operated with the La Follette campaign in 1924 and with the attempt to form a labor party which was made following that campaign."

$1600 FIRE DAMAGE IN FLAT

Fire of undetermined origin caused damage of $1600 this morning in a brick flat at 5062 Kensington avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Barnett Simkowitz, owners of the property and occupants of the first floor, smelled smoke at 6:30 a. m. and called other residents, all of whom got out without injury.

Mrs. Rose Torin and her son, Raymond, 16 years old, live on the second floor and Mrs. Rebecca Pilchik occupies the third floor quarters. Most of the damage was confined to the downstairs flat. Simkowitz was saying morning prayers when the fire broke out.

BOY, 7, INJURED BY AUTO

Driver Says He Could Not Stop in Time for Albert Bruns to Pass.

Albert Bruns, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bruns, 1626 Park avenue, suffered a skull injury today when he was struck by an automobile as he was crossing the street in the 1200 block of Park avenue on his way home from church. He was taken to City Hospital.

The driver, Arthur C. Fries, a salesman, 3694 Montana street, said he was unable to stop when the boy darted in front of his car.

SON IDENTIFIES WOMAN KILLED BY STREET CAR

Mrs. Charlotte Schulz, Widow, Run Down on Lee Av. Near Clay St.

A woman fatally injured by a one-man street car last night on Lee avenue 100 feet east of Clay avenue, was identified today as Mrs. Charlotte Schulz, a widow, 3928 Sherman place. She died last night at Christian Hospital but the body was not identified until shortly after noon today when her son, George Schulz, with whom she resided, visited the morgue.

The operator of the car, Michael McLaughlin, 4456 Bessie avenue, told policemen M:. Schulz stepped into the path of the car and was dragged about 30 feet before he could stop. He dropped the fender, preventing her from going under the wheels. She suffered fractures of the skull and leg.

Mrs. Schulz was the fourth woman in four days to die of injuries suffered in street car accidents in St. Louis or St. Louis County.

Motorcycle Policeman Hurt.

Patrolman John Engler of the Traffic Division suffered a broken left leg last night when his motorcycle collided at Grand boulevard and Park avenue with an automobile driven by a man who said he was John Joyce, 20 years old, 4562 Davison avenue. Engler was taken to City Hospital. He is 32 years old and lives at 3517 Morganford road.

LAID OFF FROM WORK BY CONSTIPATION

"For four years I suffered from constipation. I had gotten so weak I had to lay off from work. My doctor told me to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Since then, my grocery list has never been complete without it."—Mr. A. W. Murphy, 1010 16th St., Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

This delicious cereal will give you the same, sure relief. Laboratory tests prove it's safe. Within the body, its "bulk" absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, gently cleanses the intestines. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B which tones the intestines, and iron for the blood.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily. Serve as a cereal or cook into appetizing recipes. Isn't this natural food better than pills and drugs?

When you're at the grocery store today, get a package of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Try it a week, and see if you don't feel worlds better. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Don't let your child's cold be worse tonight

RUB HIS CHEST with PENETRO before he goes to bed

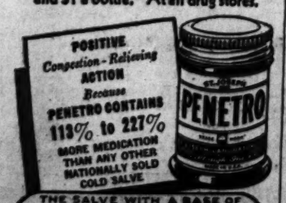

Little bodies are tired after a day of romping and playing. Resistance is lowered. Circulation slows up. Congestion seems to get worse.

Mother: make your youngster more comfortable tonight. Rub his little chest with warming, soothing Penetro. Its aromatic vapors help to soothe and open up stuffy nasal and bronchial passages. Your little one can sleep more soundly, and so can you.

Penetro is stainless and snow-white. Keep a jar handy for the deep-seated colds of all your family. New size 35c, contains twice as much as the 25c size. Larger sizes 60c and $1. Trial size 10c. At all druggists. For free sample of Penetro Salve, write Penetro, Dept. S11, Memphis, Tenn.

RABBI ASKS FR. COUGHLIN FOR AN AVOWAL OF REGRET

Criticises Him for Suggesting Jews "Drop Their Law of an Eye for an Eye."

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Rabbi William F. Rosenblum of Temple Israel made public today a letter he had written to the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, asking the priest for an "avowal of regret" for his suggestion that Jews "drop their law of an eye for an eye."

"The truth of the matter is," wrote the rabbi, "that neither Judaism nor Christianity has a monopoly on laws of mercy and of love."

"Your avowal of regret at the erroneous impression created by your Cleveland invitation to Jews 'to drop their law of an eye for an eye' in favor of the 'Christian' principle of the Golden Rule," added Rabbi Rosenblum, "should be only the first step in your effort to clear up that unfortunate mistake."

Asking the priest to use every means at his command to explain his "error," the rabbi asserted the Golden Rule had been a part of Judaism since the beginnings of the faith.

PEACE DELEGATION URGES HULL TO SEEK CUT IN ARMS

Sees Secretary on Eve of His Departure For Conference at Buenos Aires.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Secretary of State Hull outlined today the principal objectives of the inter-American peace conference convening at Buenos Aires Dec. 1, at which 21 American republics will be represented.

On the eve of the departure of the United States delegation to the conference, which Hull will head, Hull told a delegation of the People's Mandate Committee to End War:

"Dark and threatening clouds overhang the international horizon in many parts of the world. Our delegation and, I am sure, all those with whom we shall meet are keenly aware of the gravity of our task and the magnitude of our opportunity. We hope and pray that our efforts will meet with full measure of success."

Speaking on behalf of the committee, Mrs. Gerard Swope of New York, and Rabbi Phillip S. Bernstein, Rochester, N. Y., called on Hull to assume leadership of a program for the reduction of armament by international treaty.

WOMAN FINED, MAN SENTENCED TO JAIL FOR POSSESSING STILL

Two Others, Accused After Seizure on Farm at Vigus, Mo., Released.

Mrs. Roy P. Palmer of Vigus was fined $250 and Floyd A. Wilkerson sentenced to six months in St. Charles County jail by Federal Judge Charles B. Davis today on a charge of possession of a still on a farm near Vigus, owned by Mrs. Palmer and her husband and rented by Wilkerson. Mrs. Palmer pleaded no contest and Wilkerson pleaded guilty.

The two were arrested last April 8, by Alcohol Tax Unit agents who surprised them when they tried to pump mash out of vats on the farm, in an outhouse containing a still. Sebastian Tamarchio, found nearby, and Roy Palmer also were arrested and later charged jointly with the others, but the charges against them were dismissed today for want of evidence.

FILLING JUDGE DICKMANN'S POST WILL BE LEFT TO STARK

Gov. Park Makes Announcement; Withholds Selection for Court of Criminal Corrections.

Gov. Park announced at Jefferson City today that he would not make an appointment to fill the vacancy in Circuit Court which will result from the death of Judge Joseph F. Dickmann, but would leave the selection to Lloyd C. Stark, who will succeed him as Governor Jan. 11. However, he added, if some unforseen necessity makes it necessary for him to make the appointment in the week after the vacancy occurs aJn. 4, he would select the person recommended by Stark.

The appointment will run to the end of 1938, when a Judge will be elected for the remaining four years of the term. Gov. Park said he would not announce appointment of a Judge to succeed Judge Dickmann in Court of Criminal Correction before tomorrow. This appointment will last to the end of the year. Joseph L. Simpson was elected to the ensuing full terms.

Some leading Democratic politicians have been discussing recommendation of Lawrence McDaniel, former Circuit Attorney, for the place as Circuit Judge. McDaniel declined to tell a Post-Dispatch reporter today whether he would accept. Several lawyers have been looking into the possibility that Circuit Judge Robert W. Hall, one of the unsuccessful Republican candidates for re-election, who received the highest vote of the defeated contestants, might claim the vacant place on the theory that Judge Dickmann had not qualified for the office and the next highest candidate was automatically entitled to it. Such a claim would have to be taken to the Supreme Court of Missouri after certification of the official returns.

ITALY ORDERED TROOPS TO SPAIN, MADRID ASSERTS

Quotes Captured Soldier as Saying He Was One of 50 Sent on Munitions Ship.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The Spanish Government submitted to the British Foreign Office today a statement purporting to have been made by an Italian captured in the civil war, saying he was sent to Spain with 50 regular Italian soldiers to serve on the Illescas front.

The note, presented by the Spanish Embassy, quoted one Luigi Corso Siliberta of Villa Costelli, Brindisi Province, Italy, as saying the troops left Genoa in September on an Italian ship which carried 15 guns and 50 cases of ammunition to Vigo.

Italian officers, the alleged statement said, supervised the placing of six of the guns at Illescas.

The prisoner was quoted as stating his 18 months of enlistment will expire in October of 1937, and that neither he nor the other soldiers had volunteered for duty in Spain.

However, he was alleged to have said the Italian Government gave him 50 lire as a bonus, plus 200 pesetas received upon arrival in Spain.

The man also is reported to have said he saw 15 Italian armored cars at Caceres, Spain.

CHINESE CHILDREN SOLD TO PAY RENT

Investigator Reports Appalling Conditions in Agricultural Districts.

(From the Manchester Guardian.)

SHANGHAI, August.—The widespread sale or pawning by impoverished Chinese farmers, of women and children to landlords in payment of overdue rent is described in a study of agrarian problems in southernmost China by Mr. Chen Han-sheng, a member of the Research Committee of the China Institute of Pacific Relations, which has just been published here under the auspices of Lingnan University, Canton.

"In Kwangtung Province," Mr. Chen states, "the peasant runs to the bosom of the usurer, asking for a favor, helpless and naive." He runs to him not only with his agricultural products, implements and livestock as securities, but also with his daily necessities, such as clothing, furniture, and even the house in which he lives. Human beings also are pledged.

"Throughout the province an immense number of domestic semi-slave girls as well as licensed and unlicensed prostitutes and a vast reserve of both, are simply helpless and mute victims on the altar of usury. In the southwestern part of Kwangtung, where a peasant girl of 10 years of age is sold for only $40, a big landlord family sometimes keeps as many as 20 such peasant girls. Some of them are given to the daughter of the house at the time of her marriage, as a part of her dowry."

Harsh Landlords.

Immediately east of Lien-kiang, in Kwantung, are the districts of Wu-chwan and Hwa-hsien, where the landlords have the reputation of adopting the most stringent measures to enforce payment of rent.

In Wo-chwan when rent is in default for the first year a monthly interest of from 3 to 5 per cent is charged on it; should the rent be in default for another year the landlord employs ruffians to extract as much as they can. In Hwa-hsien the landlord usually bribes soldiers to collect his rent for him. For collecting a rent amounting to 60 cents the soldiers are rewarded with a payment of $6, which means that the luckless peasant must pay 11 times the original rent. Mr. Chen relates that in 1920 a tenant in Hwa-hsien sold his 9-year-old son for $120; two years later he had to sell another, 5 years old, for $90; and again two years later he sold his 6-year-old daughter for $70. On each occasion the money was used to pay rent and debt. "So every year, early in the spring," Mr. Chen points out, "the extortion of back rents calls forth a sale of children."

20,000 Disposed Of.

Under these conditions, it is not surprising to learn that rural Kwang-tung has been systematically exploited as a reservoir of cheap labor. From such villages as Shunteh, Pan-yu, Chungshan and Sin-shwei, Mr. Chen states, "nearly 20,000 peasant girls have been taken to Hongkong and are now working as housemaids with the status of a 'Mui Tsai.' Other streams of peasant girls, bought and sold, move towards the cities of the province itself. In Swatow, the market price of a housemaid used to be $100 and that of a concubine about three times more; but at the present time, with the increasing inability of the peasants to support their daughters, the average price may be said to be from 30 to 40 per cent lower.

There was a time when military officers of the lower ranks made lavish purchases of peasant girls. Now the purchasing power of these circles, too, and of other urban classes is diminished; and a far greater number of peasant girls is pawned rather than sold outright. The price obtained by pawning is, of course, much lower than that obtained by sale; but since the peasant father is often not in a position to redeem the pledge, pawning often simply represents a disguised form of selling at much less than the customary price."

PART THREE. ST. LOUIS, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1936. PAGES 1—6C.

BOMB DAMAGES GAMBLING HOUSE IN EAST ST. LOUIS

Entrance Wrecked and Glass Shattered by 4 A. M. Blast at Mulepole Fritz' Establishment.

POLICE ESTIMATE LOSS AT $4000

93 Windows in Warehouse Across Street Broken — Porter Working in Basement Unhurt.

East St. Louis' most elaborate gambling establishment, operated by Adam C. ("Mulepole") Fritz at 353 East Broadway, was bombed at 4 o'clock this morning.

Promptly after the explosion the windows were boarded up from inside and heavy tarpaulins were hung on the outside to conceal from public view the dice tables, the 50-foot blackboard on which racing results were entered, and the other paraphernalia of a gambling resort.

Police, who have permitted the place to operate for four months without interference, estimated the damage at $4000. Fritz could not be reached for an estimate and reporters were barred from the building, but so far as could be observed from a back window which had not been covered, the damage was not extensive.

Extent of Damage.

There was a two-foot hole in the concrete floor of the entrance, three large plate glass windows had been blown out, and the window frames were bulged.

Across the street, 93 windows in a four-story brick and frame building used as a warehouse by the Slack Furniture Co., were shattered. Two windows in guest rooms at the Broadview Hotel, at the northwest corner of Broadway and Fourth street, were broken. The gambling establishment is on the northeast corner of that intersection.

Police reported they found no trace of the bomb, but dectected the ordor of black powder when they reached the scene.

A Negro porter, Nat Rivers, was at work in the basement at the time of the explosion. He was not injured. Rivers said he heard a noise in the front part of the shop just before the explosion.

One theory of a motive for the bombing was that it resulted from the jealously of rival gamblers who were losing business to Fritz.

Building Was Remodeled.

The building, which formerly contained three stores, was extensively remodeled when Fritz set up his gambling establishment there. Partitions were torn down and two large rooms created. In one there was a dice table and a pool table, and another larger dice table was under construction. The other room contained the blackboard on which racing results were entered, betting windows, and about 100 chairs for bettors.

Fritz, who lives at 3917 Magnolia avenue, St. Louis, has operated gambling resorts on both sides of the river for many years. In 1930 he was kidnaped by gangsters and released on payment of $35,000 ransom. In 1927, when there was a report that one of his establishments on the East Side had been robbed of about $30,000, Fritz' only comment was "Well, the boys came over from St. Louis for a donation and we gave it to them." Fritz formerly shod mules at the National Stockyards where he caquired the nickname "Mulepole."

LIVESTOCK MAN ROBBED OF $300 IN E. ST. LOUIS

Chases Holdup Man for Four Blocks, But Latter Boards Bus and Escapes.

Walker Workman, livestock breeder, of Ingraham, Ill., was robbed of $300 yesterday afternoon in East St. Louis by a man who escaped on a bus after being chased four blocks on foot.

Workman told police he had been approached by three men, who said they were interested in obtaining some breeding stock from him. He was driven to the 700 block of North Tenth street, East St. Louis, and went to the rear of a house with one of the men, while the others drove away.

On reaching the back yard, the man snatched Workman's money from a trouser pocket and fled, with Workman in pursuit. The chase led to Thirteenth street and Summit avenue, where the robber boarded the bus. The bus driver, questioned later, told police the man offered a $10 bill for payment of his fare, and when he said he was unable to change the bill, the robber got off the bus, saying he would get change and catch the next bus.

By J. Roy Stockton.

Washington University's football team, stronger than it has been at any time since the Notre Dame game, but still not at full strength, will oppose the Duquesne University Dukes at Francis Field under the floodlights tonight and Jimmy Conzelman and his men regard the contest as a struggle with one of the best football elevens in the country. The kickoff is set for 8:15 o'clock.

Much depends on the ability of Capt. Al Iezzi and Fullback Joe Bukant to stand up under the punishment that is sure to be dealt out by the rough-riding Night Riders from Pittsburgh. Iezzi's injured leg muscle has been improving, but he still lacks much of his speed and it probably will be necessary to send him into a guard position on defense, with Dwight Hafeli moving from end to back up the line and Irv Londy shifting to defensive end.

Bukant has been showing an approximation of his best speed in recent workouts, but he is still below par and so the Washington attack will not be what it was in the Illinois and Notre Dame games. However, without Bukant, it wouldn't be much of a team at all, so he will be at fullback.

Ozment to Start Game.

Tommy Ozment, who showed excellent generalship in the Oklahoma Aggie game, will start at quarterback, with Dick Yore and Bob Hudgens at the halves. Hudgens, who suffered a dislocated right elbow in the Notre Dame game, went through the Oklahoma contest without a recurrence of the injury and if he can protect the arm against Duquesne, it will mean much to the Bears.

Conzelman will present full strength in the line. Les Brungard, his injured leg much improved, will be at one of the wings and Hafeli, an All-America candidate if the district ever had one, will be at the other. Tomlinson and Bowman will be the tackles, with Londy and Bertagnolli flanking Capt. Iezzi at the guard positions.

The Bears went through a long and strenuous workout last evening, the coaches trying to make up for the time lost early in the week on account of bad weather. The athletes drilled on their plays in impressive fashion and considerable time was devoted to a defense against the Duquesne attack. After the Bears finished with their workout, the Duquesne squad worked out under the lights on Francis Field.

Dukes Upset Panthers.

If Duquesne shows anything like form displayed against Pittsburgh, in the game in which Pitt was upset, 7 to 0, the Bears will be fortunate to hold the visitors to a low score. In the Pitt game, the Duquesne line outplayed the formidable Pitt forward wall, which is ranked with the best in the country.

The Bears will have to pay strict attention to two young gentlemen wearing the blue uniforms of Duquesne.

Capt. Mike Basrak is No. 1 among those to be feared, and right behind him comes Boyd Brumbaugh.

Basrak, a 215-pound six foot three inch center, is the greatest pivotman ever to play for Duquesne. He's been a regular from the first day he reported and has yet to be outplayed by an opponent. Never injured, most of the time playing the full 60 minutes, Basrak is a Rock of Gibraltar on defense. He plays in and out of the line and makes 60 per cent of the tackles.

Elmer Layden, who coached at Duquesne when Basrak was a freshman and has seen him play many times, says "Basrak can make any team in the country."

A "Triple Threat" Player.

Brumbaugh is a 190-pound back who can both give it and take it. He's a brother of Chet Brumbaugh, a great fullback at Carnegie Tech several years ago. He's a powerful runner, fast, does the punting, the passing and equally as proficient as a blocker.

He's never failed to shine in any game. A junior, he still has another year with the Dukes. Against Geneva on a field loaded down with water and mud, he personally escorted Duquesne to its first touchdown in that 33 to 0, taking a punt on his own 35-yard line and wading right through the entire Geneva team for 65 yards.

Against Pitt, when Halfback George Matsik ran 71 yards for the only touchdown of the game, Brumbaugh blocked out the first Pitt man to come in at Matsik and sent his teammmate on his way. Brumbaugh also tacked on the seventh point for the Hilltoppers against the Panthers.

Last week against Detroit, Brumbaugh had to bear the brunt of the attack, what with an ailing fullback and several right halfbacks out of commission. He carried the ball seven out of every eight plays and stuck in there for 57 minutes. He intercepted a pass on his 45 and toted it back to the Detroit eight, for the longest run of the game, 47 yards.

Duquesne is far from a healthy state. Karrs and Bechtloff, the fullbacks, haven't been right since before the Pitt game. Matsik and Vairo, right halfbacks, have been sorely missed, making it imperative that Brumbaugh carry the load.

Zoppetti, the quarterback, was badly used up at Detroit and Lou Terrone, a former quarterback who has been playing halfback, will be turned loose at quarter.

George Platukis, star pass catching end, is suffering from a wrenched shoulder; Tackle Joe Maras had an injured leg and Johnny Perko, a guard, is ailing.

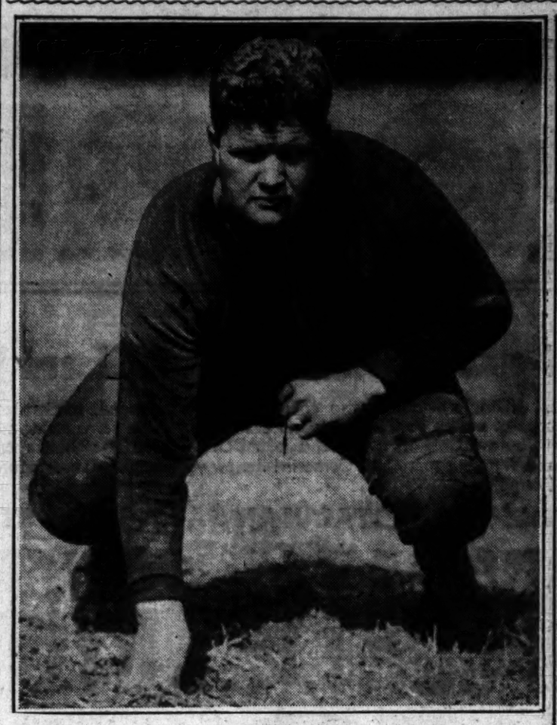

Yale Captain Rests.

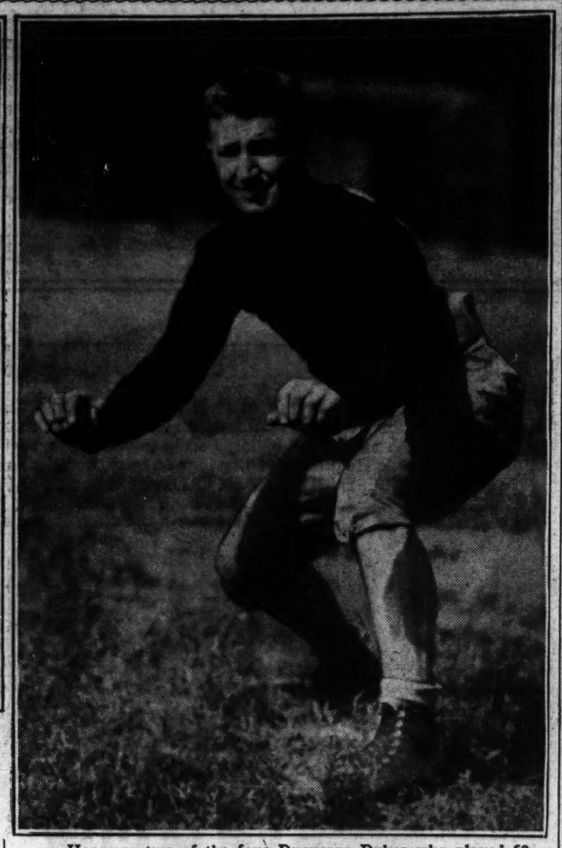

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 6.—Capt. Larry Kelley and Clint Frank, star back, took their second straight "day off" as Yale held a dummy scrimmage against Brown plays, winding up a light workout with passing and kicking drills. An air of confidence spread over the entire squad.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Will appear again when the writer returns from vacation.

IRON DUKES: They'll Be in the Line Against the Bears Tonight

Here are two of the four Duquesne Dukes who played 60 minutes in Clipper Smith's eleven's famous victory over Pitts. At the left is William Critchfield, guard, and at right, Joseph Maras, tackle. Critchfield is described as one of the most sensational sophomore players discovered in the Pittsburgh district in many years.

CONZELMAN PICKS—

Fordham to Take Purdue and Remain Undefeated, Notre Dame to Sink the Navy and Colgate to Win From Holy Cross in a Close One.

By Jimmy Conzelman,
Head Coach, Washington U.

While the games Saturday lack the high spot contributed last week by the Northwestern-Minnesota game, there are enough close battles in prospect to offer a dozen or so pitfalls to the forecaster.

For real Rose Bowl importance, the Fordham-Purdue game tops the card. It will be a battle between a great Fordham line and two outstanding Purdue backs, Isbell and Drake. Michigan State and Temple meet but both have been defeated. In the East, the best contest should be played at Worcester, Mass., with Colgate and Holy Cross as the opponents, and in the South, Alabama and Tulane should provide the fireworks.

No predictions have been made for the Billiken and Bear games. With Missouri and Duquesne as opponents of the St. Louis teams, football fans will se the best teams of the year parade on local fields.

TORPEY SCORES 72 TO WIN GOLF MEET

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 6.—Carding 36-36—72, two over par, Bunny Torpey of Kansas City yesterday won the annual Midwest P. G. A. golf tournament at the Indian Hills Club. Clarence Yockey of Kansas City and Webb Gilbert of Topeka were tied for second at 74, each missing a four-foot putt on the eighteenth green.

Harry Railsback of Kansas City had a 76, and five of the 13 entrants, including defending champion Hank Decker of Kansas City, were deadlocked at 77. Walter Sedey of St. Joseph carded 38-42—80; John Caldwell, St. Joseph, 41-41—82, and Leland Gibson, Topeka, 41-40—81.

WESTERN UPSET BY COUNTRY DAY IN LEAGUE PLAY

An upset. That is the only word that fits perfectly the victory of the Country Day eleven over the Western Cadets yesterday afternoon, 12 to 6, on the Country Day field. The reason for the Western defeat was over-confidence and a lack of good blocking.

Western made its only score in the second quarter when Bill Wertman went around end from the five-yard line. Western got the ball on the Country Day 15-yard line, when Woolsey back in punt formation on the fourth down, fumbled. Wertman then ran the ball to the Country Day 10-yard line, where he was forced out of bounds. On the next play, he carried it around his own left end for the score. The attempt to place kick for the extra point went wild.

In the third quarter, Country Day came to life and started a passing attack. The real attack on the Western goal came when Russe passed from the Country Day 35-yard line to Woolsey on the Western 20-yard line. He ran the ball to the Western nine-yard line. On the next play an attempted pass put the ball back on the Western 30. On the second down, a pass from Woolsey to Russe put the ball on the Western three-yard line. On the third down, Lawton hit the line to put the ball on the one-inch line. On the next play Lawton went over for the score. The attempt to pass for the extra point failed.

With a little more than two minutes to go, a long pass from Russe to Woolsey resulted in the final Country Day touchdown. The try for the point failed. With the game nearly over Country Day blocked a Western punt which rolled back to the Western three-yard line and was recovered by Country Day. On the next play Lawton plunged the line for the touchdown only to be called back because his right end was offside. Before the Codasco team had a chance to run another play the game ended.

The Western "C" team clinched the "ABC" League title for the "C" division yesterday at Burroughs, defeating the Burroughs "C" team, 19 to 6. Western scored twice in the first quarter when Dickenson then Pardee went over. The try for the extra point after the second touchdown was good. Western scored again in the third quarter when Hazzard went over for the tally. The try for the extra point failed. The only Burroughs score came in the last quarter when Guidi scored on an end run from the 25-yard line.

"Giants Would Not Part With Hubbell For Dean"—Terry

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 6.

"ANY deal that the Giants might make for Dizzy Dean positively would not include Hubbell.'"

That was the emphatic statement today of Bill Terry, manager of the New York Giants, in commenting on the rumor that the National League club officials were planning to trade Carl Hubbell for Dean to the St. Louis Cardinals.

Terry would make no further comment.

Ross and Janazzo To Fight for Title Nov. 27 in Garden

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The New York State Athletic Commission today approved a welterweight championship boxing bout between Titleholder Barney Ross and Izzy Jannazzo. New York Eastsider, in Madison Square Garden Nov. 27.

Sam Pian, one of the champion's managers, and Guy Anselmi, the challenger's pilot, agreed to a commission request that the winner of the bout would defend the title within 60 days against Ceferino Garcia. Garcia's eyes were badly damaged in fighting a 15-round draw with Jannazzo for the right to oppose the Chicago titleholder.

The championship combatants were ordered to report to the commission next Wednesday and sign contracts for the 15-round bout.

PURDUE ELEVEN IN NEW YORK FOR ITS GAME WITH FORDHAM

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The Purdue football squad, 36 strong, arrived in New York this morning for their game against Fordham tomorrow at the Polo Grounds.

Coach Noble Kizer, who arrived yesterday, met the squad at the station and took them to their quarters at the Westchester Country Club in Rye, N. Y.

Kizer said he would send them through a light signal drill in Rye this afternoon, and keep them there until time to come to Manhattan for the game.

ROCHESTER PRO GRID ELEVEN DISBANDS

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Professional football, unable to survive financial difficulties in Syracuse, also has taken the count here.

The Syracuse Braves, transplanted here a week ago, disbanded yesterday. Don Irving, coach of the team in both cities, left for New York, where he will play with the New York Americans.

WRESTLING RESULTS

HARTFORD, Conn.—Yvon Robert, 218, Montreal, defeated Stanley Pinto, 210, Manchester, N. H., one fall (Pinto unable to continue).

CAMDEN, N. J.—Joe Cox, 231, Kansas City, defeated Ed Meske, 218, Toledo, two out of three falls.

NEBRASKA'S VETERANS HAVE BIG EDGE IN KANSAS GAME

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 6.—Opportunity will knock on the Kansas football team's door tomorrow, but there was a strong possibility the Jayhawks would be out. In fact, they may be out cold, as they meet the mighty Nebraska Cornhuskers, who to date have gone over Big Six rivals like a vacuum cleaner.

Kansas has a chance to bolster a faltering prestige by scoring on the Huskers, something no other Bix Six team has done.

The Jayhawks enter the game with the odds overwhelmingly against them. They will be meeting one of the nation's best, a team defeated only by Minnesota and with two backs rated All-America caliber.

Pitted against this all-star, veteran array, Coach Ad Lindsey has virtually a green team, with sophomores in the key positions. The Jayhawks have won but one game in five starts, and tied one.

However, Lindsey and his gridiron saplings are not conceding a thing. They know the Nebraskans will have a tendency toward overconfidence, that they will be saving their Sunday punches for the Pittsburgh game next week.

They also discovered in the Arizona game last week that they themselves, have a pretty potent defense.

A Scrappy, Confident Team.

"We have a young, aggressive, fighting team," Lindsey said yesterday. "It has every hope of scoring on Nebraska."

The schools have met 42 times, with Nebraska winning 31 games, Kansas 9, and two games tied. It has been underdog Kansas teams which defeated or tied the Huskers, and the last Kansas victory was in 1916, when Lindsey captained the Jayhawks.

The Nebraska eleven is in top condition physically. Lloyd Cardwell, ace back, and Bob Mehring, regular guard, both of whom were out of the Missouri game with injuries, have recovered.

The Kansas are in good condition also, generally speaking. J. D. Richardson, sophomore back, was lost through illness, but Wade Green, veteran end who has been on the hospital list, may see service.

It is the Kansas homecoming game, expected to lure fans in large numbers.

Lindsey planned to send the Masoner-Hapgood Replogle - Douglass backfield combination into action tomorrow.

The crippled Kansas State Wildcats left for Oklahoma last night to meet Major Lawrence ("Biff") Jones' potent but surprisingly unsuccessful Sooners. Tomorrow the two regular Kansas State ends, Bill Hemphill and Barney Hays, may not be able to play, and Bob Kirk, blocking back, and Ed Klimek, guard, are nursing sore shoulders.

Just a Breeze for Wildcats.

The Wildcats still have a chance at the title, although they must defeat Oklahoma, Iowa State and Nebraska, but Fry was frankly worried over tomorrow's encounter.

Perfect football weather helped revive sagging spirits at Oklahoma yesterday, and the squad went through its paces with the old dash. Jones had Earl Crowder and Bo Hewes punting at length, indicating he might play a kicking game against the Kansas Staters.

CREIGHTON READY FOR MARQUETTE CONTEST

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 6.—Creighton University gridders toiled for two hours and 30 minutes yesterday on fundamentals in preparation for the homecoming game with Marquette here tomorrow.

When the workout ended, Coach Marchie Schwartz announced his squad was in tip-top shape to meet the undefeated and united avalanche. It will be the twenty-second annual meeting of the two schools on the gridiron.

Muellerleile Has Two Backfields Ready for Game With Missouri

By James M. Gould.

If some one more than ordinarily interested in Saturday afternoon's fourteenth meeting between the St. Louis U. Billikens and the Missouri U. Tigers whispered that the Billikens had shown thus far this season the better attack and as good a defense, would you think it another campaign story or what? The figures show that the whisperer would have a real basis for his claim but, of course, the kind of competition the two teams had faced would have to be considered.

Well, let's look at the opposition. Missouri has met Cape Girardeau Teachers, Iowa State, Kansas State, Michigan State and Nebraska. St. Louis has battled with Missouri Mines, De Paul, Marquette, South Dakota, North Dakota and Wichita. There might be an edge there for the Tigers in their having met consistently stronger opposition but, certainly, there is nothing "pushoverish" in De Paul, North Dakota and Marquette and Wichita went into its game with the Billikens a decided favorite.

So much for the class of opposition. Now, in five games, Missouri has scored 37 points to 40 for the opposition. In six games, the Billikens have counted 74 points to 82 for their opponents. The Tigers have averaged one touchdown a game and have been scoreless in two games; the Billikens have averaged two touchdowns a game and have been blanked only once. Missouri has averaged 7.4 points a game and St. Louis 12.3 points a game. In the case of both, the opposition has averaged two touchdowns a game.

Tigers Will Be Favorites.

Now, don't jump off the deep end because of these figures and immediately conclude that the Billikens should be logical favorites. They shouldn't be and they won't be, for St. Louis is full of stories of the prowess of the Missouri line and the numerical strength and super-quality of the Tiger backfield. The Tigers will take the field favorites. Whether their performance after the first whistle blows justifies the selection remains to be seen.

After all, statistics are dependable mainly because they are elastic and can be twisted into any old combinations, permutations and arrangements. If they could be relied upon absolutely, there would hardly be any sense in playing some of the games scheduled.

The St. Louis U. starting line is pretty well settled but Coach Muellerleile reserves the right to start either of two complete backfields. On the forward wall, Gorman will be at center, Ben Putnam and Yates at guards, Rossini and Cianciolo at tackles and Mitchell and Ruhl at ends.

Has Two Backfields Ready.

Muellerleile's two backfields, either of which may start, consist of Veith at quarter, Hemp and Shea, halves, and Kloepper at full and Drone at quarter, Totsch and Nunn, halves, and Herrmany at full. Which will start will not be known until the Missouri lineup is definitely announced.

According to present plans, Coach Don Faurot will offer a changed lineup in that Jack Frye, who matriculated in football at Rice Institute and who is the best Missouri back, will be replaced by Henry Mahley at quarter, and a sophomore, Walter Boain, will be at end in the place of Moss, with Gasparic in Castle's accustomed halfback post.

These substitutions change the weight lineups a bit. The Billiken line will average 190.4 pounds, the backfield—if Veith leads his combination—170.5 pounds, and the St. Louis team, 183.2 pounds. With Mahley, Boain and Gasparic in the Missouri starting combination, the Tigers will show a line averaging 188.5 pounds, a backfield averaging 170.8 pounds and a team average of 182.1 pounds.

The chances are that Missouri will depend in the main on a ground attack, while the Billikens will stress an air offense.

TIGERS' COACH PLANS TO USE EIGHT PLAYERS FROM ST. LOUIS

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 6.—Coach Don Faurot yesterday said he would take Missouri University's 52-man football squad to St. Louis today where it will be introduced at an alumni dinner and later will attend the night Duquesne-Washington football game.

The Tiger mentor has planned to have four full teams in uniform when the Tigers meet St. Louis University, including Jack Frye, first string quarterback who will watch the kickoff from the sidelines, nursing minor injuries.

Kinnison, center, probably will not see service except in an emergency, and Hawthorne, injured end, has been definitely counted out with injuries.

An unofficial "M. U." day has been planned at St. Louis, with Frederick A. Middlebush, president of Missouri University, scheduled to speak at the alumni dinner, along with Don Faurot and his coaching staff.

Faurot indicated the starting lineup would include eight players whose homes are in St. Louis and vicinity. They are: Huston Beaty, center, Kirkwood; Jack Beger, right guard; Godfried Rau, right tackle; Frank Heidel, left tackle; Walter Boain, right end; Harry Mason, fullback; Captain Al Lende, quarterback, all of St. Louis, and Clyde Nelson, end, East St. Louis, Ill.

Arrangements have been completed for the third game between the freshmen of St. Louis and Washington Universities. It will be played at Walsh Stadium next Wednesday night. In the first two games, the scores were 6-6 and 0-0.

Mel McGonnigle, sensational Billiken sophomore halfback—and a great guy, incidentally—is getting to football "touch" again. He was injured in an early contest and spent several weeks on crutches. Yesterday, he was using the injured leg to kick and reported that said bad member was coming around fine. He probably will be able to take part in the Grinnell and Washington contests, the last two on the Billiken schedule.

County Coaches Suggest Change In Age Limits

The St. Louis County Coaches' Association passed a recommendation yesterday that the eligibility rules for State high school athletes be changed. The new plan proposed would make students eligible until they were 19 years of age, regardless of the number of semesters they had been in school, and provided that if a player had started a sport and reached the age of 19 during that sport's season, he would be allowed to finish it.

The present rule says that players may not compete after their eighth semester in school, and may not engage in competition after they are 20 years old.

The elimination of the javelin throw was another proposal that was passed at the meeting, the coaches being unanimous in recommening its elimination. The reason for the second recommendation was the fact that two students had been struck by javelins in the last three years. One of them was hit last year during the county track and field meet.

These recommendations will be sent to Carl Burris secretary of the State Coaches' Association, who will present them at the State meeting next week.

Henry E. Schemmer, track coach and assistant football coach at University City was elected secretary-treasurer of the county group to succeed Sam Hall, Clayton, who has been elected to the same office in the State organization.

CRONIN DECLARES HE WILL PLAY THIRD BASE NEXT YEAR

Old Stubblebeard Comes Back to the Big League Wars

A major league manager! Fine! The team? Uh—there'll be changes. I'd like to have Dizzy. We'd get along. —By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer. I was a pitcher. I know Mungo's great.

RED SOX WILL MAKE CHANGES BEFORE START OF 1937 RACE

Boston Manager Is Having Ailing Thumb Treated Daily—Spends His Time Playing Golf.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Come next baseball season and Joe Cronin will be playing third base.

That's definite, the Red Sox manager said yesterday then amended —if the broken thumb heals up.

"I'm feeling great now, spry as a kid," Cronin said today, disregarding talk that his Red Sox days were numbered.

"It's good to be able to forget baseball for awhile. No strain now, no worries. I'm just taking life easy. Playing golf, and loafing around.

"We did have a pretty tough year, some bad breaks. But it's all over and I'm glad. I'm certainly not taking a busman's holiday. My thoughts definitely are not on baseball these days."

Cronin said he would go into a huddle with Owner Tom Yawkey and Eddie Collins of the Red Sox shortly before the winter baseball meeting and would discuss plans for probable trades or sales then.

"We'll make some changes, but there's plenty of time to think of them later. A fellow shouldn't have to think of business on his vacation," he grinned.

With himself on third next season, Cronin proposes to send Bill Werber to the outfield.

The thumb Cronin broke early last season, the injury that kept him out of the lineup for months and affected his play all year, still is giving him trouble.

"I'm having it treated regularly here now," Joe said.

The trouble seems to be in the joints. A physician is giving it heat treatments and thinks it will mend.

"However, if it doesn't, he'll probably have to operate. He may find it necessary to scrape the bone."

Cronin's golfing cronies are his father-in-law, Owner Clark Griffith of Washington; his arch rival of the diamond, Manager Bucky Harris of the Senators, and Buddy Myer, Washington infieldeer.

"I'm a pretty lousy golfer," he explained, "but we have lots of fun."

Collinsville Will Play Alton Team In Game Tonight

Although Collinsville High School's football team engages Alton High in a crucial Madison-St. Clair Conference game tonight at 8 o'clock, at Alton's field, a more important game is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon at Parsons Field, in East St. Louis, when East St. Louis and Madison meet. Wood River is host to Belleville's Maroons in another league game tomorrow afternoon.

The East St. Louis-Madison duel should be a hard fought game. The victor will move into co-leadership with Granite City for the East Side league title. Granite City is idle in this week's play and at present is in undisputed leadership of first place with four victories and one defeat. Madison and East St. Louis are tied for second with three victories against one defeat.

Collinsville has won three and lost two, while its opponent, Alton, has a .500 average with two wins and two defeats. A defeat for either team would eliminate it from a possible tie for the championship in the final standings. Should Collinsville defeat Alton the Kahoks will move into third place. However, an Alton victory would drop Collinsville to fifth place and give Alton a tie for third place with the loser of the East St. Louis-Madison game.

Cellar occupants battle for their first victory of the season when Wood River and Belleville pair off. Each team has lost four straight in league competition.

League standings:

TEAM.	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Granite City	4	1	.800
East St. Louis	3	1	.750
Madison	3	1	.750

WEBSTER ELEVEN WINS FIRST GAME OF YEAR; BEATS RITENOUR, 14-0

Webster Groves and Ritenour High Schools' football elevens moved their game up from a scheduled Saturday date to last Wednesday and played their game at Ritenour's field, Webster winning, 14-0, although outplayed most of the game. I twas Webster's first victory in six games this season.

Mike Gross and Bill Higgins did the scoring for Webster, Gross making both touchdowns, and Higgins the two extra points.

The first touchdown came after an intercepted pass by Gross on Webster's 25-yard line. After marching down to Ritenour's 15-yard line, Gross took a short pass from Pendarvis, and on the next play scored. Gross scored the second touchdown in the fourth quarter, returning a punt 30 yards for the tally.

Ritenour made more first downs than Webster, but couldn't score.

Yankee "Farm" Clubs Outdid Those of the Cardinals for First Time in 1936 Campaign

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—A golf magazine estimates that 1,365,000 played golf in 1936, with 861,000 digging divots on private courses, 203,000 on public fee layouts and 301,000 on municipal courses, a sizeable increase over a year ago. It estimates 58,194,632 rounds of golf were played during the year over the nation's 5361 courses and that 91,962 dozen golf balls were sold with the 75 centers leading the cheaper ones by about 50 to 1.

Seventy-five new courses costing $5,500,000, were added by the Works Progress Administration.

For the first time since the chain store system began operations in baseball, the Yankee chain eclipsed the Cardinal chain in '36. The Cardinal chain's only winner was Columbus, Ga., whereas the Yankee system produced two winners and play-off champions, three second place clubs, three third and one fourth. The prize Yankee chain gang was Norfolk, which walked off with honors and then whipped their nearest rivals in three straight play-off games.

Frank M. Troeh of Portland, Ore., claims to be the clay target wizard to end play target wizards. Since the introduction of the game in 1912, Troeh has an all-time registered average of over 97 per cent on all his targets. He has won 17 state trapshooting championships, six more than his closest rival. In the Oregon State in 1931 he broke 200 out of 200. Since that time he has missed 10 times in 1000 chances in the Oregon State shoot scoring a perfect record again in 1933. They say Troeh is a square shooter too.

Plenty of Bowling Interest.

American Bowling Congress officials say 9,000,000 men and 600,000 women are bowling enthusiasts. The annual bowling congress, opening in New York March 11, will attract 3500 teams, including two teams which will come all the way from Hawaii to roll 15 games. The congress is the largest athletic event in sport from the standpoint of competitors, 20,000 keglers swinging into action. The average bowler will spend $160 or a grand estimated sum of around $2,000,000.

Twenty-eight alleys will be constructed for the event. All have been sold in advance to bowling hall proprietors who will set them up in their establishments after the ABC. Each team uses a new set of pins, 3500 sets, for the ABC.

The pins are carefully weighed. The first two weeks, pins weighing three pounds four ounces are used. At the end of that time, they are increased an ounce. After four weeks, pins weighing three pounds six ounces are used and kept as by that time the alleys are "normal."

Each ball is weighed and tested for balance. Each bowler supplies his own ball. Lead weighted balls are out. The maximum weight per ball allowed is 16 pounds; maximum circumference 27 inches.

Ninety-five per cent of all congress help returns year after year for the big show. Even the pin boys, ranging from 25 to 45 years of age, return. One of them comes from England to work for $5 a day because he's intrigued with the show. A captain of an English steamship annually cables for the winners of each event.

No combination has even won an ABC championship two years in a row.

Hafey's Return Would Be Like Gift From Heaven, Giles Says

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 6. — Warren Giles, new vice-president and general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, said today that should Chick Hafey, veteran outfielder, return to the team next year, "it would be like a gift from heaven."

"Right now, however," he added, "I'm not putting a single egg in the basket."

Hafey, who entered the voluntary retired list of 1934 because of illness, has been represented as anxious to attempt a comeback.

Asserting his disfavor of Puerto Rico as a training spot for the fifth-placers of last season's National League race, Giles said it remained to be seen whether the Reds would "get out of" a contract for a return trip, entered into months ago by Larry S. McPhail, his predecessor.

"I do not favor the Reds training in San Juan," he said. "I believe they can get all the training they need in Florida, and I consider Tampa an ideal place."

"I'd be silly to say I didn't want him," said Giles when asked about reports that he might acquire Dizzy Dean, the St. Louis Cardinals' ace hurler.

"As I said before, Mr. Crosley (Powel Crosley Jr., club president) is willing to pay any reasonable sum for him, but I do not believe he would be willing to sacrifice any of the Reds' playing strength to make such a deal."

LOUISVILLE HAS NOT MADE ANY ATTEMPTS TO REPLACE GRIMES

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 6.—William A. (Cap) Neal, general manager of the Louisville American Association club, said today no overtures had been made to anybody to succeed Burleigh Grimes as manager of the Colonels.

Grimes, who piloted the Louisville team last season, was named manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The first application was made by Nick Allen through a friend. Allen managed the Akron (Ohio) club of the Middle Atlantic League last year and was formerly skipper of the St. Paul and Kansas City American Association clubs.

"Red" Rollings, who served as Grimes' assistant here, was listed as a prospect.

Muny Football Teams in Benefit Program Sunday

WITH more than 20 players more or less seriously injured in the course of the season, many of them forced out of play for the balance of the season, the Municipal Football League has been forced to the expedient of "benefit" games to raise funds for their "cripples."

A double-header will be played at the Public Schools Stadium Sunday afternoon and money raised at the gate will go into the hospital fund.

The league teams, which have played their games at Forest Park before crowds ranging from 3000 to 6000 every Sunday, are the Weber-Deibels, Food Centers, White Lines and Central A. C.

Louisiana State Doing Right Well Through Air — Pennsylvania Sophomores Prove Real Stars.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 6.—Figure out this game of football if you can. Duquesne upset Pittsburgh, one of the country's ranking outfits, and has lost both its starts since then, to little West Virginia Wesleyan and to Detroit, neither of which are rated with the Panthers.

BATON ROUGE, La.—Arkansas may be the "passingest' team, but Louisiana States Tigers are just as effective in the air. In the Vanderbilt game last week, they completed three overheads, good for two touchdowns and 68 yards in gains.

Here's Tough Luck.

SALEM, Ore.—Pity Student Manager Vern Rierson at Willamette. He was due to get a 10-day trip to California with the Bears on their coming invasion, and then appendicitis just about counted him out.

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—Coach Elmer Layden of Notre Dame ought to supply a blueprint with his latest crack about the Irish rivalry with Army and Navy. "The underdog in our games with the service teams, he says, "is really the favorite. They point their whole seasons for each other and for Notre Dame.

PHILADELPHIA—For two years Penn couldn't do it with veterans; this season the Quakers promoted four sophomores to the varsity to bolster the team and have been having a successful campaign.

Some Real Groundags.

UNIVERSITY, Ala.—This Alabama outfit really is carrying the mail. In six games, the Crimson Tide has gained 1453 yards, better than 242 a game; has piled up 78 first downs to 29 for the opposition, and shows a record of 100 points to the grand total of six by the enemy elevens.

Northern Teacher Star Is Leading Little 19 Scorer

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—The leading point maker of the Illinois Intercollegiate Conference will carry the pigskin tomorrow in the conference's feature game of the week-end — Illinois Wesleyan vs. Northern Teachers at De Kalb.

Chester Davis, sophomore quarterback of the Teachers, sprinted 27 yards last Saturday for a touchdown against State Normal to bring his total to 30 points, six more than scored by Ted Panish, Bradley halfback, who is runner-up.

Wesleyan has two victories as compared with Northern Teachers' three wins and a tie. A decisive result of the meeting will eliminate the loser from the ranks of championship contenders.

The chief scoring threat of the Wesleyan squad is Ken Chittum, signal caller, whose speed is proven by his victories last spring in the 100 and 220-yard dashes of the Illinois intercollegiate field meet.

Les Lundeen, halfback, punt, place kick and runs for the Teachers, while co-Captain Leroy Kaska, fullback, handles the kicking chores for Wesleyan.

The Lake Forest-Millikin battle Saturday also will be of great importance in the conference race. Lake Forest has two triumphs and no losses, and closes its conference schedule against Millikin. A victory will give Lake Forest a claim on the title.

Millikin, three-time loser in conference engagements, showed considerable strength last week in overwhelming Indiana State 33 to 0. The backfield was greatly improved by shifting Bill Giraitis from end to halfback. He handles the passes and punts and is a good blocker.

Monmouth and St. Viator, the other two undefeated teams, play non-league foes this week-end.

Wheaton, North Central and Western Teachers wind up their schedules Saturday.

The schedule:

Friday—Southern Teachers at Cape Girardeau, Mo., Teachers.

Saturday—McKendree at North Central; Western Teachers at Eastern Teachers; Eureka at Wheaton; Wesleyan at Nortern Teachers; Lake Forest at Millikin; Augustana at Bradley; Illinois College at Carthage; Culver-Stockton at Shurtleff; Chicago City College at Elmhurst; Coe at Knox; State Normal at Ypsilanti (Mich.) Teachers; and Cornell at Monmouth.

Sunday—St. Viator at Norbert's, West de Pere, Wis.

ILLINOIS ENGAGES IN A LONG SCRIMMAGE

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 6.—With their next encounter, the Ohio State game, more than a week away, the Illinois football team threw all caution to the winds yesterday and engaged in a real rough and tumble scrimmage with the reserves.

The scrimmage was one of the longest of the year, lasting an hour and a half with flood lights illuminating the field the last 30 minutes. No casualties were reported, a soggy practice field softening the falls. The varsity, using an effective passing attack, gained lots of ground.

Left Halfback Jay Wardley passed the ball with greater accuracy than any Illini has shown yet this year. Ends Bob Castelo and Ken Nelson and Right Halfback Lowell Spurgeon were the best receivers. Wardley was the only regular back to gain ground by rushing.

Jim McDonald, Champaign sophomore, and La Rue Morris replaced Gene Dykstra and Jack Berner at the first team tackles and Frank Burns was in at fullback for the resting Tom Wilson. This was the only shift in the lineup which defeated Michigan last Saturday, 9 to 6.

ARON AND DUBLINSKY WILL FIGHT TONIGHT

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—A home-town "feud" was expectde to steal the Chicago Stadium boxing show tonight.

Milt Aron, ence of Dubuque, Ia., but now of Chicago's West Side, trades punches with Harry Dublinsky, also of Chicago, in a 10-round welterweight bout. Both boys have their eyes on the title now held by Barney Ross, and a decisive victory would put the winner in line for a title bout. They battled to a draw here a month ago.

FLYERS LIKELY TO GET HOLMES FROM MONTREAL

A deal has virtually been closed for Louis Holmes, forward, of the Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, it was announced by the office of the St. Louis Flyers this morning.

It was determined to go after Holmes when Cliff "Fido" Purpur indicated he would not sign his contract.

Played at Tulsa.

Holmes was a member of the Tulsa club of the American Association couple of seasons ago and since has played in the Western Canadian League with the Edmonton Club where he was one of the leading scorers.

Purpur is to be placed on the suspended list unless he comes to terms today.

Meanwhile the club is practicing diligently each day although instead of long sessions it has been determined by Coach Johnny McKinnon to cut the time and increase the speed of the workouts.

As may be expected injuries have started to crop out and today three of the men are likely to miss work. Goalie Hub Nelson was struck in the left eye by a puck and his eye ball was roughed up yesterday. He will not be able to work for a couple of days. He wouldn't have been anyway as President William F. Grant of the Association notified the Flyers to place Nelson on the suspended list until the ownership tangle with Minneapolis is straightened out.

In a telephone conversation yesterday, Grant indicated that there likely would be no intereference with Nelson playing with Flyers but Hub is not to practice with the team until final settlement is made.

Ingram Is Hurt.

Frank Ingram, right wing, suffered an injury to his left knee and will be on the shelf for a day or two while Pete Mitchell, center, has a sore foot but intends to keep right on with the practice.

Olsen probably will be called upon to don Nelson's pads in goal for the workouts today.

BEAUHULD AND ABAD GO 10 ROUNDS TO DRAW AT COLISEUM

2591 FANS SEE VETERAN BOXER AND YOUNGSTER IN EVEN FIGHT

Kid Irish Awarded Close Decision Over Buckler—Johnny Miles Kayoes Gosney of Oklahoma.

By W. J. McGoogan

Draw decisions in boxing contests are supposed to please everybody but they put you in mind of the man in the fable who tried to please everybody, finished by pleasing nobody and lost his mule in the bargain.

Thus most of the 2591 fans who witnessed the bout between Davey Abad and Billy Beauhuld at the Coliseum last night still were arguing about the draw decision today. And there were something like 2591 shades of opinion.

Officials Differ.

The officials of the bout were about as far apart in their judgment as the fans. Tommy Sullivan, referee, gave five rounds to Abad, two to Beauhuld and called three even, scoring 53 points for Abad and 47 for Beauhuld. Harry Cook, one of the judges, gave three rounds to Abad, three to Beauhuld and called four even for a draw, while Al Graff, the other judge, gave Beauhuld three rounds, Abad two and called five even, scoring 51 points for Billy and 49 for Davey.

So if the fight was that close it would seem that a draw was a pretty good verdict but it satisfied nobody. Beauhuld and his supporters thought he had won, while Abad and his followers thought he deserved the nod.

Probably the surprise was the condition which Abad attained. He did not have quite all the old speed he used to show but he had oiled up the springs in his legs so that he bounded about the ring, into and out of the ropes in a manner to dazzle a youngster like Beauhuld. And Dave kept it up for 10 rounds with no let-down.

He started out circling Beauhuld in an effort to bewilder Billy. He fell into the ropes and bounced off them trying to catch the younger man unaware and the fans thought he would be so tired by the end of the fifth round that he would be meat for Beauhuld in the final half of the battle. But he wasn't. Dave didn't tire and kept pitching until the final bell.

Of course, any fight of Abad's is tough to judge. You can't give a man points for fancy footwork and in fact his constant running about the ring detracts from his performance. He doesn't deal out any punishment but he certainly makes the other fellow look bad.

Beauhuld fought a really meritorious fight against this jumping jack. Dave is hard for a real experienced boxer to meet and Billy had never been called upon to box such a ball of mercury before and probably won't again. Billy was cool, though. He didn't become flustered by Abad's tactics. He simply stood there and waited until Dave was within reach and then lashed out with his blows. He landed some good ones, too.

There was nothing decisive in the contest and a draw seemed a fair decision. But the fans didn't like the officials' ruling.

Still Not Pleased.

Then just to make matters worse, Jimmy Buckler of Louisville, Ky., and Tommy Chilero (Kid Irish), Alton, Ill., put on a close bruising battle for 10 rounds and Irish got the decision. Half the fans thought that was all right and the other half thought Buckler should have had the nod.

It was really the feature match of the five-bout card as the boys were just about even in weight and ability. They fought their heads off all the way through. But again there was no decisive margin for either. Buckler did great work in close but Irish stood off and threw punches at Jimmy, then carried the fight to him so that it was a bruising bout all the way.

Neither man suffered a knockdown although Buckler fell out of the ring in the ninth round when he missed a swing and pitched headlong through the ropes. His supporters contended that Irish gave him a push to help matters along, but it seemed to be purely an accident. Then in the tenth Irish finished strongly and carried the round by a good edge which probably decided the fight in his favor. In his efforts to win the session he pushed Buckler through the ropes twice. Jimmy's leg had been hurt when he fell out in the ninth and that might have helped the falls in the tenth.

In any event the reputation of neither lad suffered in the bout and again it was a split verdict. Cook, the referee, awarded the contest to Irish, 51 points to 49, Sullivan; one judge, gave it to Irish, 53 to 47 while Gaff, the other judge, called it 52 to 48 for Buckler. And that's how close it was.

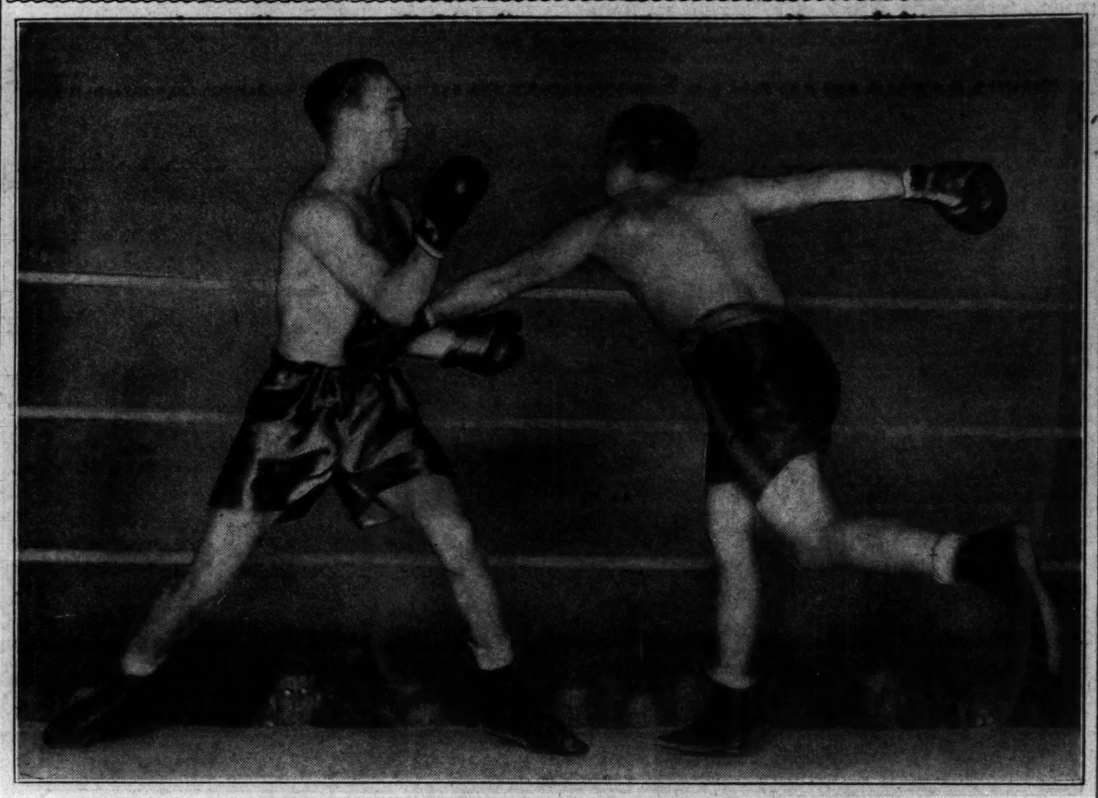

The only real damage which was done was a cut below Buckler's right eye.

These two contests finished the card after two of the three earlier events finished in knockouts with Johnny Miles, St. Louis heavyweight pulling down the curtain on Benny Gosney of Tulsa, Ok., in the second round, and Muri Thompson, St. Louis, finishing Joe La Pelle, Louisville, Ky., in the third round.

In the other contests, Charley Dawson, St. Louis Negro, outpointed Jack Nichols in five rounds.

It was the second program under the promotion of Jack Callahan and the 2591 present paid $2203.80, of which $222.82 went to the Federal Government and $97.91 each to the city and the State.

CONDITION COUNTS: Abad in Draw With Beauhuld

Davey Abad lands a left in Billy Beauhuld's ribs during their 10-round bout at the Coliseum last night, which ended in a draw. Abad, a veteran of many years in the ring, proved that long campaigning need not necessarily wear a fighter down, as he appeared in fine condition.

COLISEUM RESULTS

Davey Abad, Panama, 135, and Billy Beauhuld, St. Louis, 135, fought a draw, 10 rounds. Tommy Sullivan, referee.

Kid Irish, Alton, 124, defeated Jimmy Buckler, Louisville, Ky., 125, 10 rounds. Harry Cook, referee.

Johnny Miles, St. Louis, 180¼, knocked out Benny Gosney, Tulsa, Ok., 175, second round. Cook, referee.

Charley Dawson, St. Louis, 163, defeated Jack Nichols, St. Louis, 172, five rounds. Sullivan, referee.

Muri Thompson, St. Louis, 126, knocked out Joey La Pelle, Louisville, Ky., 124, third round. Sullivan, referee.

Judges—Cook, Sullivan and Al Graff.

DETROIT WINGS WIN OPENER OF MAJOR LEAGUE HOCKEY SEASON

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Several things have combined to give the National Hockey League season a flying start—a dispute which threatens to require the services of a battery of Philadelphia lawyers, plenty of sparkling action, including a few fine rookie performances, and a sizeable turnout of cash customers.

The champion Detroit Red Wings picked up where they left off last spring by whipping their 1936 Stanley cup rivals, the Toronto Maple Leafs, 3—1, and the New York Americans and Chicago Blackhawks began with a 1—1 tie before 13,500 customers, but the main point of interest today was the legal status of the Americans' club.

The fight which William V. Dwyer threatened to make when National League governors forfeited his franchise two weeks ago for non-payment of the Americans' debt to the league, broke out in earnest as the campaign got under way.

Before last night's game it was disclosed that Marty Shenker, business manager of the Amerks, had quietly obtained an injunction at Whitby, Ontario, near their Oshawa training camp, restraining them from playing under any name but the New York Americans Hockey Club.

Thus the Americans played at Chicago under the old regime and will continue that way for the present instead of representing the new American National Hockey Club, formed by league officials to operate the forfeited franchise.

Meantime Dwyer's representatives maintained the club was willing and able to meet its obligations; Frank Calder, league president, said representatives of other clubs would have to study the situation before the difference could be straightened out, and Manager Red Dutton was left squarely in the middle, wondering what it was all about.

The muddle apparently didn't affect the players, however, for they put on a lively scrap, resulting in eleven penalties for the two teams and narrowly missed a good chance for the winning goal in overtime when Alex Levinsky interfered with Sweeney Schriner and Johnny Gallagher just missed the penalty shot.

The scoring was confined to the second period when Cowboy Bill Kendall sent the Hawks ahead and five minutes later Harry Oliver knotted the count on a pass from Rookie Lloyd Jackson.

At Toronto, where only 8462 fans turned out, the Maple Leafs outplayed Detroit's champions for two periods only to have the Red Wings turn on the heat in the final and spoil Walter (Turk) Broada's hopes of scoring a shutout in his first major league game.

Larry Aurie's long shot from the Blue Line, which slipped past Broada a few seconds after Syd Howe had squared up for Buzz Boll's Toronto tally, was the deciding factor in the slow game. Pete Kelly sank Detroit's clinching tally.

1936 FORDHAM TEAM BEST HE EVER COACHED, CROWLEY SAYS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Coach Jim Crowley today called this year's Fordham University football team, "the best I've ever coached," but wondered whether it was good enough to beat Purdue Saturday.

"If we get by Purdue, we might go through undefeated," he said, "because we have an off-day the following Saturday. But we'll have to play our best game of the year to do it."

With both teams changed in several positions, Purdue beat the Rams 20—0 last year.

Great On Defense.

Though he agrees with football critics that his team is one of the best defensive teams in college football today, he dissents from the current opinion that Fordham is weak on offense.

"I don't think we have a great attacking team," he explained, "but if Pitt is strong on offense, so are we."

He pointed out that Joe Dulkie, his fullback, gained more ground in last Saturday's scoreless tie with Pitt than either Bobby Larue or Marshall Goldberg gained through the Fordham line. He also gave Dulkie special credit for the development of the team this year, saying:

"I think Dulkie is the most improved player on the squad."

Commenting on his statement that this is his best team, Crowley added:

"I guess I had better all-around backfield material at Michigan State, but this is the best line I've ever developed."

The entire right side of the Fordham line was injured in the Pitt game, but is expected to be ready for Purdue. Johnny Druze, right end; Al Babartsky, right tackle, and Vinny Lobardi, right guard, were all hobbling today, but Crowley said they will play Saturday.

It is doubtful, however, if Capt. Frank Mautte will be ready to start in the Fordham backfield. He strained a hip muscle in the Pitt game, and will not work out much this week.

As to Rose Bowl.

Crowley said he thought discussion of Fordham's Rose Bowl possibilities was premature, but added that he knew of no official reason why the team could not compete in the New Year's day game if invited.

"I think Purdue, Georgia and New York U. will have some serious objections to our thinking about it," he said, "but our university officials probably would approve, and I think I could get the boys to vote for it."

Shurtleff to Play Culver.

Shurtleff College of Alton will play its third football game of the season tomorrow afternoon on its home field with Canton (Mo.) as its opponent. Shurtleff lost to Principia and Eureka in its first two games. A cross-country run between athletes of Shurtleff and Blackburn College will be another feature of the "Homecoming" activities.

He's Back Again.

OLD Burleigh Grimes, the good old soul,
Is with the Dodgers now,
Where he'll assume the stellar role
Of manager, and how.
Which proves that he's as game a guy
As ever crossed the wold,
For at the toughest job he'll fly,
Like Hercules of old.

Old Grimes was noted for his nerve,
And always in a pinch
Was there in readiness to serve,
And never gave an inch.
He'll manage just the way he hurled
Nor ask for any breaks,
For we will tell the cockeyed world
That guy has what it takes.

A Change Is Indicated.

Under Burleigh Grimes the Dodgers may lay aside the harlequin habiliments and step into their fighting clothes.

Just how the Dodgers will react to a reactionary policy remains to be seen. They have been playing bases wild so long that a new deal may not appeal to them.

We take it the hunch players made a killing on Vote Boy, which won over Happy Knot after three attempts had been made to scratch him the morning after the election.

The radio listeners find a measure of relief in the cessation of campaign oratory, but they still have to listen to "When Did You Leave Heaven." Nothing is perfect.

Just as Freddie Lindstrom was being questioned as No. 1 suspect in the Dodger case, Burleigh Grimes came in and gave himself up.

At that Burleigh might have escaped if an enterprising reporter had not discovered his finger-prints on the knob of Judge McKeever's front office door.

NAVY TO "SHOOT THE WORKS" AGAINST IRISH

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 6.—A wide open, spectacular game of football when the Navy and Notre Dame meet in the Baltimore Stadium tomorrow was forecast by Tom Hamilton, head Navy coach.

Hamilton, who said the Navy would hold nothing back, explained that he expected the game to be marked by good kicking and swift shots for a score. He said that Notre Dame plays a deceptive open game and that Navy would have to open up with everything in its bag of tricks to offset the attack.

Congress May Be Asked to Authorize Federal Control Of the Horse Racing Game

By Damon Runyon.
(Copyright, 1936.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Horse racing people have been hearing rumors, disquieting to them.

They have been hearing that some form of legislation is planned to give the Federal Government a fist in the direction of the game throughout the country.

They don't know just what form the legislation is apt to take, but fear it may amount to complete control. It is said the suggestions will take definite form in the next Congress.

This is on the authority of one of the most prominent racing commissioners in the country, very closely in touch with Washington, and foremost among those viewing the rumors with considerable alarm.

Fordham or Marquette.

Fordham will get the Rose Bowl invitation if it can finish the season undefeated.

Otherwise, it will be Marquette, representing the Middle West, and said to have a truly great team this year. It is unbeaten, and untied. Fordham is unbeaten so far, but has been tied by Pittsburgh.

It is said Fordham would accept the invitation. We don't know about Marquette. Both teams are thoroughly representative of their sections of the country.

Fordham has the geographical location that might be more appealing to the Rose Bowlers. Marquette has the advantage of a more decisive defeat of a good Pacific coast club, St. Marys.

The Big Ten and the Big Three do not permit their teams to play post-season games, though we think that is foolish as far as the Rose Bowl game is concerned. It has become too important from a national sporting standpoint to be disregarded by any college, and it is worth $75,000 to a team to play there.

We saw Jannazzo fight Cerefino Garcia, a Filipino, twice defeated by Ross, in a 15 round bout, the winner to be Ross' opponent. The referee and judges called it a draw, leaving a fine stew with reference to Ross' opponent. Garcia's face was badly slashed during the encounter, and doctors say his wounds will not heal for some time.

Garcia, with his aggressive style, and superior punching power, would be a better draw than Jannazzo with Ross, but the Garden must pay $37,500 for his cuts.

Layoff Cost Braddock Dearly.

Joe Gould, manager of James J. Braddock, heavyweight champion of the world, is coming to New York to deposit a forfeit of $5000 for Braddock's appearance against Max Schmeling.

Braddock's refusal to fight Schmeling last September in New York, or in Miami during the winter, as Schmeling offered, is becoming an increasing mystery to some ringworms. Braddock said he had a bad hand. If this is true, Braddock must be given credit for honesty in refusing to take the fight public's money when he felt he couldn't properly defend his title, because it is said he is broke, and in debt.

Moreover, the postponement will cost Braddock more than anyone else, as there is scant chance that the fight will draw as much next year as it would have drawn last September.

GOPHER ELEVEN WILL OPEN 1937 CAMPAIGN WITH NORTH DAKOTA

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 6.—Minnesota's Golden Gophers will open their 1937 football schedule against North Dakota State of Fargo, N. D., Sept. 25, at Memorial Stadium, Frank G. McCormick, Minnesota Athletic Director, announced yesterday.

Minnesota's schedule was completed for 1937 with the signing of the Bison, McCormick said. Only one open date is left on the schedule, Oct. 23, the week before the Notre Dame game. This will be kept open.

The completed 1937 card:

Sept. 25, North Dakota State; Oct. 2, Nebraska at Lincoln; Oct. 9, Indiana; Oct. 16, Michigan at Ann Arbor; Oct. 23, open; Oct. 30, Notre Dame; Oct. 6, Iowa at Iowa City; Nov. 13, Northwestern; Nov. 20, Wisconsin.

ZACK WHEAT HOPES TO LAND COACHING JOB UNDER GRIMES

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 6.—Burleigh Grimes will make a good manager for his old team, the Brooklyn Dodgers, in the opinion of Zach Wheat, another veteran Flatbusher, who had been mentioned as having a chance for the job.

"Burleigh's a capable fellow," Wheat said today. "He's serious about his baseball and I think he can handle the players."

NORTHWESTERN HAS GAINED ONLY 11 YARDS MORE THAN WISCONSIN

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 6.—Northwestern eased off practice for its last home game of the season tomorrow against Wisconsin's victory hungry Badgers.

Purple scouts told the players Wisconsin had a strong offensive despite its lack of victories, and showed figures on yardage gains. The Badgers have carried the ball 1320 yards this season and haven't won a conference game. Northwestern hasn't lost a game and has lugged the ball only 1331 yards.

Coach Lynn Waldorf has been working against over-confidence on his squad. The Wisconsin game will be the last home contest for 15 Wildcats. All players have recovered from injuries.

NELSON SISTERS TO APPEAR AT CARNIVAL

One of the most popular skating teams ever to appear here, the four Nelson Sisters from St. Paul, Minn., have been signed by Promoter Earl Reflow to appear in the "Ice Follies of 1936" at the Arena, Nov. 14.

The quartet brings the total of individual skaters signed by Reflow so far to 11. Two dancing teams, McGowan and Mack, and Laverne and Busher; the popular spinner-skater, Roy Shipstead; Miss Erhardt, and the famous ice comedian, Heinie Brach, are the others on the list.

In addition, a ballet of 16 girls is being trained in Chicago to come here a week from tomorrow night to take part in special feature numbers.

Place Kicks by Niccolai Give Pirates Victory

By the Associated Press.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 6.—The Pittsburgh Pirates cut loose in the final period of a dull National League pro football game last night in Point Stadium and trounced the Philadelphia Eagles, 6 to 0. The official attendance was 7891.

A pair of field goals from placement, both kicked by Niccolai, the Pirates' right tackle, brought the Pittsburgh team its sixth victory of the season and deadlocked them with the New York Giants for first place in the Eastern division of the league.

The game was originally scheduled for Philadelphia, but was shifted to Johnstown at the request of the city's Municipal Recreation Commission.

The game was colorless for three periods, with the only scoring possibilities two futile field goal attempts by each team.

Johnny Kusko, Philadelphia fullback, dropped back to punt midway in the final period and Wilbur Sortet, Pirate right end blocked the kick and Ed Skoronski recovered on the Eagles' 36.

Three plays gained but four yards, so Niccolai tried his third field goal from placement on the 41. It was good.

Don Jackson, Eagle halfback from North Carolina University, took the kickoff on his own 8 but was brought down with such fury on the 29 that he fumbled and Zaninelli recovered for the Pirates.

Again three plays were good for only four yards and again Niccolai kicked a field goal from placement on the Eagle 31.

OHIO STATE PLAYER DECLARED INELIGIBLE

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 6.—Ineligibility, injury, soggy gridiron and Chicago—that's the multiple hazard faced by Ohio State tomorrow.

Johnny Bettridge, starter in every game for the Bucks at right half this year, went out of the lineup yesterday because of scholastic difficulties. "Jumping Joe" Williams, the best open field threat, is on the shelf because of an arm injury.

Heavy snow which fell Wednesday is certain to make the playing field soggy and hamper Ohio's wide-open style of play.

"Stomach-upset" is OUT!

"Call your SCHOTTS"

Schotts Old Lager has the punch, the body, the flavor that make a winter evening seem like spring. And don't forget, it's aged in the famous Schott caves where the temperature doesn't vary more than the two degrees between 34 and 36 degrees, winter and summer.

Honest, boys, upset stomachs and uncontrollable burps are things of the past if you stick to Schotts Old Lager. They're gone—positively out!

Just think of the thousands of "pardon me's" you save when the gang is in a huddle, the drinks are coming fast and the stories coming faster. Think, too, of always finding your stomach right side up in the morning, and howling for food.

And all because Schotts Old Lager is made right, without a single short cut—because its mellow, old time beer flavor is so downright good—because there's no raw, unconverted material to gum up digestion.

Start today and "Call Your Schotts" wherever beer is sold. And here's a hint—a few bottles of Schotts in the refrigerator are swell with that going-to-bed snack.

WALLACE TAKES UP CROP STORAGE AND INSURANCE

Farmer Would Pay Certain Amount of Wheat in Good Years and Receive Wheat Back in Poor Ones

BURDEN ON MARKET WOULD BE AVOIDED

Representatives of Warehouse Industries Meeting With Roosevelt's Special Committee.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6. — The problems of storing crops from fat to lean years under a nation-wide Federal crop insurance plan were discussed today by a special committee named by the President.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and other members of the planning group called representatives of the warehouse industries here to question them about storing wheat, cotton, corn, tobacco and other farm products that can be kept from one year to the next.

Wallace's plan calls for paying crop insurance premiums and losses in kind. For example, a farmer would pay a certain amount of wheat in good crop years and receive wheat back in poor years.

Both the President and Wallace indicated that the stored commodities should be held so as not to burden the markets.

Agricultural economists have pointed out that this would be an immense technical job, because it probably would call for more storage facilities than exist at present.

Differences in Yields.

Yields of wheat in recent years have varied several hundred million bushels. Differences in corn yields have been near the billion-bushel mark, while cotton production has varied several million bales.

If the Government is to store a sizeable part of these annual crops between the bumper and poor years, huge storage facilities will be required.

Wallace has expressed confidence that this technical angle as well as the problem of transporting stored commodities between various sections can be solved.

Wallace presided yesterday at a conference of representatives of stock and mutual insurance companies and members of the special committee. The insurance men assured him of their co-operation.

A Government Function.

Wallace said the insurance men agreed the all-risk crop insurance proposal was a governmental function because it was of "such magnitude that only the Government could swing it."

Asked if Government insurance would not encroach on hail and other insurance now written by private companies, Wallace said the insurance executives "were not alarmed."

H. M. Bissell, Hartford, Conn., executive who attended the closed conference, told newsmen afterward he had advised a "conservative" start by the Government.

Bissell added that farmers, their Congressmen and national farm organizations probably would advocate a liberal start.

Wheat Mentioned Most.

Wallace, asked by reporters what commodity would be used to start the Federal program, said wheat had been mentioned most often in committee discussions.

Turning to another topic, the Secretary said greatly increased plantings of wheat, corn and other crops probably would result next season from the short yields caused by drouth this year.

He said this would not affect the AAA program for 1937 but might cause difficulties in 1938.

LINDBERGH TESTS PLANE HE DESIGNED

Makes First Flight as Pilot Since He Went to England.

By the Associated Press.

READING, England, Nov. 6.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh took off as pilot in his own plane yesterday for the first time since he came to Europe. He made a test flight from Reading airdrome in a plane which its makers assert is the fastest light touring monoplane ever built in this country. Lindbergh helped to design it. Minor changes which Lindbergh found desirable on the flight will be made before the plane is finally delivered to him next week.

During the weeks in which mechanics secretly built the plane in a shuttered hangar here, Lindbergh paid them several visits. The craft was built largely according to his specifications in his conferences with Frederick George Miles, British airplane designer.

Already dubbed "Flying Caravan" by the British press, the new plane is fitted with tandem seats which are easily convertible into bunks.

Capable of 1000-Mile Flight.

Large gasoline tanks give it unusually long flying range and, with its 200-horsepower Menasco engine, it is said to be capable of flying nonstop for 1000 miles at about 200 miles an hour.

The narrow cabin has a transparent sliding roof which opens like a roll-top desk. There is space for baggage in the tail.

The fuselage is painted black, with the low wings finished in orange. The plane carries equipment for blind flying, radio and landing flares.

"It is the most completely equipped job we have ever put out," said T. H. Miles, brother of Lindbergh's co-designer.

When he first came to England last December with his wife and small son Jon, Col. Lindbergh did not pilot a plane.

One day last April he strolled into the American Department of Commerce in London and told an official: "My name is Lindbergh and I want to renew my license."

Reciprocal arrangements between the British Air Ministry and the United States Government enabled Lindbergh to obtain a ticket to fly here by presenting his American pilot's license for validation. The British ticket, however, forbids him to engage in commercial flying.

In Air on Continent.

For his visits to Germany and Denmark in July he hired a gray three-seater cabin monoplane. But on several trips to France he was content to travel by steamer and automobile.

During his visit to Germany, he flew several German machines and spent much of his time inspecting Nazi airfields and factories.

When he was in Denmark for the exhibition of his "mechanical heart" to world scientists assembled at Copenhagen, he made several flights over the Danish capital.

Since he returned to England, Lindbergh has lived quietly at his village home, Long Barn, at Weald, in Kent.

MOVE FOR TEACHERS' PENSIONS IN ST. LOUIS TO BE DISCUSSED

Executive Committee of District Association to Consider What Needs to Be Done.

Steps to have a plan of teachers' retirement payments adopted here will be taken by the Executive Committee of the St. Louis District, Missouri State Teachers' Association, it was announced today by Hugh H. Barr, district president.

Barr told a Post-Dispatch reporter that there was some question whether the enabling amendment to the State Constitution, adopted in Tuesday's election, would require action by the Legislature or whether local schol boards could put retirement plans into effect without further authority. If general action should be necessary in support of a legislative act this probably will be discussed at the annual meeting of the State Teachers' Association in Kansas City next week.

It has been generally understood that the teachers would advocate a system in which they and the local school boards would share, perhaps equally, in contributions to the fund. Teachers are not eligible for the social security pension to become effective Jan. 1. The teachers' organization has argued that the cost to the public of their retirement plan would be comparatively small, as the board's share would be partly offset by the difference betwen maximum salaries paid retiring teachers and minimum salaries paid their young successors. The teachers argued further that the regular addition of new teachers in this way would tend to raise educational standards. No figures have been prepared. The St. Louis Board of Education unanimously indorsed the amendment.

MURDER INDICTMENT VOTED IN KILLING IN SALOON BRAWL

August Wexler Accused in Shooting of Clarence Bosler, Another Beer Truck Driver.

August Wexler, beer truck driver, was indicted yesterday for the murder of Clarence Bosler, another beer truck driver, who was shot to death Aug. 8 in a saloon brawl.

Wexler contradicted stories of witnesses in his account to police, and said that Bosler was shot with his own weapon during a scuffle in the tavern at 2870 Missouri avenue. The quarrel began when another beer truck driver denounced the union to which all three belonged for "being too cheap to send a $3 bouquet" to his wife's funeral.

Others in the saloon said that Wexler left during the quarrel, obtained the weapon, returned and sought out Bosler in the washroom of the establishment, where the shooting occurred.

NORTH DAKOTA WANTS LEMKE IN CONGRESS, NOT PRESIDENCY

Leading Four Candidates for Re-election at Large to House of Representatives.

By the Associated Press.

FARGO, N. D., Nov. 6.—Approximately three times as many North Dakotans voted to return William Lemke to Congress from his home state as cast their ballots for him for President.

Returns from 1888 of the State's 2245 precincts, gave him 109,363 to lead four candidates for re-election-at-large to the House of Representatives. In 1911 precincts, only 33,237 supported his Union party candidacy for President. He was third, behind President Roosevelt and Gov. Landon.

He ran for Congress as a Republican.

TRIPLETS YEAR AFTER TWINS

One of New Babies Dies; Other Two Reported "Normal."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 6.—Mrs. Dan Hoover, Norwalk, Ia., farm wife who a year ago gave birth to twins, today became the mother of triplets, one of which died. The surviving babies, placed in incubators, were declared "quite normal."

By the Associated Press.

NEW RINGGOLD, Pa., Nov. 6.—Mrs. Clyde Walter, mother of two sets of twins, became the mother of triplets but only one survived. The second death this afternoon took one of the two girls. A boy died a short time after birth last Saturday. Mrs. Walter, 36 years old, and her husband, 37, now have nine children. Six others died.

FLIES OWN AIRPLANE DAILY FOR 7 YEARS

Dr. Brock of Kansas City, Goes up Whatever the Weather.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 5.—On a foggy day here Nov. 16, 1929, Dr. John D. Brock climbed into the cockpit of his private plane to start the most unusual record in aviation.

Daily since then, in foul weather or fair, Dr. Brock has taken his plane into the air for at least half an hour.

Dr. Brock is rounding out his seventh year of daily flights. On Nov. 15 he will take his 2557th consecutive air trip.

Dr. Brock has been an aviation enthusiast since his first ride as a passenger in 1911. He was taught to fly in 1924 by the veteran "Tex" LaGorne, whose whimsical ambition is to be the "oldest living pilot." Perhaps that was why Brock from the beginning was cautious at the controls.

In 1929 he started flying daily to prove his contention the weather was never too bad for at least a short spin each day.

Brock, who keeps a chart of each flight, estimated he was in the air 425 hours and flew 50,000 miles the first year. He swelled the mileage in 1931 with a nation-wide air tour. On Oct. 1 of this year his log book showed 6125 flying hours—and 600,000 air miles covered in 2513 flights.

By now as much at home in the air as on the ground, Brock shaves with an electric razor while piloting. He flies one of his three planes regularly on long business and pleasure trips. To keep his daily flights from conflicting with fishing, his other hobby, he purchased a 2700-acre tract in the Ozark Mountains in 1934 and built his own airport.

CHAPERON UNABLE TO GO, PAIR WED AND START TRIP

Cecil D. MacRae Marries Miss Winifred Carroll After Her Sister Is In Accident.

When an automobile accident prevented Mrs. Dorothy Carroll Johnson from chaperoning her younger sister, Miss Winifred Carroll, on a business trip that Miss Carroll was to make with her fiance, Cecil D. MacRae of Des Moines, Ia., they decided to forego February wedding plans and were married yesterday morning by a Congregational minister in Webster Groves.

Miss Carroll, daughter of Mrs. W. H. Carroll of 6334 McPherson avenue, is a graduate of Mary Institute. This is her second marriage. Several years ago she was divorced from Harry Huestis of Quebec, Canada. MacRae is local manager of a trunk supply firm.

Immediately following the marriage yesterday, the pair left on the business trip, now a honeymoon, which will take them through Southern states.

He said T. L. Gaukel will be temporary head of the St. Louis office, and H. C. Dunn of Chicago in the Kansas City office. Duties of the field offices, McDonald said, will be to administer the old age benefits section of the act.

On Oct. 29 police instituted a set of regulations for control of dance halls throughout the country with the object, they said, of bringing higher standards of ethics and morals to amusement palaces.

MEXICAN OIL WORKERS THREATEN TO STRIKE

Make Sweeping Demands Which Foreign Employers Declare Are Absurd.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO, D. F., Nov. 6.—A new general strike threatens Mexico's oil industry, which is largely foreign controlled.

About 100 demands were submitted by the oil syndicate to several leading producing companies in the form of a new blanket labor contract. These proposals probably will be enacted into law by Congress, governing hours, wages and working conditions in the entire industry.

Sources close to the management of one of the largest foreign companies said the demands were absurd and that further operation would be impossible if any considerable proportion of them were granted.

If the companies failed to reply satisfactorily within 15 days, indicating their willingness to enter negotiations for an oil code on the basis of the syndicate's proposals, union leaders threatened to call out 16,000 workers.

Details of the labor demands were not available, but it was stated by a reliable source that they included one that apprentice oil field workers be paid 120 pesos ($33.33) daily and another that all save two or four leading officers of each company be syndicate members.

Among the important foreign oil companies operating in Mexico are the Aguilla (Royal Dutch Shell), Huasteca (Standard of New Jersey), and Pierce. Ranking with them is Petroleos de Mexico, semi-official company formed to exploit Government-held leases.

Present foreign investments in Mexico's oil industry are estimated to total almost $400,000,000, not including the value of leases, the status of many of which is uncertain due to legislation nationalizing oil deposits.

Mexico's oil production in 1935 amounted to a little more than 2 per cent of the world output.

ATLANTA MAN KILLS WIFE AND DAUGHTER, ENDS LIFE

Son, Wounded in Shooting After Breakfast Quarrel, Is in Serious Condition.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 6.—Police said today that L. Neal Owen, 40 years old, shot and killed his wife and daughter and wounded his son this morning after a breakfast table quarrel, then fatally shot himself with a .22-caliber rifle. Owen died at a hospital. Physicians said they did not expect the boy, Neal Jr., 11, to live.

Mrs. Elise Moore Owen, 37, the wife, was a bank stenographer. Police, called by the wounded boy, found her body, clad in pajamas and a bathrobe, beside the refrigerator. The daughter's body was near the kitchen range. Owen was near the breakfast table. All had been shot in the head.

Owen served in the navy during the World War. Friends said he had been ill.

EIGHT WHO TAPPED WATER MAINS PLACED ON PROBATION

Fines of $50 Each Are Stayed; Service Is Turned on Again to Homes.

Eight householders living in "The Patch," a community of small homes near the river at Steins street in South St. Louis, pleaded guilty in Police Court today of appropriating city water without a permit and were fined $50 each by Provisional Judge Sylvan Agatstein. The fines were stayed and the defendants placed on probation.

City Water Commissioner John B. Dean said the water supply for the community, which was turned off Wednesday when it was learned the householders had tapped a city main about a year ago, had been turned on again upon agreement by the residents to take out a permit and pay the regular rates for use of city water.

Cases of three other defendants under the same charge were continued until next Wednesday. These three were not in court. It is likely the same disposition will be made of their cases.

SHOOTS WOMAN HE ACCUSES OF SEPARATING HIS PARENTS

Youth, 19, at Pittsburgh, Kan., Wounds Cafe Employe After Father Discharges Him.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Kan., Nov. 6.—Dorothy Mae Askins, 19-year-old cafe employe, was shot three times and severly wounded today. Cecil Tyatt, 19, surrendered to police with the statement, "I did it."

Hyatt, in a written statement, said he became angered at the young woman because he said she was keeping company with his father, George Hyatt, and had caused the separation of his parents. His mother, Mrs. Mary Hyatt, filed suit for divorce in District Court here last June.

Cecil Hyatt's father was employed in a foundry and his son had been working under him until yesterday, when the father discharged the son because of their disputes over Miss Askins.

The youth told police he bought the revolver this morning in a fit of anger and went to see the girl at her apartment.

"I only intended to scare her into staying away from my father," police quoted the youth. "When she acted smart, I guess I went insanely mad."

Judge Nolte at Clayton Holds He Has No Jurisdiction in Case.

A suit filed by the Mutual Garment Co., 1727 Locust street, against the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union and 21 individuals whom it sought to enjoin from picketing its plant and maintaining a strike, was dismissed by Circuit Judge Julius Nolte at Clayton today.

Sustaining a plea in abatement filed by the defendants, Judge Nolte held that he had no jurisdiction. Only two of the defendants were shown to be county residents. A strike of union members in the garment company plant was declared in late September.

CHICAGO TO RETURN NOV. 15 TO CENTRAL STANDARD TIME

City Council Sets Date for Change as Result of Tuesday's Referendum.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—The City Council decided yesterday to restore central standard time in Chicago, Nov. 15. The Aldermen unanimously adopted an ordinance stipulating that clocks should be turned back one hour at 2 a. m. on that date. It also provided for daylight saving time during the summer—from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in September.

Since last March 1, the city has operated on Eastern standard time in keeping with a measure approved by the Council. Subsequently, protests came from labor groups. Livestock men, produce commissioners and agricultural interests complained the change put them out of harmony with midwestern farmers.

The Chicago Federation of Labor initiated a referendum. The question was put to a vote in last Tuesday's election. By a margin of more than two to one, the citizens voted in favor of central time with daylight saving time in the summer.

TAX DEFEATED; OHIO CITY TO SHUT SCHOOLS

Springfield Board Votes to Suspend After Today—Owes Teachers $66,000.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Nov. 6.—Following a two-to-one defeat of a special three-mill tax, the Board of Education approved, four to one, a resolution to close schools indefinitely after today's sessions because of lack of operating funds and inability to pay $66,000 due the 381 teachers for last month's salaries.

The proposed special levy was designed to raise $240,000 a year for three years. Its defeat, Assistant State Director of Education E. N. Dietrich said in Columbus, left the city "in tough luck."

"Springfield has received its full amount of State funds, and if the voters turned down the proposed levy, there is nothing we can do," Dietrich said.

C. W. Evans, board president, said the back salaries would remain unpaid at least until December. Teachers have been signing notes for their salaries and cashing them at banks, but Evans said they were unwilling to continue practice.

George Schwer of the Springfield Federation of Teachers, their counsel, told the board the practice had made the teachers responsible for all notes signed and had jeopardized their homes and other property.

Schwer, asserting teachers had been working "for less than ditch-diggers' wages," said the minimum salary of the past few months had been $50 a month and added that the voters who helped defeat the proposed levy were the ones who wanted the teachers to support the schools by underwriting their salaries.

"It is a joke," he said, "to hope that teachers should be called on to support the schools."

There are 12,800 pupils in Springfield's schools.

ACCORD EXPECTED TO REDUCE VOLUME OF GOLD MOVEMENTS

Commerce Department Says Political and Financial Uncertainties Were Factor.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6. — The Commerce Department reported today that the monetary accord of the United States, Great Britain and France may be expected to result in "a reduction in the volume of international gold movements."

In its survey of current business, the department added that "political and financial uncertainties in the gold-bloc countries" have been major factors influencing heavy movements of the metal from Europe to the United States during the last two years.

In another report, however, the department said gold imports for the week ended Oct. 30 totaled $18,678,337, or about $18,500,000 more than the figure for the previous week. Of the aggregate imports, $12,170,974 came from Great Britain and $3,730,456 from Canada. Silver imports for the same week totaled $7,986,935, of which $3,921,869 came from China and $2,644,639 from Great Britain. The total compared with imports of $15,726,045 in the previous week.

PHYSICIANS REPORT MAN BROUGHT BACK TO LIFE

Said to Have Even Chance After Being Declared Dead in Binghampton, N. Y.

By the Associated Press.

BINGHAMPTON, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Physicians in city hospital said today Charles Stenson, 34 years old, of Binghampton, had been "brought back to life" after being declared dead and had an even chance to recover from a heart ailment.

Dr. Leonard J. Flanagan said Stenson's breathing stopped at 11:40 o'clock last night.

"He had no pulse and didn't breathe for a period of minutes," Dr. Flanagan said. "We were sure he was dead."

The physician said he applied a resuscitator and inhalator and injected adrenalin and caffeine.

At 11:45, the physician declared, a faint pulse was detected and the "dead man" began to breathe. By midnight, the heart beat had strengthened and physicians said Stenson probably would recover.

CONTRACTOR SUES FOR $11,500

City of St. Charles Contends Work Did Not Meet Specifications.

Suit for $11,534 against the city of St. Charles was filed in Circuit Court there today by A. H. Stiel, Inc., St. Louis contractors, for the balance alleged to be due for construction of a filtration plant for the St. Charles waterworks last year. The city has refused to pay the balance, contending the company failed to comply with specifications on certain structural details.

Contract for construction was let to the Stiel firm in November, 1934, at a price of $78,480. Additional work ran the total cost up to $84,685. The city has paid $72,551 on account. The company contends city inspectors made no complaint while the plant was under construction, hence no objection should be raised at this time.

PRAISES ILLINOIS POLICE RADIO

Superintendent Says System Will Be Second to None.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Walter Williams, superintendent of Illinois State highway police, described shortwave radio communication systems today as the "greatest crime preventive and detection instruments known in police annals."

Addressing the committee and advisory council on crime prevention and insurance of the Illinois Bankers' Association, Williams explained how the system aids officers. When completed, Illinois' police radio system will be second to none in the nation, he said. Several new units in the chain will be finished within a few weeks, Williams said.

MOVIE THEATER THIEVES GET WORKHOUSE TERMS

Two Men Plead Guilty; Arrested After Usher Follows One and Recovers Stolen Purse.

William Johnson, 34 years old, and John D. Johnstone, 40, pleaded guilty of larceny from the person yesterday and were sentenced to the workhouse by Circuit Judge Robert J. Kirkwood. Johnstone, a previous offender, received a term of nine months. Johnson was sentenced to serve six months.

They were arrested on Oct. 28, after an usher followed Johnstone out of Loew's State Theater and recovered a purse, containing $18, which had been taken from Miss Theresa Schoon, 2126 Chippewa street. Johnson met Johnstone before police arrested them. According to police, Johnstone admitted stealing women's purses in two other movie houses.

The men roomed together at a Pine street address, where stolen articles, including railroad passes, were recovered.

RIVER BEING DIVERTED FOR GRAND COULEE DAM

Changing of Columbia's Course to Take Months—Barriers to Be Placed in Stream.

By the Associated Press.

GRAND COULEE, Wash., Nov. 6.—Waters of the Columbia River were diverted today through three floodgates in an attempt to divert the stream and make possible the building of the Grand Coulee Dam.

The complete diversion is expected to require four or five months, and will be one of the greatest engineering tasks of all time.

Builders of the $70,000,000 Grand Coulee foundation dam opened the tubes late yesterday. The initial diversion was only a trickle by comparison with the daily average flow of more than 400,000 cubic feet each second.

The flood gates are through the cofferdam, a gigantic earth barrier, about 100 feet high and a third of a mile long. The cofferdam was built at the start of the project two years ago to keep the river from the excavation area.

Engineers estimated sections of the downstream end of the cofferdam which prevents a steady diversion flow, will not be ripped out for at least a month.

The water behind the cofferdam will float 11 large wooden "cribs" containing several million board feet of lumber. A channel will be cut for them and one by one they will be taken into the river. Engineers said they would be built on the opposite shore and then placed in the river to form the cross-stream barrier for complete diversion.

The river is being diverted to permit building foundations for the huge Grand Coulee Dam in the river bed.

CHRYSLER COMPANY TO GIVE EMPLOYES $4,000,000 BONUS

Third Distribution This Year to Be Made to 67,000 Workers Week of Dec. 14.

DETROIT, Nov. 6.—K. T. Keller, president of the Chrysler Corporation, announced today that it would distribute a $4,000,000 bonus among 67,000 employes the week of Dec. 14.

It will be the third distribution of extra compensation to Chrysler employes this year. Their total, Keller said, will be $8,300,000 in excess of regular wages, each employe sharing in the distribution receiving between $105 and $155.

The bonuses are based on length of service, with $2 added for each year above 10 years. The minimum amount that any employe eligible to participate in the December distribution will receive is $50, Keller said. Those eligible must have been on the payroll during the first quarter of this year and must be working during the week of Dec. 14.

DEMOCRATS TO CONTEST ONE PENNSYLVANIA OFFICE

State Chairman Says Congressman Driscoll Lost as Result of Coercion of Voters.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 6.—State Chairman David L. Lawrence said yesterday the Democratic party would contest the election in which United States Representative Dennis J. Driscoll was defeated by his Republican opponent in the Twentieth Pennsylvania District.

"There is sufficient evidence of intimidation and coercion of voters and the lavish expenditure of money by public utilities and other interests to warrant this action," Lawrence declared.

Driscoll sponsored a movement in the last Congress to bar lobbying activities of utilities.

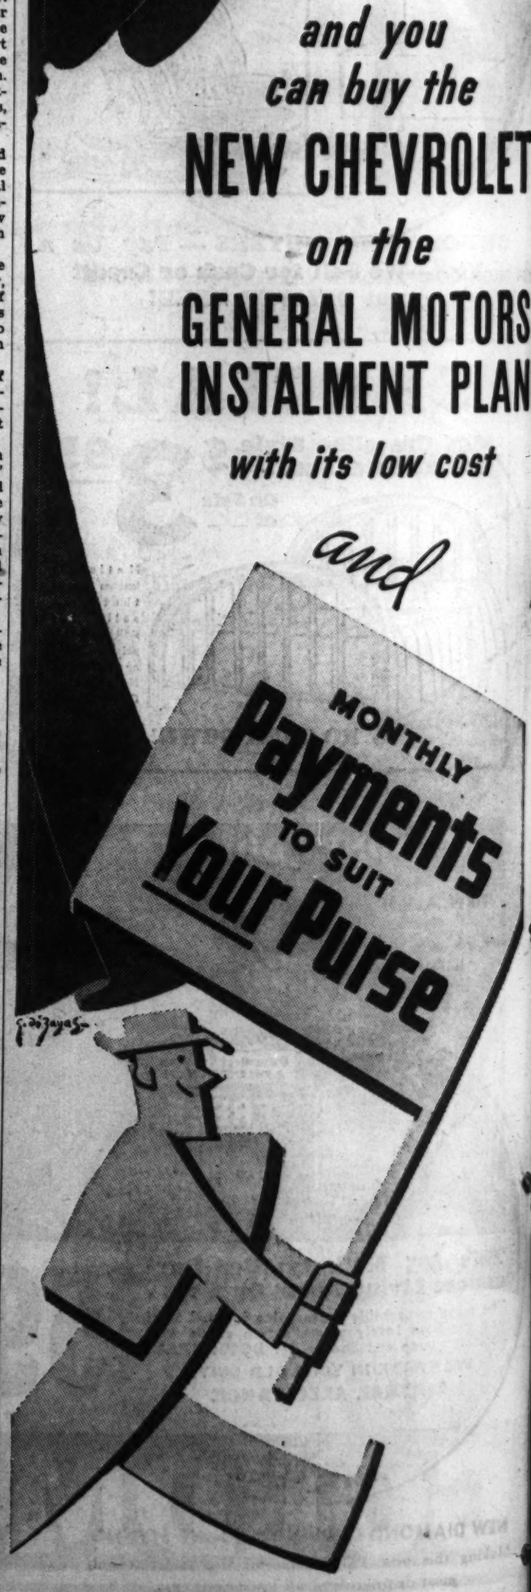

Benjamin Jarrett of Farrell was victor in the election with 59,252 votes to Driscoll's 57,193.

EXTENSIVE PROGRAM FOR ARMISTICE DAY

Parade, Cornerstone Laying at Memorial, Ball Part of Ceremonies.

A much larger Armistice day celebration than has been held in recent years has been planned for next Wednesday under the sponsorship of the American Legion posts in the city.

The program, in which other veterans' organizations and civic and lodge groups will also participate, includes a luncheon at Hotel Jefferson, a large downtown parade which will end in Memorial Plaza where the cornerstone of the new Soldiers' Memorial will be laid, and a military ball at night at the Coliseum.

United States Senator Bennett Champ Clark will speak at the luncheon and also at the cornerstone laying later in the afternoon. Clark was one of the group of veterans who founded the American Legion.

Parade at 2:30 P. M.

The parade will begin at 2:30 p. m. and, forming at Twelfth boulevard and Washington avenue, will move east on Washington to Broadway, south on Broadway to Market, west on Market to the Plaza.

The parade will be marked off into three divisions made up, respectively, of military groups, Legion posts and other veterans' organizations, and fraternal, patriotic and school organizations. Airplanes from the Thirty-fifth Division, Missouri National Guard, and the Naval Reserve Aviation Base Air Unit will fly overhead during the parade.

In the first division of the marchers will be the Sixth Infantry from Jefferson Barracks, 138th Infantry of the Missouri National Guard, 128th Field Artillery, the Naval Reserve, Reserve Officers, Washington University Unit of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, and the cadet corps from Christian Brothers College.

In the Second Division.

The Aubuchon-Dennison Post of the American Legion will head the second division by virtue of being the largest Legion post in the city, followed by the second largest, the Quentin Roosevelt Post. Then will follow members of the remaining 40 Legion posts in the city, of the additional posts in the county, and from the following other organizations: Spanish-American War Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American War Veterans, 128th Field Artillery Association, Polish Veterans, and Italian World War Veterans' Association.

In the third division will be Masonic and DeMolay groups, the Betsy Ross Society, Lowell Mothers' Club, Knights of Pythias, Knights of Columbus Zouaves, and the Salvation Army. Police Commissioner John J. Phelan is chairman of the parade committee.

In the morning a military requiem mass will be celebrated at St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Sixth and Biddle streets. The Rev. James Johnston, pastor of the church and chaplain of the 138th Infantry during the war, will officiate.

HEARING ON PLEA TO VOID HABITUAL DRUNKARD ORDER

Case of William C. Stribling Jr. to Be Resumed in Clayton Monday.

Hearing, begun in Probate Court at Clayton yesterday, on the petition of William C. Stribling Jr., insurance salesman, to set aside a Court order declaring him a habitual drunkard and appointing his wife as his guardian, will be resumed Monday. The case is before Judge A. Evan Hughes and a jury.

Testifying yesterday, Stribling said he had drunk heavily before the order was issued, but had reformed. All he drank now, he added, was an occasional bottle of beer in hot weather, but never more than two bottles in a day.

His wife, who was in court, opposed the petition. Their home is at 1158 Francis place, Richmond Heights. He inherited, in trust, a quarter of the estate of his father, former wholesale shoe dealer. The trust fund has been valued at $101,892.

PROTEST ON STREET CAR CARD

Catholic Actioneers Object to Burlesque Advertisement.

A protest against advertisements of a burlesque theater, displayed in street cars and busses, was made yesterday to Henry W. Kiel, receiver of the St. Louis Public Service Co., by Michael G. D. Callanan, secretary of the Catholic Actioneers of St. Louis.

In a letter to Kiel, Callanan said the advertising to which the organization objected was "brazenly displayed." Kiel said he had discussed the matter with the advertising agency renting space in public conveyances and was assured that the objectionable displays would be removed.

RADIO TALK ON BACK TAXES

Loan Executive Says Higher Real Estate Prices Play Part.

Increased real estate prices were cited as a reason for payment of delinquent taxes now by John C. Hall, building and loan executive, in a radio talk last night in support of Collector William F. Baumann's campaign to obtain relief funds through increased collection of delinquent taxes.

Hall said property owners run the risk of losing their holdings by letting taxes accumulate. Payment now, he said, would be an act of kindness as well as one indicated by good business judgment.

BOUND OVER IN TWO KILLINGS

Fisk (Mo.) Minister Held Without Bond; Shot Housekeeper.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Nov. 6.—The Rev. W. C. Fain of Fisk was bound over to the grand jury without bond in a preliminary hearing here yesterday for the shooting to death of his former housekeeper, Miss Beulah Evans, 17, and Loren O'Dell, a sharecropper, on a side road near Fisk the night of Oct. 13. Fisk's act, it was said, was inspired by jealousy. He is 50 years old.

Fain's 9-year-old son, Charles; his daughter, Mrs. Mrytle Wallace, and O'Dell and his wife had gone riding with Fain and Miss Evans and were present when Fisk stopped the car, took Miss Evans "to talk to her alone," shot her to death and killed O'Dell when he attempted to interfere. Officers guarded the court house at the hearing.

Toronto Justice Swamped With Prolific Mothers Claiming $500,000 Prize

Puts Off Decision Until Nov. 16 and Seeks to Limit Contest to Those Who Bore Nine —Legitimacy Adds to Problem.

By the Associated Press.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 6.—Justice Middleton put over today until Nov. 16 further action on clause 9 of the famous Charles V. Millar will. Numerous next of kin and the government of Ontario all had made representations as to how the strange legacy of about $500,000 to the "most prolific mother" should be disposed of.

The Supreme Court Justice found there was so much difference of opinion that he would require further arguments before ruling on the validity of the clause.

The hearing served to bring forth another claimant to the award when Mrs. Elvira Mastrotucci told the Court she was the mother of nine children "all born in conformity with clause 9" as her counsel put it.

Near the end of the hearing the Justice commented that "it looks like the contest lies between the mothers of nine children, as far as I can see."

What Clause 9 Says.

The only mothers present among the six leading claimants were Mrs. Lilly Kenny and Mrs. Grace Bagnato.

Clause 9 reads:

"All the rest and residue of my property wheresoever situated I give, devise and bequeath unto my executors and trustees named below in trust to convert into money as they deem advisable and invest all the money until the expiration of nine years from my death, and then call in and convert it all into money, and at the expiration of 10 years from my death (Millar died Oct. 31, 1926) to give it and its accumulations to the mother who has since my death given birth in Toronto to the greatest number of children as shown by the registration under the vital statistics act. If one or more mothers have equal highest number of registrations under the said act, to divide the said moneys and accumulations equally between them."

There was only one mother present claiming more than nine children born during the ten year period specified by the will. That was Mrs. Lillian Kenny.

Mrs. Kenny's Claim.

"I represent the winner," was the way her counsel, I. F. Weldon, K. C., introduced his argument. "Mrs. Kenny has borne 11 children. Nine of them are properly registered as required. The other two births we are prepared to prove."

The presiding Justice indicated that there would have to be unusual circumstances to convince him that failure to register the babies in the precribed 30-day period should be countenanced.

"No doubt the question also will arise as to proof that the children she claims were actually Mrs. Kenny's," he added.

This, too, her counsel said he could prove.

The question of illegitimacy appeared to trouble the attorney for the executors of the will, W. N. Tilley.

"The will bequeaths the money to the mother who bears the most children," he said, "and does not specify that the children must be born in wedlock. We feel that this is an important question which your lordship will have to settle."

Married at Age of 15.

The solicitor representing Mrs. Pauline Mae Clarke then spoke.

"Mrs. Clarke was married at the age of 15 to a man named Clarke," he said. "Starting with the year 1928, a child was born to them every year up to and including 1932. At that time they separated and Mrs. Clarke attempted to have her husband divorce her. She sent him the money for that purpose, but the divorce was not obtained.

"Subsequently she lived with a Mr. Harold H. Madilla, and had five children. I have no reason to question the legitimacy of her five first born children. There is, on the other hand, no argument that her last five babies were illegitimate."

The lawyer said that one of the children was born outside the city limits, but that all the others qualified under the terms of the will, being Toronto-born. After all the claims of the mothers had been heard, an Assistant Attorney-General, C. R. Magone, arose and identified himself as representing "the father of them all."

Justice Has His Joke.

"Do you mean the Attorney-General?" the twinkle-eyed Justice inquired.

"I mean the province of Ontario and the crown," the lawyer replied. The Assistant Attorney-General asked that the hearing be postponed until the return of his chief from London.

"I do not think we should wait five weeks for the Attorney-General," the Justice said. "We'll go on with the hearing, but I shall leave it in such a manner that the Attorney-General can interpose whenever it may appear he has a right to do so."

"The Attorney-General feels that this will was against public policy, and that therefore it may be invalidated," his assistant said. "In such a case there is likelihood that the estate would escheat to the Government."

Counsel for persons claiming to be "next of kin" attacked the "mother's clause" as against the public good. They said that the clause caused much unnecessary harm to mothers by reason of too frequent childbirth, that it encouraged illegitimacy and that it caused a high rate of infant deaths and still-births.

Proof Not Needed.

When he called upon the court for the right to prove such contentions, Mr. Justice Middleton interposed to say: "I hardly think you need to prove such statement. No one is likely to dispute that motherhood is injured by such a 'race' as you put it, and I'm sure any medical man will agree that it caused a greater number of deaths among the babies."

Mrs. Pearl Barton, young woman, told the court quietly that she had borne eight children in the last eight years and that all were registered. "You can join the 'eights watching the nines'," the Justice told her.

Counsel for Mrs. James Meldrum said she had borne nine children in the required period but that two were borne outside the city limits.

"All the time, however, she was a resident of Toronto," he said. "Her furniture and her home was in Toronto. She just happened to be outside the city limits when the two births occurred." Justice Middleton remarked: "A miss is as good as a mile."

The "mothers of nine" among whom it appeared the principal dispute lies, were: Mrs. Lilly Kenny, Mrs. Annie Smith, Mrs. Isobel MacLean, Mrs. Alice Timleck, Mrs. Kathleen Nagle, Mrs. Pauline Clarke, and the last minute entry, Mrs. Elvira Mastrotucci.

ROOSEVELT'S LEAD NEARS 10,000,000

Last Three Undecided Contests for Places in Upper Chamber Are All Won by Democrats.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6. With more than 12,000 election districts still unreported, the Roosevelt popular plurality was near the 10,000,000 mark today. The vote stood at 25,909,546 to 16,049,201 for Gov. Landon.

The lineup in the new Congress convening Jan. 5 will be: Senate—Democrats, 75; Republicans, 17; Farmer-Laborites, 2; Progressive, 1; Independent, 1. House—Democrats, 334; Republicans, 89; Progressives, 7; Farmer-Laborites, 5.

This is a gain of five Senate seats and 13 House seats for the Democrats, as compared with the old Congress.

The last three senatorial contests to remain in doubt all were won by Democrats yesterday. Gov. Herring, Democrat, Iowa, ousted Senator Dickinson, Republican critic of the New Deal. Guy M. Gillette, Democrat, captured the other seat from the same state, and Senator Shipstead was re-elected in South Dakota.

Of the 33 gubernatorial chairs at stake, Democrats won 26. In a twenty-seventh contest, Nels G. Kraschel, Democrat, finished ahead in Iowa in the unofficial tabulation, but his margain was so slim that a contest was considered likely. If he wins finally, the Democrats will have 38 governorships.

With the Republican congressional strength reduced to a mere fragment, observers sought to figure which members would serve as rallying points for the minority. Names prominently mentioned were those who won senatorial contests in Roosevelt landslides—McNary of Oregon, Vandenberg of Michigan, and Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. of Massachusetts. McNary and Lodge won senatorial contests Tuesday, while Vandenberg triumphed in 1934.

Presidential candidates of the five minor parties accounted for fewer than 1,000,000 of the 41,872,227 votes tabulated in 107,354 of the country's 122,772 election districts. Returns on the five candidates of the minor parties were fragmentary. In some states they were not on the ballot; in others the votes cast for them will not be known until the official canvass is completed. Available returns indicated William Lemke, the Union party nominee, would lead the minor party candidates. He had 648,027, but tabulation of his votes was further along than for the other candidates of minor parties. The others had: Thomas (Socialist), 100,567; Browder (Communist), 51,855; Aiken (Socialist-Labor), 4866; Colvin (Prohibition), 8748.

COMINTERN CALLS ON WORKERS TO GIVE 'ACTUAL AID' TO SPAIN

Annual Manifesto Says They Should Follow Example of Soviet Proletariat.

MOSCOW, Nov. 6.—The Communist International called on the workers of all countries today to give "actual aid" to the Spanish people who are standing by the Madrid Government.

In its annual manifesto, the Executive Committee of the Comintern proclaimed:

"Workers and toilers of all countries! Follow the examle of the Soviet proletariat, give actual aid to the Spanish people.

"With your mass action, terminate the criminal intervention of German, Italian and Portuguese Fascism in Spain. Put an end to the supplying of the insurgents with munitions. Compel your rulers to classes to terminate the blockade of the Spanish Government, which they have not employed against Germany, Japan and Italy in their destruction of the freedom and independence of other peoples.

"All material means for opposing the Fascist rebellion must be given to the Spanish Government."

Twenty-one Spanish delegates landed today at Odessa, en route to Moscow for tomorrow's revolutionary celebration.

5 NATIONS SIGN TREATY ON SUBMARINE WAR

U. S. Among Those Agreeing Not to Sink Ships Until Passengers Are Safe.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Five nations signed a protocol today to "humanize" submarine warfare.

The ceremony, at the Foreign Office, was the first step in an attempt to secure world-wide adherence.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, Sir Samuel Hoare, First Lord of the Admiralty, and Ramsay MacDonald, Lord President of the Council, affixed their signatures for the United Kingdom, together with the High Commissioners of the Dominions.

The United States, French, Italian and Japanese Ambassadors also signed the protocol, which perpetuates a part of the 1930 London naval treaty.

Under the protocol, submarines in time of war are forbidden to sink a merchant ship until the crew, the passengers and the ship's papers are afforded a safe haven. This does not mean lifeboats, unless land is near and the weather good.

The protocol also outlaws the "sunk without trace" practice which prevailed during the height of the German submarine campaign in the World War.

BATTLESHIPS STILL REGARDED AS BRITAIN'S FIRST LINE

Report Also Says 43 Bombing Planes Can Be Built at Cost of One Vessel.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—A subcommittee on imperial defense reported yesterday that it costs as much money to build and maintain a battleship as would be required for 43 average bombing planes.

The report nevertheless concluded that the battleship was not yet outmoded, and that England's "first line of defense" still must be the fleet.

The admiralty does not assert that battleships are invulnerable to air attack, the report said, but that modern improvements in the protection of anti-aircraft gunnery make them at least no more vulnerable to bombing than to gunfire.

The value of anti-aircraft fire, however, is difficult to estimate on the basis of present experiments and further trials are necessary, it was reported.

LATE DICTATOR'S SON FOUND

Miguel Primo de Rivera Had Been Held by Socialists.

By the Associated Press.

SALAMANCA, Spain, Nov. 6.—Miguel Primo de Rivera, son of the late Spanish dictator and brother of the leader of the Spanish Fascist party, participated today in a celebration of insurgent war victories on the Madrid front.

Young Primo de Rivera, who had been reported missing, said he was rescued by Fascist troops at Huelva where he had been held aboard a Socialist hostage boat.

SNUFF-BOX AND ART COLLECTION BRINGS $1,966,000 AT SALE

Late C. H. T. Hawkins Treasures Auctioned Off in London.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The art collection of the late C. H. T. Hawkins, composed mainly of snuff boxes, brought £403,000 ($1,966,640) at auction yesterday. Hawkins, who maintained agents in almost every country to send him snuff-boxes, spent thousands of pounds annually on his hobby and set apart a West End mansion, 10 Portland place, to house his treasures.

On the night after his death 30 years ago, thieves tried to break into the house, but the collection was too well guarded for them to succeed.

For 60 years Hawkins set aside half his £20,000 ($100,000) annual income for purchases.

Some years ago when a portion of the collection was sold, a single Louis XV gold snuff-box brought £2000 (then about $10,000). A tiny panel by Watteau was sold for 2400 guineas ($12,600).

The collection also included 25 Birket Foster drawings—worth a small fortune themselves—a landscape by Gainsborough and a Van Goyen river scene.

KANSAS GIVES ROOSEVELT MORE THAN 62,000 MARGIN

Close Races for State Offices; Absentee Vote Will Decide One.

By the Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 6.—President Roosevelt's lead over Gov. Landon in Kansas increased on late unofficial tabulations today to more than 62,000. With all but eight precincts counted the vote was: Roosevelt, 448,543; Landon, 386,005.

State races were close. That for Lieutenant-Governor will require the official count, including the absentee vote, to settle the issue. Carl E. Friend, Republican, increased his slight lead to more than 1000 with late revisions. Earlier W. M. Lindsay, Democrat, had pulled up to within 400 of Friend.

Secretary of State Frank J. Ryan said his office would start Monday counting the absentee vote. Nearly 8600 ballots were sent out.

COMMUNIST M. P. COMMENTS ON KING AND MRS. SIMPSON

Says No Representative of Working Man Should Object to Such a Marriage.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—If King Edward wants to marry Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson, no representative of the workingman in Parliament would object, said William Gallacher, the only Communist in the House of Commons, yesterday.

The British worker, Gallacher said in an interview outside Parliament, approves of the monarch's friendship with the former Baltimore woman who recently obtained a divorce at Ipswich.

The British autocracy, however, Gallacher said, does not like Mrs. Simpson because she does not belong to its "charmed circle."

SENATE OBTAINS BLUM'S PLEDGE TO BAR PROPAGANDA

French Premier Approves Resolution Against Leftist Activity Among Armed Forces.

AIMED AT INCIDENTS AT NAVAL BASES

Head of Government Accused in Debate of Trying to Influence Army and Navy.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 6.—A virtual promise to stamp out Leftist propaganda in France's armed forces was extracted by the Senate today from the Government.

Premier Leon Blum gave official approval to a resolution, later passed unanimously, which included two varying expressions: "Regret" that workers at naval arsenals had participated in political demonstrations during inspection visits of Government officials. Confidence that Blum and his aids would see to it that future political manifestations would be prohibited at the naval bases.

Passage of the motion came only after heated debate in which Rightists charged the Premier with intention to influence the sympathies of the army and navy.

Jacques Louis Dumesnil charged in the Senate that workers at Brest and Cherborg greeted Francois Blancho, Undersecretary of the Navy, who recently visited naval arsenals, with clenched fist salutes and the singing of the Internationale.

"They are in prison while you sit in the Senate," he shouted at the Government benches where Premier Blum and Blancho were sitting. His statement was greeted with cheers from the Rightists and catcalls from the Left section.

M. Dumesnil said a naval officer, attached to Undersecretary Blancho's inspection staff, also sang the Internationale and raised a clenched fist in the Leftist salute during the Brest demonstration.

The Blancho visits, he charged, became political rallies while at Lorient, workers were given paid leave to attend a Socialist party demonstration which was attended by the Undersecretary.

Rightists struck at the foundations of the French Popular Front Government today by offering to combine forces with Premier Blum's moderate supporters if they would bolt.

The proposal was that the moderate elements in the Socialist Premier's Cabinet desert the Popular Front of Communists, Socialists and Radical Socialists and repudiate the coalition's program.

It came as the Cabinet faced the gravest threat to its existence since it obtained control last May—a new wave of strikes and dissension within its own ranks.

Henri De Kerillis, leading Nationalist Deputy, addressed the secession proposal to the Radical Socialists, least extreme faction of the Popular Front. He urged them to quit the Government and promised the support of a large number of Rightist Deputies if they would undertake to form a new government pledged "to combat Communism."

Against Set-Down Strikes.

Although the Radical Socialist party recently voted unanimously to continue its affiliation with the French Popular Front, it resolved also to resist occupation strikes. It warned the Cabinet's Communist members it could not continue to collaborate unless the sit-down strikes and demonstrations were curbed.

Some sources regarded the declaration of Defense Minister Edouard Daladier against Communists and strikes tying up armanent construction as tantamount to an announcement of his candidacy to succeed Blum.

De Kerillis declared numerous Rightists were ready to "support the first government—no matter of Iowa Elects Democratic Governor.

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 6.—Nels G. Kraschel, Democratic candidate for Iowa Governor, finished ahead of Republican Candidate George Wilson in the final unofficial tabulation of Iowa's vote, but his margin was only 1055 votes. Police observers said that a contest was probable. The final vote was: Kraschel 518,997, Wilson 517,942.

MUSSOLINI REVIEWS SOLDIER-COLONISTS

First Battalion of Italians Being Sent to Develop Ethiopia Parades at Rome.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Nov. 6.—Premier Benito Mussolini reviewed today the first battalion of an army of 150,000 soldier-workmen now being mobilized for the development and defense of the new Italian-Ethiopian empire.

Standing on the steps of the Piazza Venezia, he saluted the first contingent of his new "workers army" as it marched past, the members dressed in khaki and carrying picks and shovels over their shoulders, with rifles slung at their backs.

The men were duly enrolled as Fascist militia, organized into military companies with military leaders. They will sow their fields with guns stacked near at hand.

Fifteen ships will carry the colonists south to transform Ethiopia into the "paradise of Africa."

Each man will receive a special uniform and outfit from the Government, including a pup tent, kitchen utensils, pick, shovel, hammer and either a rifle or a shotgun.

The soldier-colonists will be divided into centuries, cohorts and legions, after the manner of the ancient Romans and the modern Fascist militia. Attached to each of the five provincial governments of Ethiopia is the legion command.

"The military formation of the workmen will bring security as well as every form of assistance, from sanitary to spiritual, a Fascist authority expiained. "Every legion has a medical officer and a chaplain attached to it."

Nearly 90,000 workmen, left over from the war period, still remain in East Africa. Some of these are returning to Italy, but many are remaining and will be enrolled in the soldier-worker forces.

The contract of service for the working army is to be increased from the customary six months to one year.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Post-Election Notes.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHAT the Republican party needed was less of the too much it had.

There were too many Democratic secessionists who struck sour notes as they played unfamiliar tunes.

Too many name-callers who tried to achieve basso profundo effects with falsetto equipment.

Too many knife-throwers who shut their eyes when they aimed at a target.

Yes, sir, what the Republicans needed was fewer big money donations and more and better psychology.

However, the Democrats would have been hard to beat in any event. As a London (England) newspaper neatly put it: "Mr. Roosevelt gave wrong answers to many of his problems, but he is the first American President in modern times to ask the right questions."

And I can't resist quoting that courageous, poised candidate, Norman Thomas: "The Republican campaign was on an incredibly low level of presentation of any sort of a case." E. G. P.

Small vs. Large "D."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE President stated in his speech on Nov. 2 that we were all democrats, spelled with a small "d." Looking at the Roosevelt landslide, it appears we are all Democrats, spelled with a large "D."

LEON SOSNA.

A Bum's View.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

EDITOR FUNK of the Literary Digest cannot explain away the Digest poll without a lot of pencils and paper. Why the pencils and paper?

Two years ago, a Socialist in California managed somehow to be named on the Democratic State ticket for Governor on an "End Poverty in California" slogan. The rest of the country piled up big majorities for the Democrats; a Republican carried California.

This year a candidate for President promised real jobs for all. Whether he could have delivered or not is a moot question and not to the point. The other big-party candidate promised, as usual, social security, relief, charity and public works jobs. He delivers and rides into office again like a cyclone.

It shows the politician in favor of easy money is popular with a lot of people just too lazy to work for their money. This is your explanation. Let the New Deal labor leaders put that in their pipes and smoke it.

The New Deal crew is a combination of smart politicians, social workers and people who hate work.

A BUM WITH DEFINITE OPINIONS.

Poor Old Literary Digest.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

MY post-election sympathies are not with the beaten Landon, who perhaps expected no other result, but with the recognized goat, the poor old Literary Digest. Perhaps this sympathy is misplaced, for no one will deny that the Literary Digest put itself on a spot. It led with its chin and certainly deserved the socking it got.

JOSEPH F. CODY.

An Analysis of the Sweep.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I READ of so many different conclusions as to why F. D. R. received so many votes.

I think millions felt as I did before. I'd rather go broke with Franklin D. Roosevelt than do the crawfish with the Republican Old Guard.

After you consider the slimy appearance of the present Democratic setup in Missouri and its ability to draw new Republican votes, whereas it should have been decisively beaten, you will have to agree with me that a large portion of the vote F. D. R. received is not because he has done so well, but rather that the Republican party has sunk to an all-time low.

It was a great protest vote.

A FORMER REPUBLICAN.

Behind the Eight Ball.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

AL SMITH, Jim Reed, John Davis, Bainbridge Colby and ex-Gov. Ely are all trying to get behind the "eight ball," but it's not big enough.

The Literary Digest is fluttering around like a chicken without its head, looking for an alibi for its presidential poll, which failed practically 100 per cent.

Senator Borah is out in the mountains trying to laugh, but can't, because so many of his friends took a ride on the wrong band wagon.

President Roosevelt is trying to rest, but can't, because the people want more of his medicines to clean out the rest of "old man depression."

VINCENT BURKE.

Vigilance.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

A FRIEND and I called at the Election Commissioners' office to apply for service at the polls. It filled out my application and tarried to assist my friend in filling out his.

Evidently this created an "appearance of evil," for within a few seconds I was confronted by a member of the board, who courteously inquired as to my presence. This display of alertness is impressive, and commends the Governor for his selection—this time. E.

SPAIN'S TRAGEDY.

The crucial battle of the civil war in Spain, that for possession of Madrid, has begun. Rebel artillery is pouring shells into the homes and public buildings of the city. Rebel planes are continuing their deadly bomb attacks. All the destructive devices of modern warfare are being leveled against Spain's handsome and pleasant capital city, the home of more than 1,000,000 people, and now overcrowded with refugees said to total 500,000 more.

If Madrid resists to the end, as it now shows intention of doing, it is possible that the horrors of the classic sieges in the world's history will be outdone, so effective is this century's machinery of destruction and so desperate are the combatants on both sides in this instance. If Madrid surrenders, there is no assurance that slaughter will be averted. Capture of the city seems probable, and this will make it possible for the rebels to consolidate their gains and rule the conquered sections of Spain, virtually all the south and central parts.

As Americans contemplate and sympathize in the tragedy of Spain, they should be deeply grateful for their own country's tradition. Because force and not majority rule has prevailed in Spain for centuries, the Republic, proclaimed in April, 1931, now faces its downfall. The revolt is the immediate sequel of the Spanish national election last February, in which the Popular Front, composed of liberal parties, won about 60 per cent of the seats in Parliament, while the conservatives took 30 per cent and the Communists and Syndicalists a mere handful.

In this country, as we have just seen, the losers in the election felicitate the winners and pledge cooperation in conducting the Government, no matter how bitter may have been the feelings aroused in the campaign. Not so in Spain. The losers conspired to take over the Government by force. They began the use of bullets to capture what they could not gain by ballots in a fair and honest election. They have killed thousands of their countrymen and ravaged the nation so that a generation or longer will be required for recovery.

Since its establishment, the Spanish Republic had dealt leniently with its known enemies. It had sought to carry out certain urgent reforms, but by a gradual process. Officers in Alfonso's army were kept in service. Because of this democratic tolerance, the Republic's enemies found it possible to plot their rebellion unhindered, and to carry their attempted coup far toward success before Madrid could go into action against them.

Important in the series of rebel victories has been the use of Moorish troops. All Spain united, 450 years ago, to drive the Moors out of the country; now the Fascists bring them back from Africa to murder and destroy. The Moors themselves are victims of rebel duplicity no less than the Spanish Government. These mercenary fighters were promised food and money if they went to Spain. Arrived there, they found themselves in the forefront of the battle. Mussolini was bitterly assailed for using Negro troops in his conquest of Ethiopia. What, then, can be said of Gen. Franco, who uses alien fighters, not against a foreign foe, but against his own people?

Another aid to the rebels has been the outpouring of aid from the Fascist nations: Italy, Germany and Portugal. The democratic Powers had a right, under international law, to help the legal Government of Spain, but they bound themselves in the non-intervention agreement not to do so. The Fascist nations violated the treaty, and the superb military equipment with which the rebels have overrun more than half of Spain is proof of their aid, no matter how many times the committee whitewashes them.

What will follow the probable fall of Madrid? President Azana has already moved his offices to Barcelona, in loyal territory, and it is likely that the Government can continue to stand off the rebels there for months to come. Barcelona is an industrial city, larger than Madrid. Catalonia, of which it is the capital, is a rugged region, whose people are indomitable fighters. It may be that a separate democratic government will be maintained in Catalonia.

When Madrid is taken, recognition of the Fascists as the legal Government of Spain will be forthcoming at once from Italy, Germany and Portugal. For reasons of diplomatic policy, France and England may be expected soon after to follow suit. It will be another conquest for Fascism, and another defeat for democracy. The Fascist bloc of European nations will have won an important convert, important for strategic purposes if not actual military strength.

The issue cannot be obscured by the charge that the present Spanish Government is Communistic. When the revolt began, there was not a Communist in the Cabinet, and only 16 Communists in the Parliament of 473 members. The Government was essentially a liberal and democratic one, which has now been forced to include radical members by the pressure of the reactionaries' military onslaught.

The issue in Spain is Fascism against democracy. Spain's tragedy is not the slaughter and ruin of civil war alone, but the fact that the forces of oppression are triumphing over those of liberty. And that is a tragedy for the world as well.

POST-ELECTION WIT.

A successful Democratic candidate for a local office was receiving congratulations on his victory from a friend. "Thanks," he replied, "and, by the way, did you notice how I pulled Roosevelt over with me?"

THE CASE OF ARLINE VANDERPLUYM.

A powerful argument for the establishment by law of financial responsibility of automobile drivers lies in a petition in bankruptcy just filed by Bernard L. N. Luebkert, a chemist employed by the Monsanto Chemical Co. As the principal item in his list of liabilities, Luebkert names a judgment of $5000 against him, obtained by the parents of 12-year-old Arline Vanderpluym, who was very seriously injured by Luebkert's automobile on June 11, 1934. If Luebkert's petition is granted, the Vanderpluyms, in addition to the anguish caused by the accident to the child, will be deprived of compensation duly awarded by law.

It is appalling that we permit automobiles, each one a potential killer, to be driven around the streets without compelling the owners to assume financial responsibility for accidents. Many persons have been killed, many persons, like little Arline Vanderpluym, have been injured, and the perpetrators have escaped all civil penalty. The same is true of the untold property damage caused by uninsured automobiles.

Compulsory automobile insurance is not the solution. Experience in Massachusetts has shown that requiring all drivers to carry insurance makes the many who are careful pay for the accidents of those who are careless. Students of the automobile safety problem now generally agree that the best system is that which makes the reckless driver legally responsible for the costs of his accident. Failure to meet these costs and failure to establish financial responsibility against possible future accidents deprive the driver of his right to drive. This plan operates in connection with automobile drivers' license law. Some 28 states are protected by it now.

If such cases as that of Arline Vanderpluym do not stir the Legislature into action, it should be forced to do something by irresistible public demand.

DOWNFALL OF THE UNION PARTY.

One piece of campaign fireworks that promised plenty of noise but fizzled out like a wet firecracker is the Lemke "third party" movement sponsored by the Coughlin-Townsend-Smith triumvirate. These three peddlers of varied panaceas made large claims for their movement, so large, in fact, that they were discounted as preposterous. Dr. Townsend claimed control of 15,000,000 votes, Father Coughlin of 9,000,000 more, Smith of 5,000,000; grand total, 29,000,000, or probably more than President Roosevelt, with his nation-wide sweep, will have on the final count. Lemke predicted variously that he would win the election, that he would carry 13 states, that he would get so many votes that no candidate would have a majority.

These wild claims were ridiculed, but even so, many campaign leaders at one time were worried about the Union party. They feared its strength would be sufficient in some states to control the outcome and thereby, in a close race, to affect the national result.

What happened? Instead of the boasted millions, or even the 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 shown by the straw polls, the Lemkeites, by virtually complete returns, got 648,027 votes in the nation. They carried no state; they did not even decide the result in any state. In Rhode Island, where Father Coughlin predicted Lemke would get more votes than Landon, the complete figures are: Lemke, 18,201; Landon, 124,816; Roosevelt, 166,667.

What caused the collapse of the movement? For one thing, the effort to unite four different groups on one makeshift platform. For another, the wild statements made by the party's leaders. A third reason is the disgraceful brawling in which these leaders indulged among themselves and the vilifications they hurled at other candidates. Most important of all, however, is the good sense of the people.

The voters, even those who originally sympathized with the individual groups that made up the Union party, soon saw that it was based on no sound philosophy, that it had no possibility of constructive accomplishment. The American people are quick to spot a fraud or a crackpot, and to spurn his leadership. This they did in the case of the Union party and its promisers. It was a heartening demonstration of common sense, and an effective rebuke to the would-be Pied Pipers of American politics.

THE PAINTED VALLEY.

They have changed the name of the Denny road, but the countryside through which the Lindbergh Highway runs is changeless in its response to the seasons' immemorial promptings. "Now in November" it is as always brocaded loveliness. One misses the scarlet thrusts of other years, but at gay intervals the ash looks like a carafe of chianti, and the maples' thrift has been rewarded with much fine gold, and the oaks wear modestly their rich brown velvet cloaks, and the poplars maintain their proud green vigils. Prudent Bob White whistles a warning to an adventurous mate, and the alert cardinal pauses for a suspicious moment before darting off down a leaf-strewn, blue-patched aisle, where, for a while at least, it is "always afternoon."

ST. LOUIS ART ON VIEW.

There are two exhibitions of the work of local artists this month in St. Louis. One is at the City Art Museum in Forest Park. The other is at 1114 Locust street. Artists whose work is in the downtown exhibition declined to submit subjects for the City Art Museum show because the museum refused their request for payment of a small rental fee of not less than $1 or more than $10 for each entry.

Without passing judgment finally, or in any way rating the artistic merits of the two shows, it can be said that there is much in the position of the protesting artists to recommend it for a thoughtful hearing. Museum employes who hang the pictures and stand on guard are paid for their services. It would seem only reasonable that the artists, whose work the public goes to he museum to see, ought to be paid enough to pay them for crating their entries.

Vincent Van Gogh lived in poverty and died in destitution, unable to keep body and soul together by means of his art. Today his paintings sell for thousands of dollars each. Something is wrong with society's appreciation of art when injustices of that sort can prevail. Manifestly, a large share of the responsibility for enabling artists to live by means of their work must rest on the example of art museums.

That the museums are beginning to recognize this is evidenced by the fact that those in Baltimore, San Francisco and Rochester, to mention only three, have arranged to pay rent for exhibitions.

AS EVER, VERMONT.

As Maine goes, so goes Maine. That's about all that can be said of the State which has attracted a good deal of attention and acquired a reputation for prevision with its quadrennial curtain-raiser. As a national barometer, Maine is washed out. Thus the pine trees are whispering confidentially to one another in the icy blasts.

But there is one commonwealth that, amid the ruins and the wreckage, can still hold its head high. Vermont! Never has she faltered in her devotion to the Grand Old Party. When the Bull Moose shook the earth in 1912, and the fickle and the fearful went galloping off on strange tangents, Vermont turned a deaf ear to threats and beguilements, sharing the renown of her constancy with remote and peculiar Utah. Since then, Utah has stumbled and staggered and finally lost all semblance of the redoubtable Republican ally she long had been.

A rival of Vermont in the Elephant's esteem was Pennsylvania. Though lured away by the drums and bugles of Armageddon, she had, save in that one instance, been a pillar of cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night in all the battles won or lost. Now Pennsylvania has forsaken the covenant, and Vermont remains alone in her glory, the one and only semper fidelis of them all.

Her mountains are green in her summer's brief tenure, and her waters toss and tumble, and panthers prowl among her elms and sugar maples, and Vermont is a pretty dangerous spot, but the party of Hamilton and Lincoln is as safe in her arms as the lamb in Abraham's bosom.

CANADA: AT LEAST YOU WERE SPARED THIS, JOHN.

Oh, Yeah?

Compiled by Editorial Research Reports and the Post-Dispatch.

HENRY L. MENCKEN (March, 1936)—The Republicans begin to grasp the fact that if they can beat Roosevelt at all, which seems most likely, they can beat him with a Chinaman or even a Republican.

John D. M. Hamilton (June 17)—We are going to carry everything from Kansas straight eastward, Nebraska and Oklahoma, several of the mountain states and two or possibly all of the Pacific coast states. . . . Sentiment in the West is all afire for Landon and Knox. . . . I would like to have Mr. Farley name six states that the Democrats are sure to carry, even with their Southern block.

James A. Farley (June 18)—Very well, I name all 48 states.

John D. M. Hamilton (June 25)—Gov. Landon will break into the solid South. . . . It might happen that we will carry all 48 states. . . . The West is in the bag.

Father Coughlin (July and August)—The National Union for Social Justice can produce at least 10,000,000 votes for Lemke, and throw the election into the House of Representatives. . . . I am positive that Mr. Roosevelt will not be re-elected. Lemke will carry Rhode Island and Massachusetts; he will take Pennsylvania and Michigan. . . . Lemke will get more votes in Rhode Island than Landon. . . . I will discontinue radio broadcasting if I do not swing at least 9,000,000 votes to Lemke. (Pledge later withdrawn.)

William Randolph Hearst (Aug. 9)—The race will not be close at all. Landon will be overwhelmingly elected, and I'll stake my reputation as a prophet on it. He will not only carry New York State, but Pennsylvania, Illinois and California.

Republican national committeemen at meeting in Chicago on Sept. 14—The popularity of Gov. Landon has swept North Dakota from one end to the other. . . . Oregon is going to Landon and Knox. . . . New Mexico will go Republican. . . . Indiana will go Republican. . . . Wyoming is headed for Gov. Landon.

David Lawrence (Sept. 22)—Gov. Landon has a 50-50 chance of election.

William Lemke (Sept. 23)—I will carry Oregon, North and South Dakota, New Mexico, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Maine. (Ed. note—These 11 states have a combined total of 113 electoral votes.) And Ohio and Texas are battlegrounds.

John D. M. Hamilton (Sept. 29)—I am not worried about a single state.

Herbert Hoover (Oct. 1)—The Republican party is making progress all the way across the country.

Senator Neely (Oct. 1)—The Roosevelt ticket will carry West Virginia by 100,000.

Joseph McGrath, Democratic State chairman for Massachusetts (Oct. 7)—Roosevelt will carry Massachusetts by 250,000.

Col. Knox (Oct. 13)—Landon will carry North Carolina, and Virginia is a 50-50 battleground.

Gov. Nice of Maryland (Oct. 13)—Maryland will be carried by the Republican party.

Senator Guffey (Oct. 14)—Pennsylvania will go Democratic by a plurality of more than 250,000.

George Harding, Republican national committeeman from Illinois (Oct. 15)—Illinois will go to Landon by a majority of 400,000.

Patrick A. Nash, Chicago Democratic leader (Oct. 15)—We will carry Illinois by 250,000 majority for Roosevelt.

Gov. Landon (Oct. 16, on being asked why he was going to California)—Because we are going to carry it.

Col. Knox (Oct. 17)—We are safe in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan.

"Grassroots" poll conducted by some 3000 country newspapers (final result, Oct. 21)—Twenty-six states, with 367 electoral votes, for Landon; 14 states for Roosevelt; eight states uncounted.

Col. Knox (on many occasions in the latter part of October)—We will carry every state east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio.

David Lawrence (Oct 22)—Pennsylvania will go Republican by a minimum of 250,000, and it may go as high as 400,000.

William Lemke (Oct. 28)—The election will be thrown into Congress, where I will win.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson (Oct. 30)—It's doubtful whether Gov. Landon will carry six states and he's only absolutely sure of three. It's another landslide.

Dr. Francis E. Townsend (Oct. 31)—The American people have too long been blessed with a democratic government to allow it to be lost to them election day. Therefore, Mr. Roosevelt will be defeated.

Herbert Hoover (Oct. 31)—Of course the Republicans are going to win. I base my statement on a steadily rising sentiment in favor of the Grand Old Party.

Representative Joseph W. Martin, Republican Eastern campaign manager (Oct. 31)—New York will be for Landon by more than 250,000. There is no question of an emphatic Landon majority in New Jersey. Pennsylvania will be carried by Landon by at least 200,000, and it would not surprise me if it were twice as large. Delaware will be safe and we will carry West Virginia by a good majority. . . .

There is a good chance for victory in Maryland. The Landon vote in Virginia, North Carolina and Florida will be very large, and we have reason to believe we can pick up at least one of these states.

I firmly believe Gov. Landon will have more than 300 votes in the electoral college. This is a conservative statement and not to be classified with the ballyhoo statements which are quite common.

Literary Digest poll (final result, Oct. 31)—Landon 370 electoral votes, Roosevelt 161.

Institute of Public Opinion (final poll, Nov. 1)—Sure for Roosevelt, 315 electoral votes; sure for Landon, 12; doubtful, 204.

William Randolph Hearst (Nov. 1)—Gov. Landon will positively be elected. . . . Should Mr. Roosevelt be elected, his dangerous qualities would be increased a hundredfold.

John D. M. Hamilton (Nov. 1)—I unhesitatingly predict the election of Landon and Knox. My absolute minimum is 320 electoral votes for the Republican ticket. (Nov. 2)—I have had a flood of protests that my claim is too conservative.

Mr. Roosevelt's Victory

From the Baltimore Sun.

THE results of the election are one of the most extraordinary triumphs ever achieved by a President seeking re-election.

Mr. Roosevelt was opposed by most of the business interests of the country, which have had a powerful influence in national elections. He was opposed by most of the press. He was opposed by numerous distinguished leaders of his own party. Nevertheless, he has swept the country.

This, as all should recognize, is not due simply to his having held the votes of the numerous beneficiaries of his money-spending policies. Friend and foe should recognize that, in addition to the votes thus obtained and in addition to the votes given him by party regulars, the President commanded support from a great body of voters who believed in the motives and in the general attitude of his administration. It will be better for all, those who opposed Mr. Roosevelt no less than those who supported him, to be realistic about this fact.

But it does not follow that Mr. Roosevelt should be given blind support in the future or that critical opposition should be relaxed. It is possible to recognize fully his remarkable victory and to pay tribute to his success and yet to insist in entire good faith upon the great need for the restoration in this country of an active, critical political intelligence.

In the campaign just closed, Mr. Roosevelt so conducted his fight that he is free to move in virtually any direction that seems to him to be good and desirable, and it will not be possible easily to confound him with broken pledges, as after 1932. All the more reason, therefore, why men of intelligence should preserve their independence, supporting the President heartily when they believe him to be right and fighting him to the last ditch when they believe him to be wrong, and thus giving both the country and the President the full benefit of that free and fearless discussion which is at once the guardian and the servant of democratic government.

As one of those who have criticised Mr. Roosevelt in the past and claim the right to criticise him in the future, the Sun offers him its congratulations upon a notable victory and its best wishes. And it presumes to say that, despite its past criticism and its readiness to criticise again, it hopes and believes that the President will find in victory that sense of humility which is the shield of the good and the great.

OUT CAMPAIGNING.

From the Detroit News.

NOW that the election is over, it may be proper to consider the recent statement of an apparently unprejudiced reporter from Washington that "the Government will resume business Nov. 4. It has been in adjournment for about six weeks. Everybody in the departments was out campaigning."

There seems to be something anomalous about such a situation. In theory, at least, everybody in the departments of the Government is a public servant. That he should spend six weeks of the time his boss, the taxpayer, pays him for, off the job in an attempt to make his job secure for another term, seems a little silly. It is an odd relationship to exist between employer and employe.

A stronger dose of civil service might do something to cure such a condition.

ON THE RECORD

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

Let Us Be Thankful

IN A FEW days, I shall turn again toward Europe, and never did I leave these shores with more reluctance, and never will I return to them with more pleasure and pride.

For underneath all the bitterness, partisanship, passionate talk—sometimes inspiring, sometimes reckless—of the last months, what has emerged? A reaffirmation of this people's passionate attachment to liberty, define it as you will. An expressed confidence in a determination to progress, to be up and about, and headed somewhere. Underneath all the warnings of impending ruin, from this course of action or from that, a quiet subconscious belief that it is not so, and the knowledge that it never will be so, as long as a majority rules and a minority can speak its mind.

Fundamentally, the issues in this campaign have been difficult to find. What is government for? Why does it exist at all? Is it not to create the environment in which men and women can attain their legitimate desires? Everyone seeks, first of all, the fulfillment of his own life—economic success, according to standards set by his own capacities and by those of the society in which he lives; physical health; love; and, according to his background and upbringing, various kinds and degrees of intellectual and spiritual satisfaction.

For the attainment of the greatest satisfactions in these things for the greatest numbers of people, governments exist in free countries; for life, liberty and happiness, according to policies based upon the most universal possible consent.

* * *

For the attainment of these things, government, according to the American way, has two functions, one negative and one positive. Its negative function is to keep away obstacles from the individual. To prevent his property from being confiscated, his personal ambitions from being frustrated, his opinions from being suppressed, his capacities from being inhibited. Its business, on this side, is to prevent coercion. To prevent fear. Fear of the policeman, fear of the tax collector, fear of the recruiting sergeant, fear of the boss, and fear of the mob.

On this side, the American people are extremely sensitive, as are all peoples with a long tradition of democratic government and democratic society, whether they are Englishmen, or Frenchmen, or Swedes. And it is well that it should be so. For out of this lack of coercion springs everything that is creative, affirmative and personally responsible.

If the American people are hypersensitive on this side, if they are hesitant to change one coercion for even a more benevolent one, let us be thankful. Underneath all the exaggerated absurdities of the Republican campaign was, essentially, the fear of coercive government, and that is what the Republican vote has registered.

* * *

But government has a positive function. To do things which will help the individual to realize these legitimate aims. Above all, in a democracy, to work to equalize and generalize the chance. And back of all the demagoguery in the Democratic campaign, is this urge—to greater equalization of opportunity and a more real justice. And it is this spirit which has been registered in the vote for Mr. Roosevelt.

Whatever the American way of life is or is not, it is not to stand still. The great quality of American life is the quality of energy, of vitality. The passion to discover, and the passion to build, are great American passions, and the passion to build society itself is part of the national genius.

* * *

Once before in these columns, commenting upon France, I spoke of the amazing resilience of democracy. Its resilience lies in the fact that, in governments determined by the majority, the margin of possible deviation from a general line is small indeed. Conservative governments succeed liberal governments, or radical governments succeed conservative, but the power and real prestige of either rests on the extent to which one can catch up into itself and harmonize with its own policy the reservations of the opposition.

A Labor government in England started the wave for greater social security, for the abolition of slums, and a conservative government carried the policies further. It carried them, indeed, so far that it rebuilt England, and rehoused the nation; and the result is that on Monday the British county elections turned in an overwhelmingly conservative majority. For men and women who have security in their jobs and in their old age, who fear no humiliation of public charity if they are unemployed, who live in decent houses, and have gardens, become conservative, having something to conserve.

* * *

A democracy is not an organization. It is an organism. It lives while its heart beats and its mind functions. When those fail, no power on earth can wind it up again to do anything except jerk or march like a robot. It has its tocsins and develops against them its own antitocsins.

As long as the majority rules, and the minority speaks its mind.

Soloist With Symphony

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

JASCHA HEIFETZ.

VIOLINIST HEIFETZ IN LONG REHEARSAL

Keeps Orchestra Busy Two Hours and a Half, Making Many Suggestions.

Jascha Heifetz, violinist, rehearsing yesterday with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra for his appearance as soloist in its concerts this afternoon and tomorrow night, turned the usually brief and perfunctory rehearsal of a guest artist into an exacting practice session lasting two and a half hours.

The composition which he will play with the orchestra is the D major concerto by Brahms, a work which requires about 40 minutes for performance. Ordinarily visiting soloists are content to play through their special number once, with perhaps an occasional suggestion to the conductor. Heifetz had many suggestions to make, most of them on matters of accent in the orchestra's playing.

Suggests Changes.

The 35-year-old violinist, who made his concert debut when he was 7 years old and his first American appearance at 16, performed the Brahms concerto with the St. Louis orchestra four years ago. His insistence on detail in yesterday's rehearsal suggested that he has changed his interpretation of the number since then.

Heifetz appeared for the rehearsal wearing a dark blue suit, blue shirt and tie and brown shoes. He is of middle size, but while rather stocky in build, his face is ascetic. His manner is formal and during the practice he stood with his back to the orchestra facing the seats of the Municipal Auditorium Opera House as he will at the concerts.

During the playing, when he wanted to suggest a change, he spoke in a low voice to Conductor Vladimir Golschmann, standing on the podium beside him. Golschmann would signal to stop the music, consult his score, and give an order to the players, illustrating the accent and volume with a chanting song.

The conductor frequently stopped the playing to explain his own interpretation of difficult passages. When the end of the number was reached at last he called for the playing of sections at random from the composition.

Heifetz rarely altered his expression of calm detachment. Once or twice he smiled when the playing of a passage pleased him particularly. His attention to the rhythm of the music was visible in movements of his shoulders and in the tapping of his foot.

"Musicians Change."

When the practice was over Heifetz told reporters that critics and music lovers were usually several years behind in their understanding of a musician's development. "We change, like any other serious person, as we grow older and encounter discouragement and disappointment or joy and peace," he said.

He spoke of the necessity for increasing popular appreciation of classical music, suggesting that the United States ought to have a national festival like that at Salzburg, Austria. This country was now the most important world center for all arts, he declared.

Asked how a musician, playing as many concerts as he, can sustain his enthusiasm, he said: "There are many times when performing for an audience seems impossible, but you can't break your violin and bow over your knee and run away. Every summer when my last concert is over I don't play for a long time and try to keep from hearing any music at all."

Sixtieth Wedding Anniversary.

The sixtieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Binder, 4138A Oregon avenue, will be celebrated tomorrow with a solemn high mass at 8 a. m. at St. Anthony's Church, Michigan avenue and Meramec street. Mr. Binder is 87 years old, and his wife is 78. They were married in St. Louis.

PURDUE U. HEAD OPPOSES 'VICIOUS CIRCLE' IN EDUCATION

"More Students, More Teachers, More Buildings to Attract More Students."

By the Associated Press

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 6. — The system demanding higher education for all was opposed in an address yesterday by Dr. Edward Charles Elliott, president of Purdue University, to registrars and admission officers of New York State colleges.

While he said that "higher education for the masses" was "inevitable in any plan for a free people," Dr. Elliott added that it led to a "vicious circle of more students used as a plea for more money to hire more teachers to occupy more buildings to provide more service and to attract more students."

"In the next generation," he continued, "that nation or group which in this generation succeeds in directing the largest share of individuals of training and ability, will control our destiny."

Dr. Elliott declared that "every June after I've awarded the degrees to our graduates, I wonder 'How many absolute misfits are in that group?'"

"One student once told me he did not want to be a success. I was astounded. He said he wanted to be comfortable. Maybe that should be the measuring stick colleges should use. Success kills so many and its pursuit kills so many others."

MRS. ADELE L. TATUM DIES IN WEST AT 90

Former St. Louisan Figured in Contest Over Will of Sister, Mrs. Bordley.

Mrs. Adele L. Tatum, a native of St. Louis, who was a plaintiff in a suit here to break the will of her sister, Mrs. Blanche Bordley, died of infirmities Tuesday night at her home in Los Angeles. She was 90 years old and had resided in California about 40 years.

Mrs. Tatum and a niece filed the contest in March, 1931, alleging that Mrs. Bordley, widow of Daniel C. Bordley, a director of the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., was of unsound mind when she executed the will, leaving the bulk of her $1,200,000 estate to charity.

Their contention was sustained by a Circuit Court jury, which set aside the will in April, 1932. The beneficiaries defending the will appealed to the Missouri Supreme Court, but before decision the contest was dropped by agreement.

An attorney representing Mrs. Tatum said no money had been paid in settlement. Under the will she received the income from $20,000, whereas had the will been finally broken she would have received two-fifths of the estate.

In the trial testimony was given concerning eccentricities of Mrs. Bordley, including statements that she was under the delusion she was Mary, Queen of Scots. Other testimony was that Mrs. Tatum did not think her sister was insane as the suit alleged and did not want the trial to go on. Two of her sons testified that the litigation was "gnawing at the heart" of their mother.

Mrs. Tatum was represented by the old law firm of Foristel, Mudd, Blair & Habenicht of St. Louis and a Kansas City law firm, which had a contract to get half of whatever she might realize through the will contest.

Mrs. Tatum is survived by a daughter and five sons. Her husband, Joseph T. Tatum, died in 1916.

B. H. Achelpohl Dies.

Bernhard H. Achelpohl, operator of a farm near Flint Hill in St. Charles County, died yesterday of a heart ailment at St. Joseph's Hospital, St. Charles. Mr. Achelpohl, 58 years old, was a brother of Probate Judge William F. Achelpohl of St. Charles County. He was unmarried and is survived by three sisters living in St. Louis and three brothers.

what sort—which would categorically repudiate the Popular Front."

He said they would support an administration pledged "to combat Communism, to take additional measures for the security of France's frontiers and effect electoral reform."

Solid Support in Chamber.

The Chamber of Deputies, meanwhile, gave solid support to Blum's proposals for revision of provincial finances, voting a preliminary bill unanimously.

The Senate unanimously voted an order of the day "regretting" the naval arsenal incidents.

The strikes heightened tension stimulated by a verbal clash between conservatives and Communists when Parliament reconvened yesterday, with the occupation strikes a bitter issue.

As the legislators met, a sit down strike of 3000 workers in the Panhard-Levassor automobile plant spread to several sections of the country. "Stay-in" strikers at Lebaudy-Sommier defied the Government to oust them from a sugar refinery. At Roubaix, 13 factories were idle because strikes in 10 coal-yards shut off their source of fuel.

Employes of a Paris oil refinery struck, stone workers walked out and bakery employes decided to take a strike vote today. Lille restaurant, cabaret and cafe workers threatened to strike.

Ere Nouvelle, radical Socialist newspaper, added to the pressure on the Government, joining Rightists in an attack on the administration's proposed law "to clean up" the French press.

The proposed reform, scheduled for presentation to the current Parliament session, would require newspapers to disclose their sources of revenue and would impose restrictions "to put an end to personal defamation" in publications.

Obligatory Arbitration Bill.

The Premier, Socialist deputies said, told them he planned to submit a bill calling for obligatory arbitration of strikes if circumstances make it necessary.

Conservative deputies asserted outside Parliament they would intempellate the Government on its failure to end the occupation strikes, which began when the Popular Front Government took office last June and have continued with varying intensity since then.

President Roosevelt's re-election won him a unanimous rising vote of congratulations from the Chamber yesterday.

Each mention of the Roosevelt victory drew bursts of applause from all the Chamber's benches. Jean Mistler, chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, which examined the resolution, said the President's authority "will increase his influence with respect to international co-operation and maintenance of peace."

Chavez Wins in New Mexico.

By the Associated Press.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 6. — Senator Dennis Chavez, Democrat, was returned to the seat held by the late Bronson M. Cutting with a margin over his Republican opponent, Judge M. A. Otero Jr., of 20,000 votes. Chavez will serve the unexpired four-year term of Cutting, whose seat Chavez has filled in the upper House by appointment for a year and a half.

BAR UNIT TO CONSIDER JUDICIAL COUNCIL PLAN

One of Recommendations Is to Nominate Judges at Party Conventions.

A committee of the St. Louis Bar Association has been named by President Samuel H. Lieberman to study proposals of the Missouri Supreme Court's Judicial Council, including the recommendation, designed to remove selection of judges as far as possible from politics, for nomination of judicial candidates at party conventions held solely for that purpose.

Chairman Charles P. Williams of the Board of Election Commissioners is chairman of the committee. Other members are George C. Willson, former State Supreme Court Judge Fred L. Williams, Roberts P. Elam and Oliver T. Remmers, former chairman of the Election Board.

The Bar Association long has been interested in the problem of how to secure a judiciary selected by means in which merit clearly outweighs political considerations. As a step toward this end the association, in a non-partisan poll of members, chose eight of the candidates for judicial and prosecuting offices in St. Louis for recommendation to the voting public and listed them on a separate ticket on last Tuesday's ballot.

But the result was disappointing, for only three of the recommended candidates were elected and they were Democrats, successful in the Roosevelt landslide. The five recommended Republicans were defeated.

The Judicial Council's report, submitted last month to the Supreme Court, expressed the view that the primary system had not remedied evils of the convention system and had produced new defects. The necessity for experienced and qualified men to campaign for votes, the report said, cheapened and degraded judicial offices. Although not advising departure from the present system of electing Judges, the council recommended return to the convention system for selection of candidates for Circuit Judges, Judges of the Courts of Appeal and Judges of the Supreme Court.

Proposals of the Council will be presented to the next Legislature. One of the 11 members of the Council is State Senator Michael E. Casey, a member of the ruling triumvirate in the State Senate.

Gerald Smith Leaving Night Court

THE REV. GERALD L. K. SMITH, FORMER Share-Our-Wealth Club organizer, leaving night court at New Orleans with Mrs. Smith Thursday, after he received a suspended sentence of $10 or 10 days in jail for disturbing the peace, reviling the police and using abusive language during an address assailing the State administration.

ESCAPED CONVICT WHO LED MODEL LIFE TO BE PAROLED

Massachusetts Board to Let Him Return to California Where He Works as a Collector.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—The Massachusetts Parole Board cleared the way yesterday for George E. Gilbert, 41 years old, to resume the model life he lived in California for four years until an amateur detective discovered he was an escaped convict.

The board ordered the prisoner paroled at Norfolk prison colony Nov. 21. Gilbert will return to Los Angeles, where, the board said, he will be re-employed by the oil company for which he once collected $400 to $500 a week.

His parole, however, forbade marriage for two and one-half years, and thus checked his romance with Dora Millicent Miles, 23, who came East to tell officials of Gilbert's rehabilitation in Los Angeles.

Gilbert, divorced last July by Mrs. Helen M. Gilbert, mother of his four children, must comply with a State law which forbids a divorced husband from remarrying within that period after a "conditional divorce."

Gilbert escaped from Norfolk prison colony Sept. 3, 1930, while serving a four to eight-year sentence for robbery of a bank messenger in 1925 and while awaiting completion of that term in 1933 to begin serving another sentence of six to eight years for a 1929 kidnaping in Weymouth.

In 1934 an amateur detective saw his picture in a detective magazine and told police "George W. Parker," the model citizen, was a fugitive from Massachusetts.

Sale of Mrs. Insull's Furnishings.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—A total of $18,910 was paid for furniture, silverware and art objects at the third session of the sale of house furnishings of Mrs. Samuel Insull Jr. yesterday. A pair of carved walnut and leather armchairs in the early seventeenth century Italian style went for $400. Sales for the first three sessions have totaled $45,677.

Negro Shot in Quarrel Dies.

Ulysses Smith, 42-year-old Negro, died yesterday at Peoples Hospital of a bullet wound of the chest suffered Sept. 13 in a quarrel at his home, 4228 West Belle place. Police are holding Beatrice Dudley, 34, Negro, who told them, they reported, that she shot Smith when he picked up a glass with the apparent intention of throwing it at her.

Tenancy Conference Postponed.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 6.—Gov. J. M. Futrell yesterday postponed the National Farm Tenancy Conference at Hot Springs from Nov. 30 to Dec. 3, and broadened the program to include creation of a "forest of states" at Little Rock. Under auspices of the Arkansas Centennial Commission. The Governor of each state was asked to bring to Arkansas a tree typical of the growth in each commonwealth.

The President's plurality was 234,253. The vote for minor party candidates, with scattered precincts missing, was: Lemke, 14,231; Thomas, 3054; Browder, 518.

Jest Plain Hoss Sense by "Silver Dollar" Brady

"TO TELL THE TRUTH—

THERE AIN'T NO OTHER WHISKEY ANYWHERES NEAR LIKE SILVER DOLLAR"

"THERE'S only one North Star to go by when you're ridin' at night—an' it stands out from all the rest.

"Silver Dollar stands out, too, jest like that—an' heaps of folks look for it when pickin' out their whiskey. Silver Dollar's the Bourbon they've been lookin' for at the price they're glad to pay.

"There jest ain't any other whiskey anywheres near like it. Mild as June rain—mellow as Western sunshine—smooth as a yearlin's coat—and gentle actin'—to sum up a few of the points folks like.

"Do yourselves a favor, folks—please try it wherever good liquor is sold—jest say 'Silver Dollar.' It don't hardly tickle goin' down!"

DECEMBER CORN REACHES DOLLAR; WHEAT LOWER

Former Climbs More Than Two Cents, Highest Since August 19 — Latter 1-4 to 3-4 Down.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6. — Climbing more than 2 cents late today, corn reached above $1 a bushel for December delivery in Chicago. This is the highest price December corn contracts have touched since Aug. 19. The fact that the 1936 corn crop in the United States is approximately a billion bushels less than a normal yield was cited as a stimulating influence underlying the market situation.

Corn closed buoyant, 1¼@2¼ cents above yesterday's finish. December $1@1.00¼. May new 93⅞@ 94c; wheat ¼@⅜ down, December $1.13@1.18⅛; oats unchanged to ¼ higher, and provisions unchanged to 7 cents up.

Trading in the largest volume witnessed for a long while, the yellow cereal moved up swiftly on buying by pit traders and commission houses. July led the advance, moving up to 91½c, while December shot up to 99½c. There was heavy short covering, especially in the nearby contract, December.

Liverpool wheat due ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher, closes 1c to 1⅛c lower, with sterling also lower.

A large shipment of wheat this week to the United Kingdom from India raised the export total from that country since April 1 to 4,384,000 bushels as against only 160,000 bushels during the same period last year. Broomshall says the surplus for export is 7,500,000 bushels.

Broomhall reports recent rains in France has improved soil conditions and that sowing of winter grains is making satisfactory progress.

The India rice crop is reported to have shown improvement from recent rainfall, higher than that of last year. Other native coarse grain crops also are said to be large. The soil is in good condition for spring seeding and a full acreage of wheat is indicated.

Wheat futures purchases yesterday totaled 16,641,000 bushels, corn 12,653,000. Open interest in wheat was 101,718,000 bushels and in corn 56,192,000.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Nov. 6.—Wheat and corn futures were quoted on the local exchange today:

Winnipeg wheat opened ⅝@1c lower. The close was ¾@1c lower.

Liverpool wheat opened unchanged to ½d lower and was ⅜@⅞d off later. The close was ¾@⅞d lower.

STEELS PUT BRAKES ON FORWARD STOCK MOVE

See-Saw Trading Trends Also Slow the Pace After Ticker Gets Behind — Selling Appears Among Recent Leaders.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—While selected stock market issues moved into new high territory for the recovery today, selling of the steels and other recent leaders effectively put the brakes on the rally.

See-saw trading trends also slowed the trading pace after the ticker tape was behind for almost an hour and a half in the morning. Transfers were around 2,700,000 shares.

The downward trend in the steels accompanied announcements of wage increases by important companies in the industry. Columbia Steel, a subsidiary of U. S. Steel, started the ball rolling and was followed soon by Bethlehem and Carnegie-Illinois. Officials of Columbia said the boost was granted in anticipation of a jump in the cost of living.

Standard Oil of New Jersey shares suffered a setback notwithstanding the voting of a 75-cent extra dividend by the directors. There had been talk of a larger distribution.

Corn at Chicago ran up 1¼ to 2¼ cents a bushel. Wheat was off ¾ to ⅝. U. S. Government securities pushed ahead but other bonds were mixed. Leading foreign currencies were down in terms of the dollar. Cotton yielded 20 to 45 cents a bale.

The French franc, recording a decline earlier, came back at mid-afternoon under official support and showed a net advance of .00½ of a cent at 4.63½ cents. Sterling was off 11-16 of a cent at $4.87¾.

Among Those in Front.

Shares of Loew's were in the lead with a gain of more than 3 points. Others in front included Wright Aeronautical, Amerada, du Pont, General Railway Signal, Pressed Steel Car, Patino Mines, Chrysler, American Rolling Mill, Columbia Pictures, Schenley, National Distillers, Distillers Corporation-Seagrams, Hiram Walker, American Metal, Gimbel and American Telephone.

Andes Copper dropped 10 points or so. Johns-Manville was off nearly 4. Down as much as 2 or more were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Anaconda, Kennecott, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Allis-Chalmers, Crown Cork, Collins & Aikman, Cerro de Pasco, Calumet & Hecla, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward and Spiegel-May-Stern.

Others on the offside were Douglas Aircraft, J. I. Case, United States Rubber and Northern Pacific.

Late improvement was shown by United States Industrial Alcohol, Twentieth Century-Fox, American Chain and Newport Industries.

The coppers were backward despite the fact the domestic price of the red metal was hoisted to 10½ cents a pound, a new top since 1930.

Movement in Metals.

Following an uprush in the London market, Straits tin futures on the Commodity Exchange, Inc., zipped up 3 cents a pound, the limit allowed. Tin deliverable in December, sold at 51.90 cents a pound. Heavy buying abroad boosted the price of export copper to 10.775 cents a pound, a new high since 1931, and compared with a range of 10.70 to 10.75 cents a pound yesterday.

In London the price of bar gold was advanced 3½ pence to 142 shillings, 6½ pence, or the equivalent of $34.81, and a new high for the year.

Earnings, dividends and other business news continued to provide cheer for trading forces.

Retail distribution this week, Dun & Bradstreet found, was a bit uneven because of weather conditions, but wholesale volumes were sustained by extended demand for Christmas goods and more generous spring commitments.

An increase of $76,000,000 in currency circulation during the week ended Nov. 4 was said to have been due principally to seasonal factors and election week spending.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Exports of rubber manufactures from the United States during September are reported by the Commerce Department as valued at $2,259,077, an increase of 37 per cent over August and 29 per cent over September, 1935. The Department said the increase reversed a long-time seasonable decline.

Exports for the first nine months of the year were valued at $17,531,006, a gain of 7 per cent over those for the same period last year.

The principal class of rubber goods—tires, tubes and tire repair materials—increased from $8,723,904 in the first nine months of last year to $9,024,648 this year.

FOREIGN MARKETS AT A GLANCE

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Stock prices closed strong, sharp advances being registered in metal issues, especially tin and copper. Oil and rubber shares were in strong demand. Mexican Eagle advancing, following reports that the company's labor troubles had been settled. The industrial group and transatlantic securities were mixed. Foreign bonds and the gilt-edged division remained quiet.

PARIS, Nov. 6.—Railroad and electrical securities sold lower in today's Bourse, while the industrial section moved irregularly. International stocks were supported and rentes also advanced from 55 centimes to 1 franc 15 centimes. Bank of France closed unchanged at 9050 francs.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 6.—Wheat futures closed about ¾d lower following increased selling pressure for Argentine wheat and poor milling demand. Speculative support in cotton was discouraged by larger American crop estimates. Bombay selling against East Indian cotton offset trade calling and the market closed 3 to 5 points lower.

EXTRA PAYMENTS TO WORKERS AND STOCKHOLDERS

Standard Oils Vote Stock Regulars, Extras, of $51-250,000; $4,500,000 to Employes' Thrift Plan.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The harvest of extra dividends resulting in some cases, from the undistributed profits surtax, was swelled by substantial payments voted to stockholders by a number of leading corporations.

STANDARD OIL CO. OF NEW JERSEY declares extra dividend of 75 cents a common share; also the regular semi-annual dividend of 50 cents a common share, making a total disbursement of about $32,750,000 to shareholders. Six months ago the company paid an extra of 75 cents a share and regular semi-annual of 50 cents. Dividends just declared are payable Dec. 15 to stock of record Nov. 16. In 1930, 1931 and 1932 the company paid $2 a share and in 1933 and 1934 $1.25 was paid.

Walter C. Teagle, president, said that, with payment of the extra and regular dividends, the company's penalties under the undistributed profits tax would be reduced to a minimum.

The directors announced a special distribution of approximately $4,-500,000 to the employes thrift plan, in addition to the company's regular payment as its share under the plan which was put into effect Jan. 1, 1936. Teable emphasized it was wholly either profit sharing nor a wage adjustment. There are approximately 47,000 employes of the company in the United States who will be immediately affected and 70,000 of foreign countries. HEAVY INDUSTRIES SET EARNING PACE

First 275 Concerns, All Lines Reporting Third Quarter Net Gain 55.8 Over Last Year.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORKK, Nov. 6.—Earning power of the nation's industries jumped sharply in the third quarter, with heavy industry setting the pace.

The first 275 companies reporting net income for the period gained 55.8 per cent over the same period last year, a compilation by the Associated Press shows. Total income was $308,569,971 against $197,964,647.

The extent of the improvement recorded in recent years of recovery was indicated by the fact that only 16 corporations were "in the red" for the first nine months. A few years ago between 15 and 20 per cent of the total turned in deficits.

HEAVY INDUSTRY—Making goods used by other manufacturers—chalked up the widest gains. Analysts point out, however, that the big percentage improvement in this group was partly due to many companies reporting losses a year ago and substantial profits in their latest statements. Heavy industrial machinery, steel and railroad equipment makers' net income rocketed 909, 462 and 285 per cent respectively to lead the recovery parade. Other important gainers included: Building supply, automobile accessory and electric equipment manufacturer.

Coal mines cut losses, while the net of liquor firms dipped slightly from 1935.

The following tabulation shows the number of companies in each major category, net income and the percentage increase over the third quarter last year:

FISH ASKS CRITICS TO GIVE ROOSEVELT A BREATHING SPELL

Congressman Thinks President Should Use Authority to Put Jobless to Work.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. (Rep.), re-elected in President Roosevelt's home congressional district, issued a statement last night urging the President's opponents to give him a "breathing spell from partisan propaganda and political hatreds."

"The ill-advised political attack on the Federal Social Security Act for partisan purposes was an unfortunate blunder in a campaign noted for a lack of intelligent leadership," Fish said.

"Most of the Republican members of Congress voted for the bill and are in favor of its general principles, but if any modification or revision is required to further protect the interest of the American wage earners, the members of Congress can remedy any defects when th new Congress convenes.

"I likewise urge all Republicans to refrain from depicting the President as being a Communist or a Communist sympathizer or as being allied with them. A continuation of this loose campaign talk will be resented by the American people and only promote Communism and encourage the Communists.

"Let us declare a moratorium on political clap-trap, abuse and personalities and stop trying to smear the President with Communism.

"Let us rather give the President a breathing spell from partisan propaganda and the political hatreds engendered in the campaign, so that he can exert all his authority to help put the 11,000,000 unemployed back to work and provide steady jobs instead of relief and non-productive tasks at the expense of the Federal Government."

Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary.

Thirty-two relatives, including six children and seven grandchildren, attended a recent banquet at Hotel Kings-Way honoring Mr. and Mrs. J. Albert Jacobsmeyer, 111 North Central avenue, Clayton, on their fiftieth wedding anniversary. One daughter came from her home in Glendale, Cal., and a son came here from Texas. Jacobsmeyer, 72 years old, was born at Spanish Lake and is a vice-president of the Land Title Insurance Co. His wife is 71.

NATIONAL GUARD SUCCEEDS PRIVATE ARMIES IN AUSTRIA

Industrial Militia to Include Most of Workers So As to Insure Operation of Factories.

IDEA ORIGINATED WITH SCHUSCHNIGG

Members Get 10 Cents a Day for Guarding Public Buildings and Political Headquarters.

By the Associated Press.

VIENNA, Nov. 6.—The Austrian Government has named local commanders for a new industrial militia to take the place of the disbanded privately owned armies.

At the same time the 1937 budget submitted to the Diet asked for an appropriation of 210,000,000 schillings ($39,060,000) for national defense—approximately 60 per cent more than was voted for the same purpose during the current year.

The industrial militia was designed to include most workers in order to insure peaceful operation of Austria's factories.

Plans Force of 100,000.

Members of the new army, planned to contain 100,000 military-trained civilians, will wear gray-green uniforms and jaunty little caps with feathers peeping through the band.

They will carry rifles and side-arms and guard numerous semi-public buildings and political headquarters.

The new force was conceived by Chancellor Kurt von Schuschnigg as a federally controlled army of volunteers to replace and, to some extent, to absorb the old private armies.

It was no longer necessary, the Chancellor said, for the Fascists to have their Heimwehr, for the Catholic party to support their storm troops, or for the Christian labor unions to mobilize their freiheits bund every time some political emergency arose.

Former Vice-Chancellor Eduard Baar-Baarenfels, removed from his Cabinet post last Tuesday, was named commander. It was thought that his prestige as a former Heimwehrman would attract other adherents of the disbanded private army.

Far Short of Full Strength.

Chancellory spokesmen said the full strength of the industrial militia was far short of being recruited.

They estimated that in Vienna 1500 militiamen were on active duty. Other thousands, many as yet without uniforms or arms, are called from their homes several times a week for military instruction and occasional maneuvers.

The pay of industrial militiamen on active duty is 10 cents a day. They receive free meals and live in barracks.

The number of military barracks in Austria is growing rapidly along the western front which is the narrow Austrian panhandle bounded by Germany on the north, Italy on the south, and Switzerland in the west.

Railways and highways are being extended and plans are in progress for reopening the airplane factory at Wiener-Neustadt near Vienna.

Old buildings are being transformed into barracks or new garrisons are under contruction in Hellbrunn, St. Johann, Gmunden, Bludenz, and Freidstadt, in addition to previously-announced undertakings at Kufstein, Schwaz, Woergle, Landeck, and Reutte.

URGES NEW WISCONSIN PARTY

Defeated G. O. P. Nominee Suggests Convention in Month.

By the Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 6.—Roland J. Steinle, unsuccessful Republican candidate for Lieutenant-Governor in Tuesday's election, today called for negotiations on formation of a political party of Wisconsin in which Republicans, Democrats and anti-La Follette Progressives would be fused.

In a letter to Edward Samp, chairman of the Wisconsin Republican Committee, Steinle proposed that Samp help organize Democrats, Republicans and anti-La Follette Progressives. Steinle suggested that a convention be held within a month. Declaring he agreed organized opposition to the La Follette family-dominated Progressive group was desirable, Arthur W. Lueck, defeated Democratic candidate for Governor, added: "The Democratic party is the Liberal Party and the dominant party and I see no reason why the Democratic party should not be the one selected for that purpose."

Missouri West Point Appointment.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6. — The War Department announced today Representative R. T. Wood of Springfield, Mo., had designated Robert Hunter Crist, Springfield, for the March 2 West Point entrance examination. James B. Bartholmess, Sheldon, was designated first alternate.

TODAY

To Fish and Think.
The Best Message.
Ford's Father's Advice.
Pangloss Was Wrong.

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1936.)

THE President will soon go fishing, not to catch fish but to formulate plans for his work. Fishing promotes thought; the President needs uninterrupted leisure to decide what to do with his 10,000,000 plurality, and his 523 electoral votes against Gov. Landon's eight.

Those near the President say he has "no thought of reprisal or oppression and hopes sincerely all the bitterness of the campaign will be forgotten; that the United States may be made a richer, freer, happier country."

Those who know the President are sure that he means every word of it; he has on his hands work too big to permit any waste of time on little things.

Among thousands of messages from all over the world congratulating President Roosevelt, the best, perhaps, comes from Mr. Blum, Prime Minister of France.

Mr. Blum, a radical, but never a Communist, sees in Mr. Roosevelt's triumph proof that nations can still be operated on a basis of old-fashioned democratic majority rule. The recent election shows that "majority rule" works. Little gentlemen, clerical and otherwise, with some "better idea," were swept into the waste basket.

Opportunities still exist for those willing to work instead of complaining. Not many years ago, a young man and his wife were working at a new idea. He had split an electric wire to get a spark, grounding one wire with the aid of the kitchen sink. His wife poured gasoline one drop at a time into a piece of gas pipe arranged as a cylinder. An electric spark ignited the gasoline and the thing actually moved.

The young couple were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford, and he was building his own first "gas engine," which still exists. It provided evidence that destroyed an attempt to establish an automobile monopoly.

A little later Henry Ford's father said to him: "Henry, I understand you are building as many as 35 of your automobiles a day. Be careful or you will flood the market. Never create an over-supply."

Since then, Henry Ford has built 24,645,000 cars. He built a great many more than a million last year, with no sign of the "over-supply" that worried his father, and he will have "run off the line" several thousand more by the time you see this.

In Detroit, you would find it hard to get a room in any hotel today because 8000 Ford agents are gathered to see the new 1937 Ford car. The agents will present to Mr. Ford an old wind mill from New England, to be set up in Dearborn Village. Mr. Ford is interested in old mechanical contrivances, old engines, old wind mills, old carriages, because they demonstrate progress, and he can take any one of them apart, put it together and make it work.

But, more important than 24,000,000 cars, is the following incident:

Not long ago, Henry Ford and this writer were walking down the long corridor of a New York hotel toward the elevator; at the far end of the corridor Mrs. Ford stood in the doorway of the apartment.

Mr. Ford said, not in his usual tone of voice, "I first met her 50 years ago this month, and if I had not met her, I should never have amounted to anything."

Voltaire's learned Dr. Pangloss was wrong; it is not true that "all is for the best in the best possible of worlds."

In spite of all our wealth and prosperity, more mothers die in childbirth, in this country, than in any other "civilized" country in the world.

You know that better conditions are needed in America when you see photographs of the wretched two-room log cabin in the swamp bottomlands where, last Monday, Mrs. James Bridges gave birth to quadruplets.

Two of the quadruplets died soon after birth, happily for them, perhaps; of the remaining two, Lee Earl Bridges and Ella Pearl Bridges, taken to a hospital, Ella Pearl died on Wednesday; Lee Earl is alive as this is written.

If every newspaper in America would print pictures of that unfortunate mother, the "home" in which she lives with her sharecropper husband, this nation would realize that there is still room for improvement.

France now talks of powerful forts to separate France from Switzerland, in case Germany should come through Switzerland. The "logical French" sometimes show inability to get out of a rut. The next war will be decided by airplanes flying over those fortifications toward Paris, paying no attention to forts.

As great a man as Napoleon could stick in a rut. If he had listened patiently, instead of saying, when Fulton called on him, "I can give that American just three minutes," he might have crossed the Channel to England in spite of contrary winds. If he had adopted and used an improved rifle invented by a German and submitted to him, he might not have gone to St. Helena. The biggest word in the language is 12.

Information Helps a Child In Viewpoint

Queer Notions Sometimes Arise Because of Lack of Experience.

By Angelo Patri

Angelo Patri

"BUT why don't you eat your meals, child? You can see you are losing weight, and you know that girls of your age cannot afford to do that. I don't want to frighten you, but at your age we have to guard against loss of weight because it is likely to end in serious illness. Why don't you drink the milk I prescribed for you?"

"Oh, Dr. Willie, I don't want to drink it."

"I know; but what I don't know is the reason for your not wanting to when you must know that you need it. Can't you tell me what makes you dislike it? Isn't it good milk?"

"Oh, of course. The best mother can buy."

"Your mother is paying for high-priced milk to help you to grow, and you waste it all by refusing to drink it? I can't understand your treating your people like that, and getting in your own way. I always thought you were intelligent."

"I've grown an inch since school opened last fall."

"Well, what of it? You are supposed to grow, aren't you? This is your time for growing. If you don't grow now you'll never grow. Is there anything wrong about growing?"

"I'm head and shoulders above any girl in my class, any girl in school even. If I keep on growing like that I'll be a regular freak. There won't be room for me in the house, or anywhere. I just can't grow any more."

* * *

"O-O. SO that is it. If you eat your food and drink your milk you will grow faster, and you are afraid to grow into a giant? You are not gong to be a giant, my dear. You will grow to be about six feet, a little under, like your grandmother. You make this growth during these next two years or so, and then you stop growing up and down, and grow round and round. But if you don't eat the food you need you will stop living, much less growing."

"Will you give me your word that I will stop growing before I am over six feet?"

"Certainly. You can't grow more than six feet, your family being what it is. Don't get that notion into your head. You are growing normally. I prescribed milk for you because you were not eating vegetables and milk and fruit. If you eat enough of them you won't have to have so much milk."

Children have queer notions at times. They try to find answers to their questions in their own limited experiences and often pick the wrong one. They do not know that they are wrong. They worry along, afraid to ask a question and get deeper and deeper into trouble. The adolescent child is peculiarly affected by his own ignorance and his incomplete experience. When he shows some unusual lack of adjustment it is time to search for the mistaken thought that is nourishing it.

The children who are growing fast need instruction in sex, in health conservation, in social adjustments. A few words fitly spoken are truly apples of gold for these distressed children.

Seven of the boys are studying social work, planning to enter the civil service when they get their degrees. The eighth is a senior at St. Louis University High School and also intends to enter social work. Two of the girls are studying nursing at the St. Mary's Hospital training school and the third is a freshman at Fontbonne College.

They came to St. Louis University because of their friendship for the Rev. Joseph A. Zimmerman, S. J., who was in charge of the St. Francis Mission Indian School in South Dakota for 10 years. Previously he taught at the school, the first high school for Indians in South Dakota, for five years. Last year he was responsible for five Indians coming to St. Louis University.

The present group is thought to be the largest from any Indian reservation to go to a private university not maintained solely for Indians. "They're all pulling for us back home; we get 10 to 12 letters every day," said Emil Red Fish, 20 years old, a Teton Sioux.

The other boys are Orville Night Pipe, 20; George Flemmond, 19; Joseph Eagle Dog, 21; George Day, 20, and his brother, Francis, 16; Joe Padilla, 21, and Manuel Chavez, 19. The last two are Pueblos from New Mexico but they live on different reservations and speak different languages. The others are Sioux from the Rosebud Reservation in South Dakota.

Leona Trimble, a 17-year-old Oglala Sioux, has entered Fontbonne College, where she will major in mathematics. While she unpacked, she told Father Zimmerman, a large group of girls gathered to watch, not knowing what she was likely to bring out. They were a little disappointed when they saw she had nothing out of the ordinary. She earns her board by typing and waiting on tables.

Leona Bordeaux, 18, and Mary Grant, 17, the nursing students, are also Sioux from the Rosebud Reservation. They hope to enter a Government hospital on the reservation when they complete their training.

* * *

FATHER ZIMMERMAN said the United States is expected to lend the students money for their tuition. They were allowed to pay half-fare on the train to St. Louis. All but two live on farms which have had poor crops for the last six years.

Only five of the boys are full-blooded Indians, but all except George and Francis Day have dark complexions, black eyes, high cheeks bones and straight black hair. The Day brothers are only one-quarter Indians and have light complexions. Francis Day, who is a senior at St. Louis University High, is an accomplished pianist and gives a program every Saturday on the radio.

The boys all live together in a building known as the "Annex" in the rear of the administration building. All those attending the university are freshmen, except Padilla and George Day, who enrolled for the first time last year.

Red Fish and Flemmond, who were star athletes in high school, are seeking places on the freshman basketball team. Night Pipe plays the clarinet in the band and Eagle Dog, the saxophone. George Day is earning his expenses by working on a parking lot near the university. All had saved some money by working with WPA road gangs, clerking in stores or cutting hay before they enrolled.

The boys are usually seen together, walking when they aren't in classes. One explained that they find it hard getting used to sitting and studying and never miss an opportunity to go for long walks.

Father Zimmerman, who looks after them, is building superintendent at the university. Each summer he returns to the Indian reservations and renews acquaintanceships. When he was in charge of the mission, from 1924 to 1934, he had to supervise 30 churches.

The names of his charges, he explained, were given to their fathers by Government workers who often made translations of Indian names which were inaccurate. Other names were translated accurately, but, nevertheless, sound strange in English, he added.

Propriety In Obligations of Various Types

A Delicate Situation With an Engagement Ring — Expressing Sympathy.

By Emily Post

Emily Post

DEAR Mrs. Post: Will you tell me what is the proper thing to do about an engagement ring after a girl was engaged and her fiance died and she becomes engaged to another man? This is exactly what has happened to me and my first fiance's mother is telling every one what a terrible person I am because I won't return her son's ring to her. I loved him dearly, and the fact that I now love another in no way belittles my love for either one, so far as I can see. They are the principals in two separate phases of my life. Why must I return the only thing my first fiance gave me and which I am sure he would have wished me to keep always?

Answer: If the ring is one he bought for you, it is certainly yours for always. But if the ring was once his mother's—possibly her own engagement ring—if it has any other family history about which she has a real sentiment, then I think you should send it back—but not otherwise.

Dear Mrs. Post: When my sister died some friends of another sister sent flowers to the funeral. The flowers were very beautiful and were addressed to Mother, but neither she nor I know them at all, and now some one in their family has died. So will you kindly tell me what, if anything, is Mother's obligation to these people?

Answer: I take it for granted that your sister who is their friend will go to see them and send flowers, and unless she is away from home there is no "obligation" that you need meet. But it would be kind certainly to send a note of sympathy, or flowers to the funeral from all of you.

Dear Mrs. Post: My sister and I are invited to the birthday party of a neighbor's son. Mother and this neighbor are dear friends, but we hardly know the son. Are we supposed to take birthday presents to the party? We always take presents to other birthday parties, but in those cases we knew the hosts or host very well. And yet we would hate to arrive at the party the only ones to be empty-handed. What do you suggest that we do?

Answer: If I were you I would take a trifling present from both of you together—not because it is necessary, or even customary to take a present to one whom you scarcely know, but because he is the son of your mother's friend.

HIGHBROW VAGABOND IN EUROPE

By BRUNO LESSING

CERNOBBIA, Jugoslavia, No. 5.

WEARY of motoring, I came to the Villa d'Este Hotel at this place for a few days' rest. They have an 18-hole golf course. They also have beautiful scenery and high prices. The hotel is on the Lago di Como. The sky is nearly always blue and is as high as the cost of room and board. It is a popular resort for newlyweds who have had no travel experience. There is nothing to do here but gaze at the lake, play golf, make love or look at the moon. They have a very fine moon here.

I had seen the lake before but, being in a generous mood, devoted half an hour to staring at it. It's a fine lake, as lakes go. And I never saw a finer moon. But you can't look at a lake all day or at a moon all night. And I soon became bored. Not knowing a soul in the place I could not, of course, make love to anyone. So I asked the porter what I could do to kill time. He said they had an 18-hole golf links.

Nearly all the guests had either a title or a dog. I heard the porter telephoning, "Madame la Princesse wants her car." "The Duke wants his motorboat." I heard the little bus boy say to the waiter, "The Countess wants a martini cocktail." And I heard a lady say to a sappy-looking slob, "How is your Excellency this morning?" I made friends with a dozen dogs. Bulls, sealys, dachshunds, terriers. They all seemed to like me. But their owners ignored my existence.

A sallow-faced young girl came out upon the terrace with a fine wire-haired terrier. There was absolutely nothing interesting about her appearance, but I had reached the point where I was willing to have conversation with a scrubwoman. I scratched the dog's neck and he jumped on my lap. I smiled at his owner. I got a glassy stare. The dog seemed perfectly happy on my lap—his tail was hitting at the rate of 100 per minute and he was licking my hand. Then a waiter approached the young woman and said, 'Your Ladyship is wanted on the telephone." As she got up, the dog jumped off my lap and followed her. I said to the waiter, "Is there anything going on here today?" And he said, "There are the golf links. We have 18 holes."

I WENT to the bar and ordered a cocktail. I felt a friendly slap on the shoulder and heard, "I say, old chap—" I turned around, with a moment's gleam of joy, and saw a strange face with a monicle screwed in one eye. And that face underwent a quick change. "I beg your pardon," the chap said. "I thought you were Lord Allalla," or some name like that. I didn't quite get it but I was willing to fall into conversation and talk about the mistakes that we all make. Nothing doing. The face had frozen. He walked away because, I'm sure, he was afraid I might talk to him.

I had sent Rene into the village on three errands. To buy a bottle of Johnny Walker, to see if there were any little ancient chests for sale and to ask somebody how old the Austrian Emperor, Franz Joseph, was, when he died. I needed that last bit of information for an article I had written about Yugoslavia. Rene departed at 10 a. m. At 6 p. m. I found him on the shore of the lake watching a fisherman. "Why in blankety-blank," I began. But he threw up his hands. "I attended to everything," he said. "There is no Johnny Walker. There are no chests. And nobody knows how old the emperor was."

Then he said, "How long is Monsieur going to stay here? It is a boring place." And I said, "Rene, they have an 18-hole golf course."

* * *

I SENT for the manager and told him I would like to write something about this hotel. He brought me a bunch of pamphlets and quickly ran away. I think he was afraid that I might drag him into conversation. From this literature I learned that the Villa d'Este was originally a palace built for Cardinal Tolomeo Gallio in the year 1568. An old print showed that its exterior looked pretty much the same three centuries ago as it does today. I cannot, for the life of me, imagine why a cardinal would want so big a house. Although, come to think of it, Cardinal Wolsey in England also had a weakness for grand palaces.

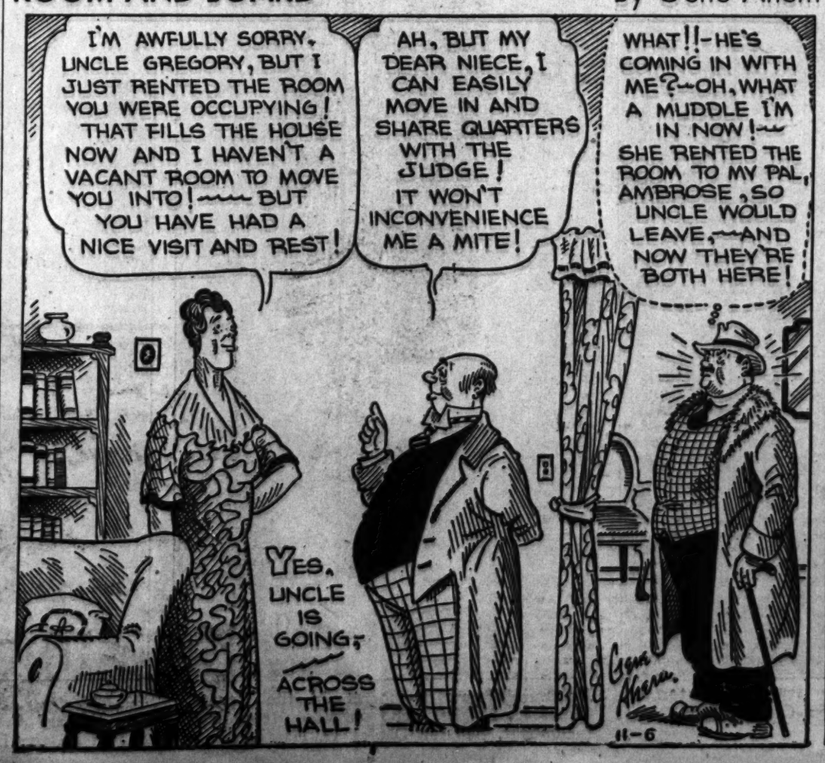

I went out on the terrace and communed with the moon. "Oh, moon," I said, "I'm bored stiff. This place is too ritzy for me. What wouldst thou do in my place?' Through the clear ether came an inspiration—I'm sure the moon heard me. "Toss up a coin. If it falls heads, spend tomorrow on the 18-hole golf links. If it falls tails, leave for Turin and points south."

A brilliant idea. I took my lucky penny and spun it in the air by the light of the moon. It fell heads up. The 18-hole golf links.

So I went inside and telephoned to Rene that we were leaving for Turin at 7 a. m.

IF YOU ASK My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I NOTICED an inquiry from a young girl interested in tap-dancing. We have at the Marydale Club, at the Convent of the Helpers of the Holy Souls, 4013 Washington boulevard. An excellent teacher and the membership dues, covering all courses are the minimum $2. We have classes in French, business English, piano, domestic science, expression and public speaking, Spanish, tap dancing, dramatics, sewing, dressmaking, fancy work, crocheting and knitting. And we also have a free library.

If the young lady will telephone or come to see us, she can learn all details about these evening classes, which are given Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, from 7 to 9 p. m. V. Z.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

WILL you please help me, as you do many others in solving their problems? We have only been in the city for a short time, coming here from the country. My father and mother are both dead and I have an aunt who has been very sick and is not expected to live but a short time.

What I want to know is, in case my aunt should pass away and we would have to take her to a funeral parlor, is someone of the family supposed to remain there night and day with the body, or does the undertaker have someone there for that purpose? JUST TWO GIRLS.

I understand that this is not done anymore unless the family elects to do so voluntarily. The undertaker provides several men, whose duty it is to remain with the body all the time, until interment.

My Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM writing you to ask you if you know someone who can knit wool stockings? If so, will you please let me know through the Post-Dispatch. MRS. E. D. L.

I cannot give addresses of this kind in the column. But you might send me self-addressed, stamped envelope. In case someone may answer this, I will forward the letter. The better way would be to inquire at any place where yarns and wools are sold. I feel sure they may have applications there and addresses of those who would like such work. Or you might take lessons at a place of this kind where the materials are sold.

* * *

Dear Martha Carr:

THERE has been some discussion as to who pays for the drinks at a wedding reception, the bride's parents or the groom. CAROLINE.

There is no reason for discussion on this subject. The bride's parents pay all expenses of the wedding reception.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM 21 years old and have been married three years. I had two and one-half years of high school, but quit school to be married. Could you please tell me of a correspondence school, where I could finish my high school courses? My husband has a very good education and could help me a lot with this study. Do you get a diploma after you finish school? This town is so small that they do not have any mid-semesters in school for married people; besides I have all my time used at home. RITA.

Write to the University of Chicago, Illinois University, Chicago, and Missouri University, Columbia, Mo., for information about these courses.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

THERE are some few pictures of moving picture stars that I want to get to fill my album. Could you give me the addresses of Joan Crawford, Jean Harlowe and Constance Bennett? I would like to have these three very much. PHOENIX.

All three of these actresses are with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios, Hollywood, Cal.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I WAS sick all last winter and my doctors tell me that I am not able to work. I had pneumonia twice and had one eye operated on. It seems just impossible for me to get my health and strength back. I do need clothes badly. I can't go to church, on the street or any place else. I need dresses, coat or suit, underwear and shoes. I wear 36 and 38 garments, but if they were larger, I could cut them down. My shoe is 4B. DISCOURAGED.

Doubtless offers will come in for you, but I must ask you to send me references and some good credentials, before I can forward them to you.

The clothing chairman at the relief headquarters or your social worker might be able to help you.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I DON'T pretend to be good at writing letters and hope you will not neglect to print this letter, however, because of this. Maybe you know what is wrong with the modern girl. She is, according to my experience, just the opposite of the saying "You can dish it out, but you can't take it."

By this I mean that these girls let a boy spend his money on them but want to give nothing in return. And I do not either, mean that she should subject herself to any cheap "necking" or "petting." But I do believe that she could invite him to spend an evening at home at her house to play cards or for some other diversion. She should have that much hospitality.

After taking the girl friend out for an evening, why cannot she ask you to come in for a sandwich or bottle of beer or some simple bite, instead of always wanting to go to a night club or a restaurant. The girls would be surprised to know how much the men appreciate such little attentions and courtesies.

I have taken out many a "nice" girl to the "best places" and, up to now, I have never been invited to their homes or asked to come in when I brought them home. And I know that I am not the only one, because other boys I know say the same thing of their girl friends.

I am really hoping my girl friend sees this letter and your comments on it. And I want every girl who reads it to profit by it. BOYFRIEND OR CHUMP.

The eternal swivet most young people seem to be in, for excitement and spending money, must account for the type you mention. Certainly, if a girl is in a position to extend this kind of hospitality, she should know that it is the very nice custom of well-bred people, who know the proper thing, to open their doors to friends who have shown them some attention.

There seems a strange trend among some of the young girls and a very ordinary one; that of being ashamed of their home because it is not dressed in the latest style. How many boys care, if the atmosphere is a gracious one and the place neat, whether or not the place has Venitian blinds, chromium appointments white artificial lilies and black woodwork or white rugs? In fact, it is likely a man prefers a little warmer coloring and, less austere appearance, even if the rug needs a stitch and a spring in the divan needs encouragement.

A bite after the show, especially if the hour is not too late, is a nice way of showing a little interest and kindly courtesy to a young man friend. (I hope, too, the girl reads your letter; she may need just the hint you give).

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

NEW FEATURES IN CHILD'S CLOTHES

This Season's Fashions Provide for Growth and Durability While Combining Gay Colors and Separate Pieces.

By SYLVIA STILES

THE two-piece snow suit illustrated at the center of the panel is of heavy wool and is knitted. The dark blue shade of the suit is brightened by the bright green felt banding which outlines the front of the jacket at either side of the zipper closing. The trimming extends up to the edge of the standing collar. Chevron stripes combining red, green and white decorate either side of the front. There is heavy ribbing at the bottom of the jacket, the edge of the sleeves and the bottom of the trousers. A toboggan type of knitted cap is worn with this costume.

Illustrated at lower part of the panel is a striped jacket which many children like for general wear in cold weather. It may be combined with ski pants or worn over a heavy skirt. Most of these jackets are made of blanket materials, some the navy pants are of shetland wool in a plaid pattern combining red, blue and green. There is bright navy ribbing at the neck, bottom of jacket and the edge of the sleeves. The Scotch cap is edged with a red ribbon which ties at the back with bow and streamers, and has a little feather at the side.

Illustrated at lower part of the panel is a striped jacket which many children like for general wear in cold weather. It may be combined with ski pants or worn over a heavy skirt. Most of these jackets are made of blanket materials, some being striped and others featuring plaid designs. This is truly a coat of many colors as the crosswise stripes include many bright hues. There are four pockets, two placed at an angle and the lower two placed in regulation manner. The front is double-breasted. Clever use of the plaid has been made in trimming the garment. There is a belt which may be worn if desired. A jockey cap of knitted wool has a visor brim which protects the face from wind and cold.

The other costume illustrated is a newcomer in juvenile fashion circles and is recommended highly because of its double-duty feature. It consists of a princesse line coat, brimmed hat and ski pants all made of rugged material such as the regulation snow suits employ. The coat can be worn for school and also for "Sunday best." Two narrow bands of felt, one green and the other orange, trim the front of the coat which buttons at the side with four flat buttons. The high shades which decorate the coat are repeated in the little peaked trimming on the hat. A plaid wool lining gives extra warmth to the coat while the ski pants have ribbing at the bottom to make them fit tightly.

"THE North wind doth blow and we shall have snow" not only proves a nice little nursery jingle with which to lull a wide-eyed child to sleep but it serves as a warning to mothers that Mary needs warm school and play clothes.

Last winter's snow suit which seemed so large that Mary could hardly find herself in it, now strikes her half way between the knees and the ankles, while the sleeves can be described more accurately as elbow rather than wrist length. The knitted sweater and legging outfit which grandmother took so much pride in designing has been stretched and stretched until there's no elastic left in the yarn and the "Sunday best" with fur-buttoned coat and trim little leggings must be classified as a "hand-me-down."

In spite of their endeavors, the designers of children's clothes can't make sufficient allowances for the growth of a child to make juvenile clothes do service for more than two seasons. They provide for sturdiness by the use of serviceable materials and reinforced portions, and they even introduce knitted sections here and there to take care of greater length, but there is a limit to their ingenuity.

So to compensate a disgruntled mother who finds that a good suit or coat has been outgrown and another must be purchased, they introduce attractive color combinations, variety in the style of garments and practical features which offer a new appeal.

The snow suit as it commonly is termed is the favorite outfit for children during cold weather and is worn alike by small boys and girls as well as all older ones who can find an excuse to don it. Besides the one and two-piece suits which are rather conventional in their styling there are some interesting costumes this year that combine gay jackets with separate ski pants as well as striking sweater and cap sets. Except for the use of very small children, the two-piece suit is recommended because of the variations possible in combining different sweaters and coats with the pants as well as the advantage it offers in providing for extra length.

The vogue of snow suits which have jacket contrasting with the trousers also offers a practical suggestion to mothers who find a jacket satisfactory for two seasons while the trousers are outgrown in one. Separate ski pants may be purchased in a larger size and even though the shade is different the costume has a smart appearance.

The figure sketched at the top of the panel is wearing an outfit composed of separate ski pants and matching Scotch plaid sweater and cap. The pants are made like overalls with a bib top and straps that are adjustable although the legs are finished with the regulation knitted ski cuff. They are navy blue in color but several other shades are available in the infants' department of the St. Louis stores as well as in the girls' and the boys' shops.

The Four-Five No Trump Slam Bid Convention

It Is Forcing, and Used Only When 5-Odd Contract Is Certain.

By Ely Culbertson

WHEN the primary requirements for a slam attempt are held (a powerful trump suit and at least six and one-half honor tricks, with an available side suit which may be established) a player may determine how many aces he and his partner hold, as well as how strong their long suits are, by the use of the four-five no trump convention.

Ely Culbertson

A bid of four no trump, after a game has been reached, or after there has been a strength showing bid by either partner is unconditionally forcing. You may bid four no trump when you hold:

1. Three aces or

2. Two aces and the king of any suit previously bid by you or your partner.

Since this is a forcing bid it must not be used except when it is almost certain that a contract of five odd may be made.

"Do you remember the hand." Waldy von Zedtwitz asked me recently when we were reminiscing over the first Anglo-American match, "on which both the English and our team climbed briskly up to five hearts and then hung there? The one in which the slam was a laydown?"

"I certainly do!" I answered, "And what a cinch it would have been to arrive at the slam safely by the use of asking bids. If only I had thought of them six years earlier than I did!"

This was the hand.

South, dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

	♠95 ♥KJ973 ♦J85 ♣KQ8
♠73 ♥Q5 ♦K9632 ♣A1052	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠J1062 ♥6 ♦Q1074 ♣J643
	♠AKQ84 ♥A10842 ♦A ♣97

The American bidding was:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2♥	Pass
5♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

It must be remembered that this also was before the invention of the four-five no trump convention. Not that it would have been valuable on this particular hand. Manifestly, from South's point of view, the slam depended squarely on North's ability to control the first or second lead of clubs. But, naturally enough, North could not tell that that was the consideration and, rather than shut his eyes and "stab," discreetly passed. The English team reached the same anomalous contract.

Today the problem would be solved easily and without jeopardizing a game any more than did the five heart slam try actually used. With asking bids the vital information could be safely extracted, as follows:

South.	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
4 clubs	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
5 clubs	Pass	5 no trump	Pass
6 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

The five club repeat asking bid would ferret out the vital information without putting the contract beyond the safe five heart level, the same level reached fruitlessly in the actual bidding. If North's diamonds and clubs were reversed, obviously he would sign off at five hearts.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: Both sides were vulnerable. The dealer bid one spade, second hand (my partner) overcalled with two diamonds. Third hand doubled. I held: ♠Q10875 ♥K108 ♦5 ♣KJ94

Answer: Generally speaking, a rescue is a dangerous policy. But with this very fair hand outside of the diamond suit, two no trump appears to offer a good escape.

Wardrobe Trunk

Avoid too many hangers in the wardrobe trunk; it is better to drape several garments over the same hanger. Try to avoid the weight of the articles falling at one place in the trunk. Distribute the heavier articles evenly. Fold circular skirts and flounced dresses as straight as possible, using plenty of tissue paper in order to pack them in their correct folds. Put any bottles containing perfume, medicine, etc., in your dressing case and carry them yourself. Never take the hance of packing them in the trunk with your clothes.

Frozen Plants.

Sometimes we are caught unawares and the plant is accidentally frozen. Try this method and see if you can save it. Sprinkle the plant well with cold water. Let stand for an hour and then gradually let warm air come into the room, taking about two hours for the room to become actually warm.

Various Kinds Of Fears Held By Humanity

By The Rev. J. F. Newton

WHY be afraid? What are we afraid of? Never were human beings so tormented by fear. Rich and poor, learned and unlearned alike seem to be in the grip of fears too many to count or name.

A famous editor listed five major fears of our generation, but he might have made it five thousand. Our fears are of many kinds—fear of ourselves, of others, of the present and the future, of poverty, sickness. death and strangest of all, fear of life itself.

Why should it be so? Is it the shuddering sense of insecurity that we feel? But that is not new—the world has never been a place of security. Life has always been a risk, a peril, an adventure.

Is it because our faith has grown weak and dim. Perhaps so, because when faith fades out of the heart, fear creeps in—a vile and slimy thing. It makes us creepers, cringers, cowards.

To be sure, much of our fear is a hangover from times gone by when life was more dangerous than it is today. We do not need so much fear today, and we do not know what to do with the surplus.

It is another case of over-production, and fears, once useful, but now unemployed, turn inward and tie themselves into knots, irritating our minds, making them sanctuaries of shadows.

What are we going to do about it? The conquest of fear is largely a matter of emotional control, of tying up the imagination and making it stand hitched—for our feelings make us afraid.

If our religion fails us in our fight against fear, it fails us fatally. But it will not fail us, once we lay hold of it—or, rather, let it lay hold of us with its gracious healing power.

The Bible is the one book that knows the human heart, and its favorite words are "Fear not." Every voice in the Bible speaking from the unseen, repeats those words for our comfort and peace.

It tells us to let our awed fear of God be the end of all other fears. Therein lies the wisdom of faith and the faith of wisdom.

THE MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.

THIS lackadaisical beachcomber was shuffling through Sheridan square the other day when Bob Reud, known enviously hereabouts as Garbo's only intimate, bounced around an adjacent corner.

"What makes you seem so grumpy?" he demanded.

"I'm tired," I told him. "I think I've got a fatigue germ."

"Well, maybe this will cheer you up. I just ran into Carmela Ponselle, sister of the Met. star, and she recited an episode that still has men chuckling. Not because it was so funny; it just proves that a certain fellow I dislike enormously is a blockhead. I'm bitter that way. I like to see my enemies meet up with catastrophies.

"Now to my story. Carmela was having tea the other afternoon with this person and he wanted to know all about her career.

"'Miss Ponselle,' he drawled, 'they tell me you are something of a song bird. Are any other members of your family talented that way?'

"'Well,' Carmela replied, 'they say my sister Rosa can sing a little.'"

Flash! At last bobs up the name of the original gossip columnist, notwithstanding all claims by modern scribblers to the contrary. Pietro Aretino was that worthy. A fine rogue, too, he was. His idea of fun was to mix a little intrigue with such ingredients as slander, blackmail, libel, greed and gall. Then he made friends with various cuties of the Italian Renaissance and threatened to expose them unless they paid plenty on the line. This, in modern racketeer lingo, was known as "protection," and he spared neither princes nor paupers. A bold, lusty fellow, he started a newspaper and printed the most scandalous items about the big shots of the day. Gratitude was the one word he didn't understand and this, Abner Glib rises to observe, would have made him a "natural" on Broadway. It was just his tough luck that he was born 500 years too soon.

The Hotels New Yorker and Lexington are among eight nationally famous taverns to adopt the patriotic note after the evening's festivities. Each night at the conclusion of balls and dances, the orchestral swan-song will be the National Anthem.

A DOCTOR TALKS OF HEALTH

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

Dr. Clendening

WE spoke of the newer recognition of the relationship between diseases of the teeth and diseases of the rest of the body, and referred to the conditions which a physician has to think about in order to find the cause for changes in the teeth.

The most important condition in the teeth which causes general body disease is some form of infection. It is true that in certain cases bad nutrition results from a mouth which has lost so many teeth that proper mastication is impossible, but this is too obvious to require comment.

To infection, the teeth are obviously and notoriously exposed. They are constantly in contact with germs, and any breakdown in the external defenses may allow these to enter and form a focus of infection which, on being absorbed, can possibly affect nearly any structure in the body, particularly the joints, muscles, heart, eyes or kidneys.

These infections in the teeth may take several forms. Whether pyorrhea results in any systemic infection or not depends on circumstances. Pyorrheal begins with atrophic changes in the tissues around the teeth, and may be accompanied simply by increased movability of the teeth without any actual infection. When a real pyorrhea pocket occurs with the formation of pus around the tooth, the tissues, being abundantly supplied with lymphatic capillary blood vessels, offer plenty of opportunity for bacteria to invade the general system.

* * *

INFECTION of the tip of a tooth, which can be seen readily with the X-ray, is a potential source of danger. It is true that individuals frequently carry a great many of these infections without apparent harm, and what to do about them depends very much on the judgment of the dentist and the doctor. Careless promises for the relief of systemic disease by the extraction of teeth are often given. At the same time, the importance of dental focal infection in the causation of systemic disease is very real.

The study of the relation between these focal infections and systemic disease was begun under the direction of the late Dr. Frank Billings of Chicago. Full proof of the fact that a special germ harbored in a closed space in a tooth may have an affinity for a joint surface, while another kind of a germ may have an affinity for the heart muscle or eye, has frequently been demonstrated.

People are frequently disappointed when they are advised that pain in a joint or rheumatism in one particular part of the body is caused by focal infection in a tooth, and after removal of the tooth the arthritis does not cease. The reason for this is that although the tooth might have been the original cause of the infection, the infection in the joint still remains after the tooth is pulled. It would be desirable if in all cases the focal infection could be removed before the joint infection occurs, but this is not always possible.

IN LOVE WITH A T-MAN

A Serial Romance — BY ROB EDEN

Carol Meets Nick Under Embarrassing Circumstances but Apparently Explains to His Satisfaction.

CHAPTER FIVE.

AT FIRST her mind was a wild panic, and she thought that her heart would burst in her chest. The panic only lasted a moment, however, for somewhere back of the panic came a warning that told her to keep her head. The warning washed away some of the panic—not all of it, but enough so that she could turn and say in a shaky voice, "Oh, you frightened me—you must be Nick—I'm Doris Gregg—"

The frantic quick pumping of her heart changed into a slow pumping; she thought Nick should hear it where he stood. A slow heavy pumping that made it hard for her to breathe, to even see him at the other end of the room.

"Yes," he said as he came forward, looking at her, a frown deepening on his forehead. "I'm Nick." He took a chair and put it near hers, and sat down on it.

"I—I was going to use your phone. Hope you don't mind." She tried to smile and be light and gay, but the lightness and gayness she wanted to get into her voice wouldn't come. Her words fell flatly. She could hear them but they were almost as if some other person were speaking.

He didn't say anything but he was looking at her and the frown was leaving his forehead—not the furrows though, they were permanent, and a smile was coming on his face, not a welcoming smile, however.

"I didn't feel well enough to go with Margaret and Larry, so they put me to bed, but I couldn't sleep—" How lucky she had been—just sitting at the desk when he came in! How lucky she was not foraging through his clothes in the chest, or searching through the drawers of his desk! She could get by with the explanation of the telephone—perhaps—but how could she have explained taking out his underwear piece by piece, unrolling his sox one by one.

* * *

She felt a hot rush of blood tingling through her face, her hands, and the slow pump, pump, pump of her heart quickened again.

Back of her Jessica's picture, and staring at her Nick Oliver. . . .

"Margaret said you were going to meet them at the party—" She had to talk. Talking kept away the panic. "She said you were coming after dinner."

Her hand slid into the pocket of the tailored robe she was wearing. It was the right pocket, and her fingers touched Devlin's bunch of skeleton keys, tightened around them, gave her a little comfort because she had to grip something, anything.

"I came home to dress," Nick Oliver said, touching the left cuff of his coat. Carol saw the watch there, too, saw the thin gold hands pointing to quarter of ten, and the keys bit into the palms of her hands. Eight-thiry when she had left her room across the hall! Had she been in Nick's room an hour and a quarter?

"Sorry," and she struggled to her feet. "I'll go if you want to dress."

"No, go ahead with your call. My dressing can wait, if I dress at all. Have a notion not to go after all. Phone book is in this rack, if you want it." He reached over and got the book and put it on the desk.

"I know the number, thanks." Carol sat down again and reached for the phone with her left hand. Her right hand she took reluctantly from the comfort of the keys. If Nick expected her to phone, phone she must. So she dialed a number slowly, knowing that Nick was watching every move she made with her fingers.

It was a number she made up, but which she repeated silently to herself when she finished. She didn't expect to connect with it, because it was faked.

She expected the voice of the operator to tell her she had the wrong number, and she had her story ready for that, both for the operator and for Nick. That she must have copied the number incorrectly in her address book.

* * *

BUT no operator cut in, and she heard distinctly one ring after another. Nick must have heard them, too, for they seemed to bellow through the quiet room. Any moment she expected to hear a voice in her ear, but she didn't, and after a time, she put down the phone.

"Not home, I guess," she murmured, rising. "Well, it doesn't matter. I can try again tomorrow."

SYNOPSIS:

CAROL MAYO is suddenly, and for the time being only, a secret service operative! She is a spy, accepted as a guest in the household of socially prominent NICK and LARRY OLIVER who are suspected of being counterfeiters. She has been welcomed by MARGARET, wife of Larry, as DORIS GREGG, a friend of Margaret's sister. None of the Olivers know that Doris Gregg has changed her mind about visiting Los Angeles because her message had been intercepted by PAUL DEVLIN.

Devlin is a T-MAN, a treasury secret service agent, and the real reason Carol has become an operative. For Carol loves Devlin, for whom she has acted as secretary for four months—loves him in spite of his evident infatuation with JESSICA REYNOLDS, a beautiful young widow whom he has met since opening the "real estate" office which is his "front."

Arriving in Los Angeles as Doris Gregg, Carol is met by Margaret—whom she likes. Taken to the Oliver home she is urged by Margaret to accompany her hosts to a dinner party in which she has been included. Carol, however, coached by Devlin in advance, pleads a headache from the train ride and goes to bed. After the Olivers leave for the party she plans to ransack Nick Oliver's room for any evidence that will connect him with the counterfeiting ring.

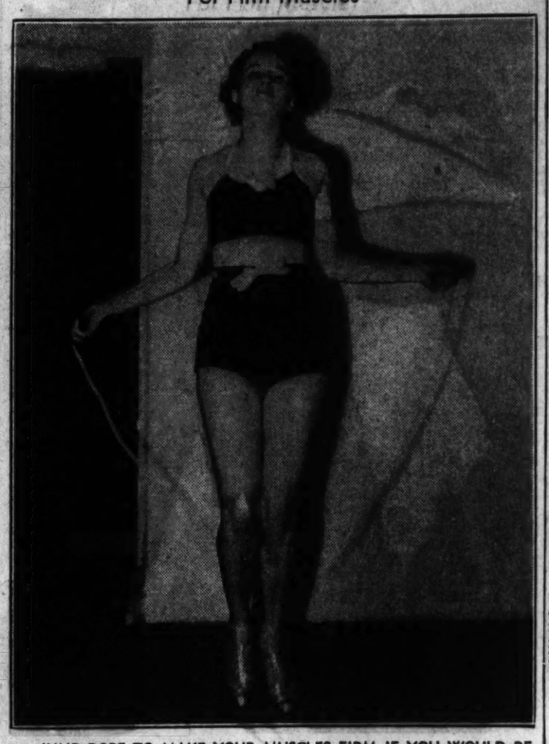

The ruse succeeds and Carol, after having gone through Nick's dresser and desk without success, sits by his desk, working up courage to go on with the search. She notices on the desk an exact duplicate of the picture of Jessica Reynolds that Paul Devlin keeps on his desk. While still absorbed in this discovery she is interrupted by Nick himself. She is panic stricken.

"Friend from New York?"

"Friend of a friend from New York. I promised I'd phone here. And now I mustn't keep you any longer—"

"Sit down, Doris. Don't mind if I call you Doris, do you? And I'm not going to the party, so I don't have to dress." He lighted a cigaret, taking puffs of it hungrily.

Carol sat down again, although she didn't want to. What she wanted more than anything else in the world at that moment, even more than she wanted to see Paul, was to get out of the room, away from Nick. It seemed like a strange bad dream that she should be in the house, in this room with Nick.

But it wasn't a strange bad dream. It was actual, it was real. Her left arm rested on the arm of his desk chair, her right hand was touching the bunch of skeleton keys in her pocket. She was looking at Nick, watching the smoke curl up from his cigarette, forcing her lips to smile.

She could have reached out her hand and touched him if she wanted to. Their knees were very close, and the lamp was making an intimate pool of light about them.

All the time, too, she was conscious of Jessica, back of her fright of Nick and the fright of being with him. Even though it was only her picture on the wall, she had the same feeling she had when she went into Paul's office. That three of them were present. In Paul's private office, she and Paul and Jessica. Here, with Nick, she and Nick and Jessica.

While she sat answering Nick's questions, how was her trip, how did she like Los Angeles, what would she like to do while she was here, she seemed to have two separate identities. The social one, which demanded that she reply to Nick and was prompting her answers and another which was appraising him while she was replying.

She, Carol Mayo, sitting talking to a man who was suspected by the Treasury Department of being the leader of a ring of counterfeiters.

A man who directed the making of fake $10 and $20 bills—bills so cleverly conceived that many of them were never discovered, and never would be discovered. A man who was so careful about his operations that there was nothing yet to connect him with this gigantic forgery of national money.

With all Devlin's astuteness, he had not been able to trace one of the bills to the house at 294 Roxmore drive, Beverly Hills. Yet the bills continued to get into circulation. In the past few weeks $50,000 worth of them had passed through race tracks and gambling houses throughout the country.

* * *

NICK'S hands were hands that were never still. Carol found her eyes attracted to them more and more as she sat with him. They were the hands an artist might have, she decided. The fingers long and tapering, the nails well kept, the flesh on them tanned as was the flesh on his face, the wrists slender.

His body might be still—it was still, not even a muscle on his face appeared to move when he was not talking—but his hands were restless, and in their restlessness they seemed detached from his body. It was uncanny to see his body so quiet and his hands so active.

The left one held his cigarette, on which ashes formed constantly and which he flicked on the floor as fast as they formed, the right one moved here, there, brushing some fancied dust from his coat, fiddling with a match box, twirling a knife he had taken from his pocket, all this without any movement of his shoulders.

His actual face, as she saw it now, was not so hard or set as that of the photograph. And the charm did not show in the photograph. For Nick had charm, and a good deal of charm. She felt it was the kind of charm that could be turned on and off at will.

At first when he had found her in his room, it had definitely been turned off. Now, the last few minutes, he had turned it on.

Why there had been that change in his attitude she didn't know, but it was encouraging. It made her less afraid, a little more sure of herself.

It finally gave her courage to get up and say that she must go to bed, that she was very tired, and the added courage of shaking Nick's hand when he walked to the door with her. She couldn't have done that at first, she couldn't have touched him without giving herself away.

In her own room with the door locked, she didn't go to sleep. She huddled in one of the big chairs, a blanket over her knees because it was chilly, going over every incident of her adventure in Nick's room—that room where a man had lived over two years and yet which held nothing personal except his clothes, his cigarettes — and that photograph of Mrs. Reynolds.

None of the little traps a man collects with two years' residence in a house. No personal notes—it might have been a hotel room where Nick Oliver was spending a week or a month.

She heard Larry and Margaret come in quietly about 1:30 — for she checked the time on her watch when the car went into the garage. They made hardly any noise as they came upstairs, and in a little while the house was dead once more.

"It's all right," she kept saying to herself until she finally fell asleep in the chair, more from nervous fatigue than from physical fatigue. "Everything is all right. I know it is—"

Let's EXPLORE Your MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

See Whether His Opinions Agree With Your Own

AUTHOR'S NOTE: Answers are from the scientific viewpoint. Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals.

1. —Dr. Walter N. Thayer, Commissioner of Corrections of the State of New York, said recently that in his 43 years of personal contact with prisoners he had met less than 50 college graduates and that in the year 1932 when he made the inspection, not a single high school graduate was in the Elmira Reformatory. Warden Johnston of the Alcatraz prison also said he had read many articles about the great number of persons in prison holding college degrees but added: "Frankly, I have not met them —not in any great number. The great majority of criminals lack education." Furthermore, nearly all criminals begin as delinquent boys before the end of the eighth grade.

2. —Not a particle. The blood has no more to do with heredity than the bones or muscles or teeth or the nails. The child is born not from the body cells of either parent, but from the reproductive cells known as germ-cells—special cells that are set aside when the parents themselves were born and which they have merely carried as trustees. What they do or do not do or whatever blood they receive from others or whatever habits they form or whether they educate or do not educate themselves, has no known effect upon these precious life cells. This, to my mind, is the most fortunate fact in all nature.

3. —It's a temptation to joke about this but it is truly one of the deepest facts of all human social intercourses for both men and women. As I quoted Peter Joray the other day, for a woman to show interest in what a man is saying is the way to interest him and it applies equally to men who wish to interest and charm women. It is the fundamental law for getting along well and happily—indeed charmingly—with other people.

Lost Ring

By Thomas Dewey

"SO I fell in love . . ."

Jay Gregory leaned across the table in the dimly lighted cafe and observed his fingertips. Polly sat watching him, waiting for him to go on. But he didn't go on. He went back.

"So I fell in love with a woman," he said. "Isn't that silly?"

Polly smiled.

"Well," she said, "it might have been sillier."

"How's that?"

"It might have been a monkey."

Jay laughed. Good old Polly. Always finding the funniest side of a thing, relieving tension. Perfectly poised and sane, that was Polly.

"Why do you tell me?" she asked.

"You're my best friend, Polly. I just like to tell you about the swell things that happen to me. Oh, she's marvelous! I want you to meet her."

"What's her name?"

"Julie. I've given her a ring."

"Already!" That's efficiency, Jay."

"A ring that mother left me. I had it with me when I met her. She thought it was very beautiful, so I gave it to her. She didn't want to take it. But at last she did. It was a little large, and I'm to have it fixed."

Polly looked away. When she turned back, Jay was asking for the check.

"Thinking of going somewhere?" Polly asked.

"Yes. She will meet me in the park at 2 to give me the ring. We have 15 minutes. Come along. You'll have a chance to meet her and fall in love with her as I did."

"I'm sure of it," said Polly.

"You will love her, Polly. She's like a little child, so full of life and energy. But she's quite a woman, really."

As they walked along Polly thought of headstrong Jay beside her. She liked being his friend, picking up the loose ends of his mind as he rushed into something new every day. He would rush into love the same way. She liked being his friend, but—

At the park they followed the wide path toward a clump of bushes enclosing a little cleared space. Just before they reached it Jay grasped Polly's arm.

"Her voice!" he whispered.

"O. K., Romeo," said Polly, "lead on."

They walked quickly toward the clearing, and then when he could see beyond the bushes Jay suddenly stopped again. Polly stood beside him, looking on.

"Trouble, Mr. Gregory, in paradise?" she said slyly. But he didn't hear.

Beyond the bushes a young woman, a tiny woman with a mass of brown hair, was rushing about frantically, searching for something. And on a bench nearby sat a giant of a man wearing rough clothes. He was very much amused.

"Is that Juliet?" Polly asked.

"Julie!" said Jay impatiently.

"Who's the gentleman?"

Jay answered slowly:

"I wouldn't know."

They stood watching and listening.

The young woman was almost in tears.

"What shall I do?" she said. "I've lost it. I was to give it back to him today, and now I can't find it! Oh-h!"

"Take it easy, little girl," said the giant. "He won't kill you."

"But I must find it! And I'm not a little girl!" She stamped her foot, but it didn't make much difference. It was such a tiny foot.

"Ah!" exclaimed the big man, "you're so little I almost need a microscope to see you."

"Please help me!"

The man got up from the bench and began to look around. Jay's face was a study in bewilderment as he watched.

Suddenly Julie stopped looking. "Who are you, anyway?" she asked the giant.

"I'm . . . I travel around," he said.

"Oh, a vagabond!"

"No. Just a bum."

"It must be great fun," Julie said.

"Yeah."

• • •

JAY and Polly went toward them. When Julie saw Jay, she sprang to her feet. The big man stood up slowly.

"Hello!" Julie said.

"Hello, Julie," said Jay.

"I—I lost your ring."

"Never mind," Jay said. "We'll find it. Julie, this is Polly."

"How do you do?" Polly was very kind.

"Hello," said Julie. "This is—this is—" she waved her hand at the giant.

"Mike," he said.

"Mike."

"We'll all take a little space and look for the ring," Jay ordered.

They scattered and began searching the ground. Polly wandered off down the path.

"I'm awfully sorry," Julie said to Jay. "You shouldn't have given me the ring in the first place. I was going to give it back to you today, to keep. You see—I am not sure I love you."

Jay said nothing. After a while he looked up.

"Where's Polly?" he asked. She had disappeared. Jay called, and she answered:

"Here I am."

As she came to them, Julie asked anxiously:

"Did you find it?"

Polly only smiled. Julie started to say something more and then stopped. She was looking at Polly's left hand.

"Why, look!" Julia said. "It's on her finger! How did it get there? . . . But I'm glad. It just fits."

"Yes, it does," Polly said. She was looking at Jay.

Jay took Polly's arm and they walked off together. When they had gone a little way, they stopped. Jay took Polly in his arms.

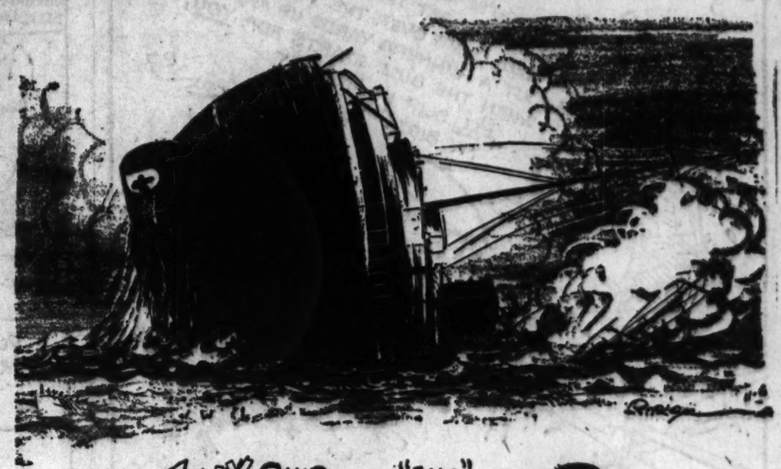

"Oh, look!" said Julie to Mike. "He's kissing her. Isn't that wonderful?"

"Yeah," said Mike.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE LIGHTHOUSE BUILT ON COTTON—The erection of the Leasowe Lighthouse on the sandy Wirral shore, England, presented an unsurmountable difficulty, because of the instability of the sandy shore and the lack of a suitable foundation for the masonry tower. The difficulty was solved in a very strange manner. An incoming American ship laden with cotton had gone ashore and was wrecked nearby. The bales were salvaged, and dumped into the sand at the point where the Lighthouse was to be erected. The fleecy mass settled into the sand and became as solid as the hardest rock. On this curious foundation, the Lighthouse was erected and has endured for 175 years.

Self-Consciousness Makes You Lonely

POOR lonely Dot! Her book's no substitute for friends. Yet her timid, self-conscious manner keeps people at a distance.

You can overcome your timidity by daily practice, Dot. Start by making yourself speak to strangers. Ask the policeman the way to Pine street—even if you already know. Discuss the weather with the smiling woman waiting on your corner for the bus. Say a few extra words to the drug store clerk, the cleaning woman, the librarian.

Read the papers—movie and book reviews, too. Stock up on funny stories. Now you'll have something to say to the people you want for friends.

Overcome self-consciousness and other forms of inferiority complexes. Follow simple rules of an eminent psychologist to gain self-confidence and assurance. You'll find our 32-page booklet a priceless aid.

Send 10c for your copy of OVERCOMING SELF-CONSCIOUSNESS AND OTHER INFERIORITY COMPLEXES to St. Louis Post-Dispatch Home Service, 835 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Still to Be Heard From

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

THIS is the first Friday before the first Saturday in November. A date that has the political significance of a shucked oyster. But the election is not yet over. We must still hear from the outlying counties.

* * *

And when we hear from the outlying counties, what do we hear? An echo answers, "We wuz cheated." For all the outlying counties ever broadcast is a tale of chicanery, woe and man's inhumanity to man. The outlying counties claim everything, concede nothing and demand a recount.

* * *

The outlying county is the court of last resort, the tempered wind and the port in any storm. A candidate will be snowed under on election night, but he will be like a flea on a wet dog. He will crawl up on the tip of the hound's ear and refuse to abdicate. The outlying counties are the shovels which will bail him out.

* * *

There is no blizzard so deep and slushy that hope fails to spring eternal in the human breast. Even though the candidate is running 16 million votes behind his field he still thinks the outlying counties will rush up like Bluchers at Waterloo and thrash them like Lizzie Borden, who grabbed an ax and slapped her pappa 40 whacks.

* * *

The next day's reports never change a thing except the date on the calendar. We can also except the historic California vote on Hughes in 1916. But we must exclude this untoward political temblor because California would wax indignant if you called it an outlying county.

* * *

Therefore, outside of Kentucky, you can regard Tuesday's balloting as final. Because of high political feeling and much higher marksmanship ratings, Kentucky's ballots are always checked up the next day.

* * *

This postpones the shootings for 24 hours and gives Blue Grass politicians a temporary advantage in insurance rates. But you can't refer to Kentucky as an outlying county without having the hot-blooded lads from the land of heliotrope hay and purple alfalfa shoot off your whiskers against the grain.

* * *

So, after all, it would be better to ignore the outlying counties altogether and just depend on the people.
